He Is Not Alone

This letter was written by a mother to the commanding officer of her late son, Charles P. Bell, shortly after the young soldier was killed in combat with the 96th Division.

Clifford L. Meyers
1st Lieut., 383rd Infantry
Commanding, Co. K

2315 Morgan Street
Houston, Texas
September 17, 1945

Dear Lt. Meyers:

Your letter of September 3 came to us Friday. I want you to know that we are deeply grateful for it, for I am sure that you have a great many letters very similar to ours to answer.

In my grief, until I had your letter, I had thought of my son as having been so far away from friends and so "alone"; but I fully realize now, that if there can be such a thing as companionship in death, he has that companionship. And it seems to ease the pain a little to realize that he is sleeping with his "buddies," for in the last letter we had, he told us that his nearest buddies were gone. So, until we can bring him home, I know that he is not alone.

Lt. Meyers, my son was the very core of my heart—all my hopes, plans, and future were tied up in his. There was a closeness and understanding between us that no one else ever shared. Life can never hold for me the joy I knew when I had him. But I know there is but one thing I can do for him now, and that is to carry on as nearly as possible the things that would make him happy if he knew—and perhaps he does.

I get very little comfort from any feeling of "patriotism." I know my son was brave, but he had no illusions about war. He wanted to go—but not because he had any illusions about it! He wanted to go because he felt that it was as much his job as any other boy's. He loved us and hated to leave his home, and he hated the whole filthy mess of war. He loved beauty, good music, good books, all out-door sports—well, he just loved life. And he had to say goodbye to all happiness of living when he had hardly begun to live—because some dangerous beasts in the world were allowed to go free!

We cannot bring him back, nor all the thousands of grand guys who sleep beside him; but those of us who live should be able to see that the ones coming back, and their children and their children's children never have to pay such a price again. Mr. Bell and I have vowed to do all in our power to help. We are just plain people, without much money, but we feel if we dedicate our hearts and lives to such a cause, the way will be open to us.

We would adopt a son, but we are too old to take a young boy; but if we could find a young lad of 19 or 20 coming out of the service who has no home to go to, and who would like to finish college, we will gladly give him a home and help him all we can. If you should happen to know such a one, let him write to us.

I hope that this letter has not bored you. It would be too much to hope for an answer, for I know your days are full, but I want to thank you again, and say "God Bless You."

Sincerely,

Mrs. Virginia F. Bell.
