Joseph D. Conwill, Jr., 1st Lt., Army Air force, died of wounds in German war prison, April 2, 1945. Was pilot of lead ship in a B-17 Flying Fortress group based in England, 487th Bomber group, 8th Air force. Had made several heavy bombing attacks on industrial targets in Germany. Was shot down by anti-aircraft fire near Neuruppin, Germany, the plane coming down in flames, from direct hit in the gasoline tank. All the crew except Lt. Conwill and two others killed. Conwill bailed out, sustaining a fractured hip when he landed. Was taken prisoner, the Germans refusing him medical aid in the prison camp, where it was found necessary to amputate his mangled leg. A Russian doctor, also a prisoner in the camp, cared for him as best he could, but the Germans refused to allow him to use surgical instruments or medical supplies.

The Russian doctor managed to steal some medicines at risk of his own life, but despite his efforts Lt. Conwill died about three weeks later on Easter Sunday. In a letter, after the end of the war, the Russian, Dr. Vladimir Agnaev, now of Moscow, wrote Lt. Conwill's mother:

"If I had had a chance to perform an operation Joseph undoubtedly would have lived. All my begging and arguments that a man was dying because of lack of trifles were not convincing enough for the Fascists. They told me: 'German instruments and medicines are for German soldiers, not for enemies. We did not want him here. Let him die,' they said. Until the last two days Joseph was conscious. He was a hero and a patriot."

Lt. Conwill was a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Conwill, 306 Crescent Blvd.

Commanding regiment that smashed the Japanese Yamashita line in Leyte. Awarded Distinguished Service Cross (posthumous) "for extraordinary hero-ism." The citation said: "Charged with capturing an enemy-controlled hill, Col. Hettinger moved among the men of his forward elements, encouraging them and supervising their preparations for a planned assault when the enemy attacked with withering fire from machine guns which caused many casualties. With no thought of his own safety, Col. Hettinger proceeded immediately to a strategic observation point, established radio contact with the commander of an adjoining battalion and effectively directed fire which neutralized the hostile machine gun emplacements. Meanwhile the enemy put down a sustained artillery barrage. Col. Hettinger then directed his driver and radio operator to take shelter, and in spite of suggestions that he also take cover, he remained in his exposed position in order to maintain radio contact with the regimental command post. While directing operations a direct hit instantly killed him."

Col. Hettinger, born in Hutchinson and a graduate of Hutchinson high school, began soldiering as a sergeant in Hutchinson's National guard company, Co. E. He served in World War I, going to France in 1918 as second lieutenant 76th Field artillery, Third division. Promoted to captain,

The plane was shot down, crashing at Gurech, France, only two of the crewmen escaping, parachuting out, and they were taken prisoners. All the others, including Lt. Holdren, perished.

A French woman, Mme, Cambrier, residing near Gurech, wrote, after the war, to Lt. Holdren's parents: "It happened at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon on a Saturday. The Fortress

1:30 o'clock in the afternoon on a Saturday. The Fortress passed over our house on the road between Lille and Valenciennes at an altitude of 200 or 300 meters. She was in trouble and was pursued by a German fighter which did not abandon the chase until the crash seven kilometers (about five miles) from here. Two crewmen named Anderson and Galloway jumped in a parachute and fell on our street but there were 50 or 60 people there and it was impossible to think of hiding them. Anderson was shot in the arm.

"The men in the plane defended themselves with heroic courage to the very last. The Jerrys continued to shoot until the plane went down. I saw the remains of the Fortress two days later. An eyeglass case marked 'J. F. Holdren' was found on the scene and I am holding it for disposition of his family. The bodies were placed in coffins and brought to Lille where they are buried. I shall be going soon to look over the tombs and leave some flowers and add a prayer for the families of these heroes."

A monument was erected on the spot where the bomber crashed, by the people of the village of Gurech, dedicated with a ceremony Nov. 11, 1945 with a plaque engraved with the names of the victims.

The HOME FRONT

N A SUNDAY AFTERNOON, soon after dinner, Dec. 7, 1941, Reno County people, casually listening in on the radio programs, were startled to hear emergency bulletins broadcast announcing the shocking news that enemy planes, presumably Japanese, had bombed Pearl Harbor.

They realized then what all had been fearing had come, for a global war really had started. But what they did not realize, and could not comprehend in full at the time, was what a terrible price Reno County homes would have to pay in the war ahead.

In the next four years, after that fateful Dec. 7, a total of 325 Reno County men were to die in the war. Their bones lie scattered in five continents, from Normandy Beach to Guadalcanal; from the Aleutians to Arabia, and beneath the waters of the North Atlantic and the South Pacific.

But the war really started, so far as Reno County is concerned, nearly a year before that for on Dec. 23, 1940, "M-Day" for the National Guard, the 130th Field Artillery battalion composed of three batteries and medical unit, some 400 men in all, mobilized at the state fair ground, and a few days later entrained for Camp Robinson, Ark., where the 35th Division was assembling.

They were really going off to war then, although many perhaps did not realize it, and it was not until Dec. 10, 1945, four years later, that the 130th Field Artillery returned to the home land from Germany.

The First Gold Star

It was three months before the enemy blast at Pearl Harbor that Reno County's first gold star was placed on the Barror that hero County's first gold star was placed on the service flag. Lt. John D. Armstrong gave his life in far-away Burma as the first from Reno to be killed in the war. He was engaged in training Chinese soldiers in Burma when training planes collided in mid-air and Lt. Armstrong crashed to death, Sept. 9, 1941, at Toungee, Burma.

But it was at Pearl Harbor, the great naval base in Hawaii, that the first blow of the war was struck on Dec. 7, 1941 and that the first blow of the war was struck, on Dec. 7, 1941 and there among the hundreds of others slain were eight Reno County men – Harold Kagarice, petty officer, and Wilbur D. Ellis, radioman, both on the USS Arizona; Harold Bates and Everett Windle, on the USS Oklahoma; Robert E. Clarke, gunner with an anti-aircraft unit and S 1/c Camillus O'Grady, on a battleship, and two brothers, WT 1/c Stephen L. Stucky and F 2/c James H. Stucky, navy men, both of Huntsville township.

Within a few days came the reports of death in battle, of Lt. Morgan S. McCowan of Pretty Prairie, in the Philippines Dec. 10; Ensign Robert Schubert of Hutchinson, on a ship on the Pacific Dec. 13; and Pfc. Boyd Holcom of Nickerson, at Nichols Field in the Philippines early in January.

From then on the casualty lists continued to bring the tragic news, and the little gold star emblems began to show up in the windows of scores of homes in Hutchinson and Reno County.

Crosses Around the World

In all a total of 325 men from Reno County died in the war, in all parts of the world - 135 in the European theater; 104 in the Pacific theater; 14 in Asia; 8 in Africa; 13 in the North American area outside of the United States; and 51 died from accidents on duty, mostly in training casualties, or from wounds or disease in hospitals in the United States.

The wooden crosses with names of men from Hutchinson and Reno County appeared in every part of the world, deaths being officially reported as follows: Europe – Germany, 51; France, 44; Italy, 15; Sicily, 2;

Yugoslavia, 2; Luxembourg, 3; Belgium, 7; Hungary, 1; England, 6; Rumania, 1; Holland 3. Total, European theater, 135.

Pacific theater – Hawaii, 8; Philippines, 29; Saipan, 5; Iwo Jima, 7; Guadalcanal, 1; Bougainville, 1; Java, 1; Tarawa, 1; Peleliu, 2; Solomons, 1; Marianas, 1; New Guinea, 4; Guam, 1; at sea in Pacific, 16; in China sea, 6; elsewhere in west Pacific, 20. Total, Pacific theater, 104.

Africa - Tunisia, 3; elsewhere in North Africa, 4; East Africa, 1. Total in Africa, 8.

Asia – Burma, 2; Japan, 4; India, 1; Arabia, 1; China, 4; Iran, 1; Gulf of Siam, 1. Total in Asiatic theater, 14.

North America – In North Atlantic, 9; Aleutians, 2; West Indies, 1; Greenland, 1; in United States, 51. Total in North America, 64.

Already hundreds of men were leaving for induction cen-Already hundreds of men were leaving for induction centers to join the National Guard and regular army in the armed forces. More than a year before the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor, America began raising a great force for defense of the country. On Oct. 16, 1940 all men of the nation between the ages of 21 and 36 gathered for the selective service registration in what was known as the "peace draft," and over 8,000 men in Reno County that day registered for service.

Enrolling for Service

Three draft boards were organized in Reno County, Board No. 1 composed of Bert S. Berry, chairman; J. P. O'Sullivan and Clarence E. Kerns, with Ethel Atkinson, chief clerk; Board No. 2, J. C. Bigger, chairman; Will S. Thompson and I. Gottlieb, with Juanita Gallup, chief clerk; and Board No. 3, H. D. Fossey of Nickerson, chairman; A. Lewis Oswald, Hutchinson, and W. J. Halloran, Pretty Prairie, with Mrs. Kate Carter, chief clerk.

Mrs. Carter, incidentally, had served in a similar capacity in World War I. During the ten years she served in both wars as a draft board clerk she estimates she saw more than 25,000 men inducted into the armed forces. Mrs. Carter was the only draft board clerk in the state of Kansas to serve in both wars.

On Nov. 2, 1940 the first draft order was issued in Reno County, Order No. 1 going to Frank Mason Tennant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Tennant, 510 East Ninth. Incidentally Mason Tennant had already tried to enlist in the navy; failed to pass the physical; tried again to get into the army, again failed, and even now when ordered to report by the selective service, was not accepted. But he finally made it, and went overseas as a soldier, serving in Europe with the First Army, later going to the army air force, and was still in the service after war's end, with the air corps at Smoky Hill Air Base,

The first Reno County men to leave for service as draftees were Charles Francis Erker of Sumner township, and Clare Ray Conover and Nathaniel Lockett, both of Hutchinson, who went to Fort Leavenworth for induction Nov. 22, 1940.

The three draft boards continued their services throughout the war as first organized with the exception of Board No. 3, which resigned July 30, 1944, a new board being appointed composed of T. Roy Campbell, Louis D. White and Howard Dukelow. The only other change in personnel was on Board No. 2, when I. Gottlieb resigned and Henry S. Pegues was appointed in his place.

More Than 8,000 in Uniform

From November 1940, when the first men selected for service left for induction, and January 1941, when the National Guardsmen entrained for Camp Robinson, Ark., until V-J Day, Aug. 14, 1945, more than 8,000 men left Reno County to serve in defense of their country. And during the four years following the bombing of Pearl Harbor 324 men from Reno had died and hundreds of others had gone to hospitals, many of them maimed and blinded for life.

Most pitiful of all was the plight of scores of Reno County soldiers and sailors who became prisoners of war, and were held in vile Japanese prison pens or in German concentration camps for years.

Eleven men from Reno County died while prisoners of war, four of these being killed when Japanese prison ships were torpedoed or bombed and sunk. Capt. Carl W. Schroeder and Pvt. Vern A. Sallee were killed on a Jap prison ship sunk off the Philippines by a torpedo in December 1944; Pfc. Oscar M. Swepston on a prison boat sunk in the China sea in November 1944; and Pfc. Archie King met a similar fate in the China sea in October of that year. They were among hundreds of prisoners crowded into the hulls of Japanese vessels, as they were being moved from prisons in the Philippines to Japan. American torpedo gunners and bombers did not, of course, know the Jap ships they sank contained American soldiers held as prisoners, when they bombed them.

Others who died as Japanese prisoners included Mo. MM

1/c Charles F. Linder, in a prison in Honshu, Japan; Pvt. Geo. Nesbitt, Jr., also in Japan, and T/5 Ralph L. Ross and T/Sgt. Geo. T. Roach in Jap prisons in the Philippines.

Three others died in Nazi prisons in Germany, Lt. Jos. D.

Conwill, Pfc. Elvin F. Shuff and Pfc. Gideon Moser.

A TOTAL WAR

It was a total war, so far as the home front in Reno county and Hutchison was concerned. Every home was affected, for the 8,000 men and women in uniform represented members of every family. Not a home but sent sons, daughters, brothers, sons-in-law or close relatives.

The service flags hung in every door and window, and before long, the Gold Star was in evidence in too many homes.

Everybody was helping back the boys at the front, helping win the war. Women were making surgical dressings and Red Cross supplies; men were digging up money, gathering scrap iron, serving as air raid wardens, auxiliary policemen, on the Civilian Defense force, on salvage crews, or as bond salesmen; school children were gathering waste paper, iron, rubber, or busy buying war stamps.

The digging up of nearly 24 million dollars in purchase of war bonds, besides many thousands more given to the Red Cross and other war funds was a notable contribution on the home front in Reno County.

As soon as Hutchinson boys left for the various training camps, Hutchinson women began finding ways to make life in these camps a little more pleasant.

The 35th Mothers Club

Among the first of the groups to organize for this purpose, was the Thirty-fifth division Mothers Club, composed of women whose sons were members of the National Guard, and had been sent to Camp Robinson, Ark. These mothers sent boxes of cookies to the camps, and collected and shipped furniture and other equipment for the recreation rooms. All boys leaving for camp were presented with Testaments, candy bars, gum, etc., as long as these articles could be obtained.

The soldiers from Hutchinson in the 130th FA Bn. which had left for war a year before Pearl Harbor, and were serving with the 35th division were given special attention by the 35th Division Mothers Club, which was organized soon after the National Guardsmen left for Camp Robinson, Arkansas, in January, 1941.

Mrs. Howard Hoadley and Mrs. C. L. Veatch, whose sons were in the 35th Div. were active in organizing the Mothers Club. Mrs. Veatch served as its first president and Mrs. Hoadley was its second president.

Many other organizations were active in helping make life more pleasant for the men in the camps and overseas. The American Legion put on one drive for old phonograph records, gathering large quantities, and they were made over into new records to be sent to the men overseas.

The Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts raised funds for purchase of hundreds of cartons of cigarettes sent to the service men overseas during the war.

Many individuals did outstanding service, one of special note being C. L. Leonida, Greek-born restaurant operator and World War I veteran, who personally sent 800 two-pound fruit cakes, nearly a ton in all, to that many Hutchinson service men overseas for Christmas, 1944. In addition he gave all proceeds at his restaurant at Red Cross dinners each year during the war to the Red Cross, aggregating hundreds of dollars. In one fish dinner, in February, 1943, Leonida raised $425.29 for the Red Cross.

In November, 1942, the Mothers of World War II organized a Unit in Hutchinson, and nearly all eligible members of the Thirty-fifth Division Mothers Club joined the organization, and continued working with that unit.

Troop Train Service

In the Spring of 1944, several of the women conceived the idea of having a center, located in the business district, where supplies could be kept and all groups come to prepare the food, etc., to serve the trains. The use of the first floor of the building at 322 N. Main was donated by the owner. Stoves, icebox, tables and other furniture and equipment were loaned, donated or bought, until enough had been gathered together to carry on the work. Here different groups came each morning to bake cookies, make sandwiches, sort fruit and select the magazines, cards, matches, pencils, etc., that went into the white Troop Train Service baskets to be taken to the depots in the afternoon. Accounts were kept and supplies were bought from a common fund, and all groups had equal rights to all provisions.

At the Service Centers

Some of the women did not service trains, but put in many hours working at the Center and several prominent men of the city were never too busy to give assistance when called upon. Troop Train Service received dozens of wonderful letters from men and women of nearly every rank in all branches of the service, all praising the work, and assuring the women that their kindness was more deeply appreciated than they could ever realize. Every day, in summer heat or driving rain, in winter's freezing cold or blinding snow, the women met the trains, wearing their bright arm bands and carrying the white baskets filled with offerings of good cheer and a touch of home and mother.

Most of these groups served until the Center was closed in December, 1945, Sylvia and community was very efficiently organized with fifteen or more groups who drove to Hutchinson and worked several days a week. The Haven churches also took turns in coming once a week.

The groups serving troop trains included: Sylvia Community, Haven group, including four Haven churches; American Legion auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary; Letter Carriers' Union auxiliary; Strawboard Workers auxiliary; B'Nai B'rith auxiliary; First Christian church, Emanuel Lutheran church, United Presbyterian church; Redeemer Lutheran church, Baptist Missionary circles; First Methodist Sunday school; Mothers' Prayer league; Mitchell church; WCTU Women's Relief Corps, Sterling WRC, Silver Leaf Order of Eastern Star; Martin ladies; Marine Mothers; Arms and Service club; Reno township Farm Bureau; Walnut township Farm Bureau; Partridge farm bureau; Stitch & Chatter Club, Mothers of World War II club; Amiga Club; Merry Quilters club; J. D. Club; Red Wing Pocahontas lodge and Optimist club auxiliary.

Making Surgical Dressings

One of the largest and most faithful groups was that of the Red Cross. Hundreds of women gathered almost daily in the basement of the First Presbyterian church and elsewhere to sew for the boys. Thousands of surgical dressings were made and shipped by the Red Cross for use in army and navy hospitals; thousands of helmets, gloves, jackets, and socks were knitted to be sent to the men in the trenches and jungles and camps.

The knitting needles, long idle since World War I, again began their work of love and service in February, 1942, when the Red Cross chapter received a large shipment of yarn. From then until the end of the war the Red Cross knitters were busy, making garments and things, not only for soldiers and sailors, but for families of refugees in the war stricken lands.

The Hutchinson U.S.O.

Only a few months after Pearl Harbor, in May, 1942, the increasing number of transient soldiers and sailors passing through Hutchinson stressed the need of some sort of loafing place down town where they would find hospitality.

Mrs. C. L. Veatch took the lead in establishment of a local U. S. O. The Kiwanis club promptly took up the idea and at a meeting called by the Kiwanians a U. S. O. group was organized headed by Henry Thiessen as general chairman, with Mrs. Veatch as secretary. A few days later, early in April, 1942, the U. S. O. was opened in a room on East Second, just around the corner from the Santa Fe Station. A fund was raised by public subscription to finance the operation of the U. S. O.

Before long, when it was found a naval air base was to be located in Hutchinson, bringing several thousand sailors to Hutchinson, it was realized the small room on East Second would be inadequate, and that a large U.S.O. center would have to be established.

A campaign was made for funds to finance it. In April, 1942, $14,000 was raised in a preliminary drive. V. R. Jennings, of South Hutchinson, with two sons in the service, had the distinction of being the first to subscribe. Later, the local OCD through a scrap iron drive, raised $10,000 for the U.S.O. At a U.S.O. festival held in Sylvan park July 24, thousands of dollars more were contributed.

On December 1, 1942, the United Service Organizations – the YMCA, Knights of Columbus, and Jewish welfare – Protestants, Catholics, and Jews uniting in the common cause, opened the Hutchinson U.S.O., in the former Chamber of Commerce rooms, the entire second floor of the Lewis building at First and Adams.

Here, for nearly four years, until after the end of the war, was operated one of the finest recreational centers for service men in the entire middle west. Herbert L. Graber was chairman of the U.S.O. board of directors when the center was established and continued as such through the years. Mrs. Wesley Ramer headed the Red Cross canteen corps; Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Clevenger were active in the canteen work; Mrs. O. H. McNaul was service hostess; Mrs. Henry Mohr, director of Sunday afternoon teas and "supperettes" and Jim Boyersmith, program director.

But these were only a few of the hundreds who served in one way or another in operating this popular center for soldiers and sailors. Mrs. F. G. Algeo, Mrs. O. W. Ferguson, Mrs. Guy Holt, and Mrs. Walter Pace each served more than 5,000 hours as hostesses.

Groups of young women were organized to help entertain the service men. Hundreds of Hutchinson women made thousands, perhaps millions of doughnuts and cookies. This work being divided around among the women of the various

Four different men served as directors, all of them professionals, employed by the national U.S.O. George Robb was the first, taking charge in January, 1943. He was followed by Thomas Arnett, L. J. France, and Frank Banyard, who was in charge when the U.S.O. officially closed in 1946. He remained in Hutchinson as music director of the First Presbyterian church.

During the four years the U.S.O., a "home away from home" for the 4,000 sailors at the Hutchinson naval air station was in operation. Official records show more than 400,000 service men were guests at the center. Volunteer workers rendered more than 200,000 hours of service.

For several months after the end of the war the U.S.O. was continued in operation until the gradual release of men at the naval air base reduced the necessity of maintaining the center. It officially was closed September 15, 1946.

ORGANIZE FOR DEFENSE

With the outbreak of the war, in the perilous days following the bombing of Pearl Harbor, when an unprepared America lay open to attacks by the enemy, Mayor Willis Kelly, in response to a call from the war department, took steps to organize Hutchinson for defense.

The Civilian Defense council was established on December 16, 1941, a week after the war started. Mayor Kelly became the ex-officio chairman and City Engineer, H. P. Hertz, deputy chairman. The others on the council when it was launched were: Capt. E. G. Hamilton, commanding the State Guard company; Steve B. Horrell, local representative of the National Safety Council; Carl Winner of the Central Labor Union, Wade Patton head of the Inter-club Council; Dr. Geo. E. Paine and Harold Gresens.

Albert S. Teed, then police judge, a World War I Veteran, and later district commander of the American Legion, was appointed coordinator for civilian defense.

Air Wardens and Blackouts

On January 26, 1942, citizens of Hutchinson were called on to volunteer for service as air raid wardens and in other branches of civilian defense, and 1,200 volunteers signed the rolls. The city was districted, and organized in a block-byblock defense set-up.

Don McCamant, an executive of the water and light company was appointed air raid warden chairman, and he worked out a system of air raid signals. In December, 1942, the first city-wide black out test was held, with the air raid wardens, auxiliary police and civilian defense forces participating.

Marion Scott, chief of police, later to go overseas as a captain in the army, succeeded Albert Teed as Civilian Defense coordinator for Hutchinson, and he in turn was succeeded by H. H. Heaps, and in May, 1943, by Mayor Albert D. Bell, who served as such until the end of the war.

The auxiliary police force, a large and well organized group of volunteers was headed first by Chief of Police, H. J. Sloan and later during most of the war period by Clyde Truesdell, a Hutchinson grain man.

The Civil Air Patrol, another volunteer group organized to cooperate in air defense was headed first by Vern Hinkle, who later was promoted to chief of CAP courier operations for the state of Kansas, being succeeded as head of the local CAP by Arthur H. Snyder.

"Scrap for the Jap"

It took iron, copper, alumium, paper, rubber, even waste fat to provide the munitions and implements of war, and while Reno county was busy raising men and money to win victory, the men, women, and children of Reno were also gathering millions of pounds of scrap metal, rubber, and paper - "scrap for the Jap."

A war monument that long will be remembered was the heap of scrap iron two blocks long, extending along the north side of the Santa Fe tracks, from Main to Poplar, gathered in a dramatic drive in September, 1942, in Hutchinson.

There was nearly 500 tons of scrap iron in that pile, 500 men with 150 trucks hauling the iron there on Sunday, Sept. men with 150 trucks nathing the fron there on Sunday, sept. 27. In that pile were a million pounds of metal, implements, old stoves, junked machinery, and cast off tools. There were many souvenirs of another war there, old German helmets, even two old French .75 cannon, that had been used by the 35th Div. in France in 1918, and which had been used by the Handing managing on the West Fourth road. mounted at the Harding memorial on the West Fourth road, and now were donated by the American Legion to be made into new cannon to help hurl shells once more at the enemy.

At the state fair in the fall of 1942 scrap iron to hurl at the Nazis and Japs was accepted as admission to the fair, 50 pounds of iron good for a ticket at the state fair gate. A huge pile of scrap iron was one of the exhibits at the

The school children over Reno county were enlisted in a county wide scrap iron drive in October, 1942, prizes being offered to the schools gathering the most on a per-pupil basis. In that drive, headed by Hi Heaps, as county chairman, 5,273,825 pounds of iron was gathered, an average of 101.1 pounds per capita.

The Hutchinson News-Herald had offered $570 in war stamps and bonds as prizes to the schools bringing in the most scrap iron, on the average per pupil. The Langdon rural high school with 142,700 pounds of iron gathered, won the first prize in the high school class; and Victor school, north of Haven, took first in the rural school class, with 118,366 pounds of old iron. Liberty junior high school placed first among the city schools in Hutchinson, with 63,360 pounds.

During the iron drive Hutchinson school children turned in more than 18,000 keys. Many Hutchinson fathers and mothers found the house keys missing.

Not only iron, but other metals, rubber and paper were needed in the war effort, and Hutchinson and Reno county produced these too in various drives.

"Rubber and Paper Drives"

In one rubber drive, in June, 1942, in two weeks 242 tons of old rubber tires and other rubber were gathered. The first day of that drive, June 16, 1942, fifty tons of tires were turned in. On another day, later on November 21, 1942, 50,000 old automobile tires were collected in Hutchinson for the govern-

The first salvage drive was held July 31, 1941, four months before the war actually started. This was an aluminum drive sponsored in Hutchinson by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Aluminum pots, pans, kettles and such were gathered by 425 Boy Scouts and piled on Main street. Three truck loads were gathered. C. O. Hitchcock was county chairman of that drive.

Literally carloads of waste paper were gathered, also in various paper drives. In one day, July 23, 1944, more than 85 tons of waste paper was collected in Hutchinson, one-third more than the quota set. A crew of 150 volunteer workers were engaged in the collection, of which Clyde Truesdell was general chairman.

In another drive, in which the school children did the collecting, bales of waste paper were piled high on the school grounds, many tons being hauled in trucks to the salvage centers.

Waste fats was another important item, and Hutchinson retail grocers and markets averaged taking in about fifty pounds of waste fats weekly, for use in making explosives.

THE RED CROSS

During the years of the war more than $300,000 was raised in Reno county for the support of the local chapter of the American Red Cross. V. M. Wiley and W. J. Shellenberger were the war time chairmen of the chapter. Howard Carey volunteered his services as chairman for the fund campaigns during the war. Under his leadership, with the cooperation of hundreds of volunteer men and women, quotas for the war funds were not only met but also exceeded every year by thousands of dollars. Their record of work for the years

1941 $ 4,426.13 1942 17,725.17 1942 1943 54,811.54 90,737.02 91,527.21 55,506.47 Total $314,733.54

Including the funds raised for the Red Cross and the United War Fund, a total of more than half a million dollars was given by Reno county people during the four years of war.

A drive in March, 1943, brought in $53,370 for the war fund, exceeding the quota by $1,500. In November, 1943, another united drive raised more than $100,000, exceeding the quota by $20,000. The following April another drive raised $87,118 more, and six months later, in October, 1944, another brought in $85,204 more, over the quota by $4,000. The last war fund drive, in October, 1945, also oversubscribed the quota set, raising $78,809.

These drives were not for sale of bonds for investment, but outright donations of funds. Heading the war fund drives were Howard J. Carey as Red Cross fund chairman in 1943, 1944, 1945, and 1946; and H. L. Graber, as United War fund chairman in 1942, 1943, 1944 and 1945.

THE WAR BONDS

It took huge sums of money to back up the boys in the war, and people of Reno county dug up millions of dollars in purchase of the war bonds and stamps to help carry on the war.

At least $23,000,000 worth of war bonds were sold in Reno county, recorded in the drives. And millions more were bought of which no local record was made.

During the seven bond drives the following totals were announced:

First, 1942	$ 1,880,299
Second, April, 1943	2,171,994
Third, October, 1943	4,353,930
Fourth, February, 1944	3,993,440
Fifth, June, 1944	5,087,338
Sixth, November, 1944	2,533,690
Seventh, June, 1945	3,253,000
Total	$23,273,891

Army shows, air spectacles by the naval airmen, the glamor of movie stars, colorful parades and enthusiastic rallies marked the bond sales.

The first year, 1942, was a month by month contest, different groups putting on the drives. In one month the retail merchants sponsored the drives, and the mercantile marts became a financial market, when the sales forces in the stores devoting their time to sale of war bonds.

Most spectacular was the sale in September when the moving picture industry pushed the bond drive. In one evening at the war bond party and barbecue, September 8, at the state fair ground, about $150,000 worth of bonds were sold, with Lynn Bari and Ronald Coleman from Hollywood officiating as salesmen.

On American Heroes Day, July 17, a total of $138,000 worth of bonds were disposed of and during July, Reno county bought over $250,000 worth. The goal set for the day was $50,000. Howard Watson, clothing merchant headed the drive Outstanding work was done from the very start of the war, until the end, VJ-Day, by a group of young women bond sellers, the Co-Ed Volunteers corps. The corps was organized by Charles R. Mayer, who continued as advisor of the group until he was appointed state director of the retail stores division of the bond campaign in Kansas in April, 1942. Hi Heaps then became advisor of the CEV corps. In February, 1942, then became advisor of the CEV corps. In February, 1942, the girls sold over $50,000 worth of bonds and stamps; and their sales to April, 1942, amounted to $98,000. By September, the co-ed girls had disposed of $211,790 worth of bonds. By the following February, they had sold $429,769 worth.

News-Herald carriers sold $11,035 worth of war stamps in one week in April, 1942. The local Minute Women of the war local $150,000 worth.

placed $150,000 worth of bonds in one week in November, 1942. During the bond campaigns in 1942, F. E. Goodenough, of Pretty Prairie, was county chairman; and John Fontron was city bond and stamp chairman. When the drives first started, the Hutchinson Association of Life Underwriters did much of the work, with John Rickard heading the campaign for the insurance men.

In the Second war loan drive in April, 1943, the quota set was over-subscribed more than half a million dollars, with a total of nearly 21/4 million dollars being sold, $1,784,000 of this in Hutchinson.

Six months later, the Third war bond drive was staged, John Rickard being county chairman, and in October, 1943, $4,353,000 more of bonds were sold, $150,000 over the goal, more than three million dollars of it in Hutchinson.

In February, 1944, came the fourth major call, Reno county this time being asked for three million dollars. The campaign was headed by Fred Anshutz, as county chairman and Frank Bixby, city chairman. It was oversubscribed, a total of almost four million dollars being raised in the county, $2,903,000 of it in Hutchinson.

In the Fifth war loan drive, in June, 1944, more than five million dollars worth of bonds were bought, topping all the million dollars worth of bonds were bought, topping all the seven drives during the war. The whistles of Hutchinson sounded on June 28, when it was announced the drive had "gone over the top," exceeding the quota by more than a million dollars. Of the $5,087,338, Hutchinson dug up more than four million dollars.

Earl Pearce, a Nickerson businessman, headed that record-breaking bond sales campaign, with Frank Bixby, Hutchinson, as city chairman.

Outstanding work in this bond drive was done by C. L. Leonida, Hutchinson cafe owner, native of Greece, a veteran of World War I, and with two sons in the service in this war. He personally sold $1,140,000 worth of bonds in June, 1944, making a total of $1,891,000 sold by him up to that time, since the start of the war.

Before the end of the war, Leonida had made the remarkable record of personally booking orders for $10,017,450 worth of war bonds. He made a practice of serving a free meal at his cafe with every bond sale, and spent over $15,000 of his personal funds in this sales bonus.

THE NAVY AIR BASE

With the establishment a few miles southeast of Hutchinson, of the naval air base, to be known as the Hutchinson Naval Air Station, in 1942, Hutchinson, although in the very center of the United States, 2,000 miles from both oceans, became a naval center.

It was on July 12, 1942, that announcement was made officially that the naval air installation would be located here and that the four-square mile site, 2,560 acres, in Yoder township, had been approved for the base.

The Navy took over the Convention Hall for offices July 29, 1942; later moving to the top floor of the First National Bank Building and still later taking over the old post office building.

On August 10, 1942, the new naval air base was commissioned, two months ahead of schedule and November 5, 1942, the first naval air cadets arrived to start training.

The first class of cadets graduated from the NAS on June 26, 1943. By two years later, in July, 1943, there were more than 4,000 men stationed at the base, including 3,700 enlisted personnel, 900 officers, and 625 civilian workers.

In 1944 the base was enlarged at an additional cost of $4,543,950 and changed from primary training to operational training. The first Liberators, PB 4Y1, arrived at the base March 12, 1944, for the operational training. A year later a further change was made, the first Privateers, PB4Y, arriving at the base.

Cdr. W. C. King was in command at the base from August, 1942, to May, 1945, being succeeded then by Capt. L. L. Hunt. As the war came to an end another change was made in the base operation, the training of men for the "ready air reserve" starting July 1, 1946, this being one of seven naval air stations designated for this training.
With 4,000 navy men at a base a few miles from the city, and hundreds of men in navy uniforms on the streets, it was not surprising that Hutchinson should be navy-minded.

But months before the navy base was started, the naval recruiting station in Hutchinson had enrolled hundreds of men for the navy.
On December 22, 1941, two weeks after the Japs had bombed Pearl Harbor, T. C. Holleman, naval recruiter in Hutchinson announced 101 men had been enlisted for the navy in two weeks. On August 12, 1942, the 600th man since Pearl Harbor had been enlisted here, Sept. 2, the 700th man was sworn in; and Oct. 6, the 1,000th naval recruit in Hutchinson since Pearl Harbor in ten months, was reported, Melvin Zumalt being No. 1,000.

By November, Holleman announced he had enough recruits

Three months before the war started, on September 4, 1941, a Navy club was organized in Hutchinson, with Ed Humiston, a former "gob" as the first skipper. Also very soon a city-wide organization of the Navy League was formed with Roy Davis, a naval officer in World War I as the head, to back up the navy in every possible way, and later cooperated closely with the establishment and operation of the naval base here.

The U.S.S. Hutchinson, named after the city of Hutchinson, as it was being launched

Mrs. Arthur T. Cole, mother of five sailor sons of Hutchinson, christened the U.S.S. Hutchinson

The U.S.S. Hutchinson

With such an interest here in the navy, it is not surprising that a navy vessel was named after Hutchinson, the USS Hutchinson, a coast guard unit, later on duty with a destroyer flotilla on the Pacific.

The USS Hutchinson was officially christened, when launched on the California coast by Mrs. Arthur T. Cole, 1726 East Fourth, mother of five sons in the navy.

School children of Hutchinson raised a fund of $2,200 in pennies for gifts for the Hutchinson. A radio-phonograph and set of records was purchased for the vessel, costing $500. It was intended to buy a silver service for the frigate with the balance, but it could not be purchased in time of war, and the balance was invested in $1,700 in war bonds to be used later in getting the gift.

The Hutchinson, known by the navy as PF-45, patrol frigate, was christened August 27, 1943, at the launching at Mare Island, California.

The frigate joined a destroyer flotilla that was sent over the Pacific to meet the enemy. The Hutchinson participated in the invasion attack in the Philippines at San Pedro Bay and in Leyte Gulf, and was in operations at Wewak and Aitape, in eastern Guinea, Noenpoor Island and Cape Sansabar, western New Guinea, and Morotai, Halmabera Islands.

The Hutchinson was with Task Force 70, engaged in antisubmarine warfare operations, and on patrol work in the New Guinea area. Later the Hutchinson served on escort duty for aircraft carriers then based at Hollandia, and on convoy escort duty to Leyte Gulf, in the Philippines.

In one running battle with a Jap plane patrol, the Hutchinson's gun crew was credited with bringing down two enemy planes and assisting in bagging two more. The Hutchinson was on an important war-cruise watch at Morotai, and was off the coast of Australia on scouting duty when V-J Day

The crew of the vessel bearing Hutchinson's name was awarded the Asiatic-Pacific campaign ribbon with two battle stars, and Philippine campaign ribbon with one battle star, having participated in three major sea battles.

One Hutchinson boy was in the crew on the USS Hutchinson, Seaman 1/c J. Nelson Curry, whose home was at 1100 East 17th. In a letter to Secretary Bert Snyder, of the Hutchinson Chamber of Commerce Seaman Curry wrote after the naval battle off Leyte:

"The USS Hutchinson is a great ship and you may feel assured we will be in the game every minute. The crew of the Hutchinson was first to detect and open fire on attacking Jap aircraft in the Leyte engagement. Thirteen planes were downed and the Hutchinson was credited with downing three. "Since we left the United States we have plowed through nearly 35,000 miles of brine and have crossed the equator more than 100 times. The USS Hutchinson played an important role in the Philippines invasion and the naval battle off Leyte. I feel that you will be happy to know of the Hutchinson's part in this operation."

THE NATIONAL GUARD

"M-Day" for the Hutchinson National Guard battalion, the 1st Bn., 130th Field Artillery, was two days before Christmas, December 23, 1940, when the 400 men comprising the battalion mobilized at the brick and concrete 4-H Club encampment building at the State Fair ground, Hutchinson.

The men knew they were to go to Camp Robinson, Ark., for a period of intensive training with the 35th Division, but they little realized when they left for the camp in Arkansas, less than two weeks later, that it would be four years before they returned to the home station.

They could not foresee that before the battalion would return to Kansas they would be fighting in Normandy, France, Germany, the Aleutians, and across the Pacific. They little knew that men of the Hutchinson battalion would be in Europe, and across the Pacific before the 130th FA would return home.

In a chapel service held on the Sunday before the battalion departed Capt. J. H. Chillington, regimental chaplain, who left his pulpit as rector of Grace Episcopal Church to go to war with the 130th, uttered prophetic words:

"We are about to depart in the service of our Country. Before we return we may be called on to make the extreme sacrifice. Some may not return, but I am sure the men of this battalion will carry on in a way that will bring honor to our regiment, and to our home city and state. We go in defense of the freedom of people and the rights of man. We know that our cause is right and righteousness will prevail."

More than 2,000 people gathered in the bitter cold Sunday afternoon, December 29, to witness the farewell review of the Hutchinson battalion.

Mayor Willis Kelly in greeting the Artillerymen said: "This is the fourth time that National Guard units from Hutchinson have left for defense of our Country. In 1898 two units, an infantry company, Co. E, and the regimental band left for service in the Spanish-American War. In 1916 an infantry company went to the Mexican border for National defense. In 1917 a battalion of the 137th Inf., four units went from Hutchinson to serve in France in World War I, and now for the fourth time National Guardsmen again are going from Hutchinson to answer our Country's call.

"Each unit in the past has established records of efficient service," the mayor continued. "I know you, too, will serve well, and will carry on in the same spirit."

Ten days later, on Jan. 3, 1941, a special train of ten cars pulled out over the Santa Fe, from the State Fair Ground spur, to carry all but 47 of the men of the battalion to the camp near Little Rock, Arkansas. A detail of 47 went overland with a motor column, taking the guns, trucks, and other equipment.

The 130th F. A.

Camp Lemmon as the mobilization camp at the state fair ground was known, named after the late Maj. Fred L. Lemmon, who commanded the infantry battalion that went from Hutchinson in World War I, mobilizing at this same state fair ground, was commanded by Maj. Harvey R. Rankin, as commander of the 1st battalion.

Other Hutchinson men were regimental officers of the 130th FA, Col. Guy Rexroad as regimental commander; Lt. Col. D. J. Wilson, former mayor and postmaster was executive officer of the 60th Field Artillery brigade; Capt. J. Clyde Rauh was regimental adjutant and Capt. J. H. Chillington, regimental chaplain. They all mobilized with the headquarters units at Topeka, going from there to the Arkansas base

On the battalion staff at Camp Lemmon with Maj. Rankin were Maj. Elmer L. Lentz, as executive officer; Capt. L. M. Howell, 1st Lt. Konard Beck and 1st Lt. Laverne Fenn.

Officers commanding the four units of the battalion and non-coms were:

Battery A - Capt. Wm. N. Pearce, (who returned from overseas as a colonel); 1st Lt. Desmond P. Wilson, (later to become a major in China); 2nd Lt. Ralph B. Coffin, (serving as a lieutenant colonel in Germany); 2nd Lt. Harold Williams (a major in the army air force in England); and 1st Sgt. Alfred H. Battin (who later was master sergeant in military police in California.)

Battery B - Capt. Floyd Abbott, commanding (released for disability while at Camp Robinson, Ark.); 1st Lt. E. R. Lord (who became a lieutenant colonel, in Okinawa); 2nd Lt. John K. Houston (who served as a major in Germany); 2nd Lt. John W. Bennett (later a captain in the Aleutians); 2nd Lt. Lawrence C. Schubert (later with a field artillery unit in Australia) and 1st/Sgt. Ralph K. Thompson, who accompanied the battery through the battling in Europe.

Battery C - Capt. Alva L. Fenn, commanding (later colonel with Patton's army in the ETO); 1st Lt. Denzil R. Lowe (later a lieutenant colonel commanding a POW camp in Germany); 2nd Lt. Russell Hughes (later in the Aleutians); 2nd Lt. Norman Abbott (to the Aleutians and across the Pacific as a captain); 2nd Lt. Harold Abbott (later a captain in Germany); 2nd Lt. John H. Rooney (who became a captain in Alaska); and 1st/Sgt. Lawrence B. Dicus (who became a master sergeant in California.)

Medical Detachment – Major E. K. Lawrence, commanding; Capt. I. J. Jones, Capt. J. A. Pinkser, and T/Sgt. Arch T. Elliott (who later became a first lieutenant in New Guinea and the Philippines.)

Of the staff officers, Maj. Harvey Rankin became a lieutenant colonel on duty in Nevada; Maj. Elmer L. Lentz a lieutenant colonel in Germany; Lt. Konard Beck a lieutenant colonel in Europe, and Lt. Laverne Fenn a major in Japan.

Col. Guy Rexroad, who took the 130th FA from Kansas to Camp Robinson, had been with the National Guard since 1915 when he organized the machine gun company in Hutchinson, which went to France in World War I, as a unit of the 137th Inf., 35th Div. In France, in 1918-1919 Rexroad, then a captain commanded an infantry company in the 140th Inf., 35th Div., and was badiy wounded in the Argonne battle. After the return from overseas, Rexroad was largely instrumental in the organization of the National Guard Field Artillery Battalion in Hutchinson, and became Colonel, commanding the 130th FA Regiment.

But the 130th ceased to be a regiment when it mobilized with the 35th Division at Camp Robinson, Ark., for World War II. The regiment was broken into three separate units. The old 1st battalion, comprising the Hutchinson batteries, became the 130th FA Battalion. The second battalion which had mobilized at Hiawatha, became the 154 FA Bn. and was sent to Alaska where it remained about a year, and then was split two more ways forming two more battalions which were sent across the Pacific.

It was on March 1, 1942 that the 1st Bn., 130th FA ceased to be part of the 130th regiment, but was redesignated as the 130th FA Battalion (105 mm. How.) of the 35th Division

Artillery.

After taking the AGF tests at Fort Ord, Calif., the 35th Division became tactically employed in defense of the west coast. The 130th occupied the coastal defense positions in the Santa Barbara area. While there it cadred the 219 FA Bn. unit and remained in the Western Defense Command as the 35th Division service. The 130th was assigned to the Field Artillery School at Fort Sill, Okla., in February, 1944, where it featured as a crack demonstration unit.

On December 2, 1944, the 130th sailed from Boston for Europe, passing through Camp Miles Standish, the Boston staging area commanded by the 130th's former regimental commander, Col. Rexroad.

Col. Rexroad who had served as Camp commander at Camp Robinson was later appointed regulating officer to move the 35th Division to the Pacific Coast, and after serving as commanding officer of the Bay Shore staging area at San Francisco, was transferred to the Boston port of embarkation.

The 130th arrived in England December 10, 1944, and served in France and Germany nearly a year. The battalion returned to America Dec. 10, 1945, returning through the port at Boston where their former Commander, Col. Rexroad was still in charge. Lt. Col. Wm. N. Pearce, of Hutchinson commanded the battalion overseas, being commander from Dec. 16, 1941, to Dec. 11, 1945, when it was released from active duty.

The 130th when it was mobilized as a regiment in Decem-, 1940, consisted of approximately 100 officers and 1,200 enlisted men. More than 400 enlisted men of the old regiment

Nineteen officers of the 130th FA who were captains or lieutenants when they went overseas, returned with the rank of "colonel"-16 as lieutenant colonels and three with the rating of full colonel.

When the 130th went into federal service in 1941 approximately 300 men and 33 officers were from Reno County. When it was mustered out only 31 of the original members of the battalion were with it. The others had been transferred to other units in Germany and Japan when the war ended, and some were under little white crosses on the hill sides of France or Germany or on the beaches of Western Pacific Isles, never to return.

thousands.

"We saw one concentration camp where Poles and Czechs were put to death," he said. "In the yard of this camp
there were 30 starved and emaciated bodies, shot through the head. They lay just as they fell. In a nearby shed we found 40 dead men, also piled up dead naked, like cordwood, with lime thrown on them to help dry up their wasted bodies. A mile down the road was one large grave and a crematory. The Germans had time only to burn 2,000 bodies before the Yanks came. A thousand bodies still remained in the large lime-pit grave.
