DEDICATION

We dedicate this book in heartfelt gratitude and solemn pride to the men of Bayfield County who gave their lives in World War II.

Those Who Died

This list includes men who were killed in action, who died in service, and who died from service-connected causes after being released. It includes not only pre-war residents of Bayfield County, but also men who were born here, or who lived here formerly, or were sons, brothers or husbands of county residents. Our desire is to pay homage to all men with Bayfield County connections who made the supreme sacrifice in World War II. We sincerely regret unwitting omissions of any names that properly belong here.

COMMUNITY HONOR ROLLS

The following honor rolls for Bayfield County's twenty-five towns, two villages and two cities are the result of much effort in collecting, checking and rechecking. Names were obtained from the Bayfield County Selective Service Board, from newspapers of the region, and from personal sources. Lists were sent to postmasters, town chairmen, clerks, treasurers and other local officials and interested citizens throughout the county, who made corrections and additions. We are sincerely grateful for their valuable assistance. We regret the inevitable errors and omissions, but present these lists with confidence that they are the most nearly complete and correct honor rolls of Bayfield County communities assembled thus far.

(*) indicates those wounded.

(†) indicates those dead.

THE HONOR ROLL ALBUM

The pictures and service records of over 1,000 of Bayfield County's service men and women of World War II, plus several hundred additional records unaccompanied by pictures, are presented in the following pages.

Information for the records has been obtained from relatives and friends of the service men and women, from the Bayfield County Selective Service Board and the Veterans' Service Officer, and from the Ashland Daily Press, Bayfield County Press, Iron River Pioneer and Superior Evening Telegram, to all of whom grateful acknowledgment is made.

We are also sincerely grateful to those who submitted pictures and records, to the hundreds who entered advance orders, and especially to the tribute sponsors, who helped insure the financial success of the project.
