DEDICATION

worldwartwoveterans.org

To the memory of the Fifty-Two young men from Franklin County who paid the Supreme Sacrifice in World War II, we respectfully dedicate this book.

worldwartwoveterans.org

FOREWORD

In assembling the data and pictures for this book, we have attempted to bring to the people of Franklin County an imperishable record of the works and deeds of the men and women from this County, who served in the Armed Forces during World War II

Even in the few brief years which have elapsed since the end of the War, we have found that the record of many of those deeds, and even the names of some who bore the battle, have become so buried that it has been with real difficulty that we have been able to assemble much of this information. If we have omitted any, as we no doubt have, it has been in no way our desire to do so, but has occurred in spite of our every effort to include all.

At this time we wish to express our sincere thanks to all who have in any way aided in making this book a possibility. Especially do we wish to thank the advertisers, who by their financial support, have permitted its publication. Most especially do we want to thank the parents and relatives of those men who were not permitted to return from the field of battle, for the pictures and information they have made available to us.

If this book succeeds in keeping fresh within our minds the sacrifices and heartaches that have been given and suffered by your friends and neighbors to preserve Our Country and Our Freedom, we shall feel amply repaid.

IN MEMORIAM

In another great war, World War I, the men of Franklin County answered the call to arms and established upon the battle field a record of which any county can well be proud. When that war ended on November 11, 1918, twenty-five men from this County had given their lives in the service of their country.

PIONEER FRANKLIN COUNTY

The area within the present boundaries of Franklin County was one of the first sections in Indiana to be occupied by pioneer settlers because of its accessibility to the already settled regions of Kentucky and southern Ohio and the fact that the Valley of the Whitewater offered an avenue of approach to the new frontier.

Indian trails (themselves many times following the older buffalo trails) were utilized by the white men and the fact that an old Indian trail led through the center of the future County of Franklin probably was in itself a factor in making the Whitewater Valley an early settlement in Indiana. Certainly the early traders (the vanguard of the Frontier) established their trading posts along these trails for the same reason that filling stations and the ubiquitous "hot dog stands" are built along our "tourist trails" of today. Very early, John Conner established his trading post on the banks of the Whitewater near the mouth of Big Cedar Creek on the old Indian trail and when Amos Butler came to what is now the site of Brookville, two French traders operated a post on the bluff just north of the present ball-park - at least that is the traditional story.

That Franklin County was inhabited long before the advent of the white man can be proven by the crumbling remains of their burial, signal and ceremonial mounds that still are a feature of our landscape and which neither time nor the plow has not been able to completely remove. That these remains were the work of the legendary mound-builders (about whose origin and fate historians have not been able to agree) is well established; but it is probably also a fact that Franklin County was not inhabited by Indians in permanent settlements for several years prior to the pioneer period and was used as a hunting grounds for the several tribes located north and east of the Whitewater Valley. We do have a tradition that a large group of Indians camped for a considerable period of time on the present site of Brookville, but this encampment was not of the permanent type as we find in the Lake Region of Northern Indiana or in Central Ohio. The artifacts collected by such men as T. L. Dickerson and the late Dr. Clinton E. Case are visual evidences not only of the more cultured Mound Builders but of the less cultured and more warlike Indians with whom our pioneer fathers came in contact.

It is not possible within the limits of this sketch to follow the various and variable tides of migration into Franklin County. With the extinguishment of the Indian title to what is now Franklin County and with the end of our troubles with England in the War of 1812, migration set in in an increased tempo. The Indians' title to the lands was transferred to the white intruders by four treaties. The first (in 1795) was the Treaty of Greenville, whereby all of the Eastern portion of the County was set aside for settlement. This Treaty Line runs just west of Brookville cutting across U. S. 52 at Boundary Hill and now forms the boundary between Fairfield and Blooming Grove Townships and a part of the Western Boundary of Highland. This boundary was surveyed through Franklin County from 1799-1805 and lands to the East were offered for sale at the Cincinnati Land Office in 1803.

By a Treaty in 1805, another portion of the County was obtained and in 1809 a Treaty provided for the cession of a twelve mile strip to the West parallel to the Greenville Treaty Line of 1795. The final Indian Cession came in 1818 when all of Central Indiana known as the "New Purchase" was obtained at the Treaty of St. Marys. So far as Franklin County was concerned the entire county was now opened for settlement.

It is difficult to establish the identity of the first settler and just as difficult to establish the date of the first mill; the first school-house; the first tavern; or the first church. Benjamin McCarty entered the first land in what is now Franklin County on May 25, 1803, but whether he "settled" at that time is not definitely established. The first permanent settlement was made on the East Fork between Brookville and Quakertown when a group of pioneers from Laurens District, South Carolina led by Robert Hanna, Sr. entered land and built their cabins in 1803-1804.

Migration into Franklin County was slow until after the War with Great Britain ended in 1815. From that time on it was rapid and has continued with varying pace until today. Franklin County was set off (principally from Dearborn) as a separate governmental unit on February 1, 1811 and was one of the thirteen counties that had been organized when Indiana became a state in 1816. At that time the County has 7,370 inhabitants (approximately one-half of the present population). Brookville had been laid out by Jesse B. Thomas in 1808 and named "Brooksville" but somewhere the "s" has been dropped. The first lot sold in Brookville was Lot 147 on the original plat and is the lot immediately to the rear of Schumacher's Furniture Store. The deed was dated March 7, 1811.

By 1817, Brookville contained 89 houses in addition to taverns, stores, mills and factories. With the coming of the Land Office in 1820 came prosperity and with its removal to Indianapolis in 1825 came "hard times" to Brookville. Many of the "cream of the crop" of the pioneers either moved with the Land Office or to other more promising parts of Indiana or on farther West. Not until the completion of the Canal to Brookville in 1836 did prosperity come again to the little town on the Whitewater but even this was ephemeral: The Canal was not a success due to the many floods on the Whitewater, and even the coming of the railroads in the 1860's failed to make of Brookville the metropolis so fondly dreamed by her "fathers."

The pioneers who first settled in Franklin County were with few exceptions the typical pioneer of American history who pushed the Frontier Line from the Atlantic to the Pacific in 300 years. Our pioneer ancestors were the best and the worst; the literate and illiterate; the preacher and the horse thief. He came because of land hunger; of the desire to get elbow room; because he was forced out by the economic processes of the older states. Some probably came because of their dislike for slavery. Some got here "three jumps" ahead of the sheriff. Some bought their land; many were squatters who came before the land was surveyed. Some came from over the sea for all the various reasons that the oppressed and downtrodden have always had to prompt them to seek a haven in a new country. Some came because "the other fellow got the girl" or because they had loved "not wisely but too well." Whatever their motive or motives, they came from the Carolinas, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New England, New York and from Germany (beginning about 1830), from Ireland (to help dig our Canal) and from the Mother Country.

While we cannot claim undue distinction for our pioneer fathers and mothers as a class, it is nevertheless true that Brookville, because of her pre-eminence as a center of pioneer Indiana did attract men and women of unusual intelligence and ability. Consequently, we can boast of having given four Governors to Indiana; one of the first (of two) U.S. Senators in the person of James Noble; the entire Supreme Bench of the State at one time (incidentally they were all members of Harmony Lodge #11 F. & A.M.); and the only General from the State who lost his life in a battle field of the War between the States. It is enlightening to read the roster of the members of the Society of Indiana Pioneers and find how many present-day Hoosiers trace their descent to an ancestor who settled originally in Brookville or Franklin County.

Many of those who migrated from the various states or foreign countries tended to settle with those of their own states making in Franklin County large and small "islands" populated by pioneers who were born in the same state or country. Thus we have our "Carolina Settlements," our "Jersey" community (now in Union County for the most part), our German communities in the South and West, our "Irish" in Laurel; our English on "Snow Hill" in Whitewater Township. Franklin County can be considered, sociologically speaking, as a splendid example of the "Melting Pot" that is America. Space does not permit even the bare enumeration of the important or near-important people who have been born or have considered Franklin County their home at some time. Perhaps it is suffice to say that whatever may be the future at least we can be proud of most aspects of our past.

PIONEER MILITARY HISTORY

Franklin County is intimately connected with all the wars fought by our Country since and including the Revolution. Forty Revolutionary Soldiers are known to rest within the confines of the county, some in known, others in unknown graves. In fact we almost hanged a Revolutionary Veteran on May 25, 1825 west of the present Farm Bureau elevator. He was charged and convicted of murdering a Constable in Bath Township and was saved by the personal intervention of Governor James B. Ray, who arrived from Indianapolis on horseback just in time to grant the intended victim a pardon. The old veteran moved on west subsequently but the victim's grave may still be seen in Old Bath Springs Church just over the Union County Line.

While fear of the Indians (and also fear of "milk" sickness which was, incidently, responsible for the death of Nancy Hanks Lincoln over in Spencer County, Indiana) was a deterrent to settlement prior to the War of 1812, nevertheless the fact remains that the Indians (at least until 1812) were peaceful and disposed to trade rather than scalp. During the period of the War from 1812-1815 there was a genuine apprehension among the settlers and this led to the construction of many primitive blockhouses within the county. The blockhouses for the most part were merely one-room affairs with the necessary portholes but at least one was more pretentious. This was Saylor's blockhouse between Cedar Grove and Brookville which was said to have been a stockaded affair containing one-half acre and with projecting blockhouses at each corner. Other blockhouses were situated on the Fritz Farm west of Brookville; the Curry-Gordon blockhouse on Duck Creek; and others on Pipe and Salt Creeks. Perhaps there were others. According to tradition two men were killed on Salt Creek by Indians and this probably constituted the only Indian "massacre" within the County. By 1820, all the Indians had disappeared from the County.

Several early settlers of Franklin County were called out in the War of 1812 and our older cemeteries contain the bodies of many veterans of that conflict. Stephen C. Stephens, an early and prominent attorney of Brookville, was with Jackson at New Orleans and Nathan Gallion, an early merchant, whose place of business was on the site of the present Franklin County National Bank, was also a soldier in this conflict. James Speer, who built a paper mill in Brookville in 1834, was taken prisoner by the British at Detroit at the time of Hulls surrender and remained in British hands until the end of the war. Hugh West was with Harrison at the Battle of Tippecanoe on November 7th, 1811. While we cannot regard this battle as occurring in our war with England yet, it is intimately connected with that conflict since England had refused to relinquish her posts along our northern border and had encouraged the Indians to resist the encroachment of the white settlers in the old Northwest Territory. As late as 1870, there were 11 pensioners of the War of 1812 living in Franklin County.

THE MILITIA PERIOD

When Indiana's first Constitution was adopted in 1816, at least three-fourths of the state was still under the nominal control of the Indians. Consequently provision was made for defense by providing that all able-bodied men from eighteen to forty-five in the state be organized into companies, regiments, and brigades and that they muster at least once a year at certain designated places in the various counties. By 1817, a militia organization had been effected in Franklin County and annual musters were held in the County until about 1833. At first the annual musters were taken seriously but as the danger from Indian depredations became more and more remote they became more and more an excuse for a frolic. Liquid refreshments were plentiful and by noon on Muster Day any military movement was out of the question. In fact, on the part of many, any movement was impossible. After the 1830's, the musters were discontinued. The only purpose they had served for many years was to act as a break in the monotony of every-day existence and as a release from the inhibitions imposed by rather strait-laced religious beliefs.

THE MEXICAN WAR

It has been just one hundred years since our War with Mexico and the records of Franklin County's part in that conflict are not voluminous. That the War was unpopular in many quarters of the North is well known since many were concerned as to the extension of slavery into Texas or into any territory which might be acquired at the end of the conflict. There seems to have been no appreciable opposition to the War in Franklin County. In fact, we do not seem to have been too greatly disturbed as to the slavery question itself. The Underground Railroad, organized to aid slaves to escape from the South to Canada, does not appear to have had any lines thru this County except across the northwestern townships of Salt Creek, Posey and Laurel, although there have been traditions to the contrary.

On May 22, 1846 Governor James Whitcomb issued a call for three regiments of volunteers. On May 26, 1846, there was a public meeting called to consider the formation of a local militia company. This meeting was held at the Court House and a set of eleven resolutions were prepared by William M. McCarty to the effect that Franklin County was enthusiastically in favor of the War and every citizen was ready to bear arms. It is interesting to note that throughout much of our history a public meeting was called upon the least provocation, usually at "early candle-lighting," presided over by some prominent citizen and boasting not only a chairman but vice-presidents and a Secretary. Most of the meetings in Franklin County were held in the Court House but many were also held in the Old Market House which stood where the Town Hall and American Legion Home now stands. This old Market House was an open-air affair and gave way when the present Town Hall was erected. A committee of eleven was appointed, one for each township, to receive the names of volunteers. Dr. George Berry suggested that the County pay Ten Dollars to each of the first ninety-three volunteers from the County but whether this was done I cannot say. Dr. Berry, however, was not one to let others do his fighting for he enlisted as a Surgeon in the 16th United States Infantry and served with General Taylor in Northern Mexico. Privates in this War received Eight dollars a month and had to furnish their own clothing. They were probably consoled by the fact that even Captains received only Forty Dollars a month. Anyone from eighteen to forty-five was eligible to enlist and it was hoped to enlist at least two companies, consisting of one Captain, one First Lieutenant, one Second Lieutenant, four Sergeants, four Corporals, two Musicians and eighty Privates - a total of Ninety-three men.

The INDIANA AMERICAN, "Daddy" of the present BROOKVILLE AMERICAN, reported that on June 5, "McCarty's Company was nearly full and that Captain Sullenberger's company was fast filling up." Even the editor of the AMERICAN had enlisted and reported that he would "soon be on his way to Mexico, full of war and cabbage."

On June 8th, 1846, Franklin County's First Company, the Franklin Guards, were duly organized. Its Captain was William McCarty who had recruited it and John B. Campbell and John M. Meyers were first and second Lieutenants respectively.

America's Volunteer Armies in all wars up to and including the War between the States were democratic indeed. All officers were elected by their respective organizations and the most popular were chosen for the select positions. This certainly would not make for good discipline and may account for the actions of some volunteer outfits when in combat and which can better be left untold. This democracy did not extend into higher ranks but the lack of military courtesy among the Privates toward their Company and Regimental Officers certainly carried over in their attitude toward their higher officers. A Private of 1865 thought nothing of yelling "Hello, Joe" to General Hooker. His great-grandson would have "gotten himself in a mess" had he shown the same familiarity with "Ike."

On Sunday, June 14th, McCarty's company assembled in Brookville. The next morning everyone in Brookville escorted them to the Canal Boats - their only means of transportation out of Brookville. John M. Johnston, later Clerk of Courts, made the inevitable speech and they were off - for New Albany via the Ohio. Alas, the thirty companies which Governor Whitcomb had called for had been mustered prior to the time "our boys" reached New Albany so that in less than two weeks the Franklin Guards had been disbanded and most of the "heroes" were back home. Some enlisted in other companies, particularly in a company from Columbus and McCarty later rose to be a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Second Indiana. How many Franklin County men actually served in the Mexican War we do not know, as McCarty's Company was never mustered in and Sullenberger abandoned his efforts upon the refusal to accept the Franklin Guards. John

M. Meyers, who had been elected Second Lieutenant in the ill-fated Franklin Guards, joined another company and rose to be a Major in the new Fifth Regiment. He was a correspondent of the local press while in service and later attempted (in 1847) to raise another company in Franklin County, but was compelled to give up the effort, due to a lessening of the war spirit, probably because of the apparent ease of our victories over the Mexicans. In all, Indiana furnished five regiments for Mexican War service.

However we may decry the War with Mexico, we are compelled to admit that it did serve as "Basic Training" for many who were to participate in the greater and bloodier conflict that was to come from 1861 to 1865. Many officers, both North and South and including Lee and Grant and Jefferson Davis himself, received their first baptism of fire during this earlier conflict. Many Franklin County boys who participated in the War with Mexico enlisted in the War between the States. They were the "retreads" of yesterday. Indeed the first company to leave Franklin County in 1861 was captained by John C. Burton, who had lost an arm at Buena Vista and, tradition says, dramatically stood on the steps of the old Court House in Brookville in that long-ago April of 1861 and declared that while he "had lost one arm at Buena Vista in defense of his country in 1847, he was willing to lose the other in defense of his country in 1861."

There is little more to be said concerning the Mexican conflict except perhaps this historical note. A recruiting officer of the United States Army was stationed for some time in the Old "Yellow Tavern" on the site of the present jail, thus adding another historical page to that already historical pioneer hostelry.

THE WAR BETWEEN THE STATES

Campaigns and battles were far away from the thoughts of men in Franklin County from the close of the War with Mexico until the shot fired at Fort Sumter that April morning in 1861 brought another bloodier conflict into being. Again we question the wisdom of that war and whether or not it was the "Irresistible Conflict" as it has been called by historians. Be that as it may, it came to us and the impact was to change the lives of those living then probably to a greater degree than any war before or since. To write even a brief sketch of Franklin County's part in this conflict within the present limitations is impossible. The records are fairly complete and await only the historian. Many personal stories of that conflict are now lost forever with the passing of those who participated. I can recall as a school boy up in Bath Township sitting, figuratively speaking, and perhaps literally on many occasions, at the knee of Mr. Reister, and hearing from his lips the stories of Spotsylvania, the Wilderness, Petersburg and Appomatox Court House. I can recall stories that my own father (the son of a Confederate Veteran) would tell, having heard them from those heroes of long ago. They have all been "mustered out" and are resting on "Fames Eternal Camping Grounds." The last Civil War soldier died in Franklin County on December 19th, 1937. He was William Hall, an uncle of Willard Hall of Brookville.

Before briefly sketching the activities of this County during our Civil conflict, it might be pertinent to make some general observations. There was probably a larger number of Franklin County boys in proportion to our population in this War than in any other in which we have engaged. No provision was made by the National Government for the families of soldiers and for the most part they were left to get along as best they could, although certain organizations attempted to alleviate actual suffering. By far the greater number of those who entered military service were volunteers although the draft was resorted to in 1862, 1864 and 1865, as will be mentioned later. Those who were financially able could hire a substitute and many did so. The war was not - paradox though it may seem - popular in many spots in Franklin County due to the intense partisanship of the period and was regarded by some as "Mr Lincoln's War," so let him fight. A portion of the local press was extremely hostile to the National Administration altho just what they would have done to solve the situation was not then and still is not clear to me and I have read a file of the local newspapers from 1860 to 1865 from "kiver to kiver." The Knights of the Golden Circle, friendly to the South, was active in this County, but their history, as it is with subversive organizations, is extremely nebulous - it simply doesn't exist so far as Franklin County is concerned. It was unfortunate that partianship should have been carried to such an extreme as to hamper the efforts of those in authority to preserve the union of States. This extreme attitude on the part of individuals was unfortunate then and it is unfortunate today. But it was a reality then and it is a reality now. The actual fighting affected us not at all, although we did get a grand scare when John Morgan made his famous raid through Indiana and came close to Franklin County. A few of his men actually got into Oldenburg but did no damage except perhaps to the nervous system of the inhabitants. Home Guards were recruited and were determined to guard Brookville "to death" but that was not necessary - perhaps to the infinite relief of said Home Guards.

Of course, the most famous soldier was General Pleasant A. Hackleman born below Brookville on the Whitewater, but who was an editor in Rushville when the war broke out. He was killed at Corinth, Mississippi and his last words as reported by those around him were, "I am dying, but I die for my country." I don't think there can be any doubt as to the authenticity of this story, but I am always reminded of the fact that sometimes death beds are made much more dramatic in retrospect than they really are in fact. Imagine the blow to my hero-worship as a schoolboy, when I learned that one of my particular heroes did not utter the noble sentiments attributed to him by observers at his mournful death-bed, but that his last words was actually a request for the bed-pan - not so noble, but more utilitarian.

General Lew Wallace, born in Brookville but an inhabitant of Crawfordsville upon the outbreak of the War, served his country well throughout the conflict. He had been a soldier in the War with Mexico and immediately offered his services to Governor Morton in 1861. His military career had its high and its low points. While later he is credited with saving Washington itself from a raid by General Jubal A. Early of the Confederate Army, at the Battle of Shiloh, he had the misfortune to march eleven miles in the wrong direction when called up from reserve. General Albert Sidney Johnston, Confederate, had caught General U.S. Grant, Federal, at Pittsburg Landing on the Tennessee River offguard and "without his breakfast down" (to do a little paraphrasing) and Grant was hard-pressed. In fact, but for Johnson's death by a stray bullet on the battlefield, Grant's reputation as a military man might have suffered mightly. When Wallace was ordered to advance through a heavily wooded sector he became confused or lost and did go in the wrong direction. There was quite a controversy over this incident at the time, but Wallace's later career repaired his damaged reputation. Personally, I cannot blame Wallace for, many years later, I, too, got lost on Shiloh Battlefield with roads and positions marked.

In addition to those who became prominent in the War, Franklin County furnished nine hundred and forty-eight men for service at the front, according to Adjutant-General Terrel's Report. This does not include those who enlisted from other states or counties and consequently, are accredited to those localities. The first man killed from Franklin County was Samuel John who had been working in a store in Hamilton, Ohio, when the war broke out and who was a member of a prominent Franklin County family. Terrell's Report is known to be in error in some respect as to our part in the war and it is safe to assume that the total number of soldiers from Franklin County is in excess of the number given in that Report. In spite of the fact that feeling between the Republicans and Democrats was bitter and became increasingly so as the War progressed, we can safely say that our War record was equal to any other county in the State. It is true that the Draft was resorted to in 1862, 1864, and 1865. This was also true in other sections of the State and was not peculiar to Franklin County. The county paid over a quarter of a million dollars in bounties and for the relief of soldiers' families and those who were left behind worked tirelessly to relieve the wants of the soldiers at the front and those who were in need at home. All things considered Franklin County did her part, in spite of political differences, to preserve the Union of the States.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

So far as I have been able to discover the Grand Army of the Republic was the first Veterans organization in Franklin County. There was no organized group of Veterans after the Revolution except the Order of Cincinnati which was composed of former officers of the Continental Army and was bitterly attacked as undemocratic. If any member of that organization ever resided in Franklin County he has escaped recognition. He would have probably kept his connection "sub rosa" particularly in a county where a man was once sued for libel for calling another a "Federalist."

The Mexican War Veterans did have an organization in the United States, but no record exists as to whether it had any members in Franklin County. Certainly there was no regularly organized post in the County as some record would exist in the files of the local papers. Consequently, with the organization of Hackleman Post of the G.A.R., we have the first purely Veterans organization.

The Charter of Hackleman Post, Grand Army of the Republic, was issued on April 10, 1882. The Post was formally organized on April 18, 1882, in what is now the American Legion Hall and William H. Bracken was elected the first Commander. Mr. Bracken was prominent in legal and political circles in the County and resided where Alfred C. Brown now lives. There were twenty-three names on the first Charter and new names were added as the years went by until by 1914, the Post had a membership of 154. There were other Posts established at Metamora, Laurel, Mt. Carmel, and Andersonville. These Posts served their membership until time had taken its toll of the membership and until the formation of Bernard Hurst Post Number 77 American Legion. The G.A.R. was responsible for the erection of the monument at the southwest corner of the Court House yard. Doctor Calvin Carter submitted the design and mounted the cannon on the stone and cement base where it remained until World War II, when it fell a victim to a scrap-metal drive.

THE SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR

The annals of our War with Spain are short and sweet. Franklin County furnished no companies for this conflict, although several from this county did enlist in the army and navy. Patriotic feeling there certainly was, but the war was over too quickly to greatly stir our emotions. The ease of our victories and the shortness of the War combined to keep our enlistments meager. Our troubles in the Philippines after Spain was defeated did not result in any great patriotic outburst, although the fighting in the Islands was as rugged as any the American Soldier has been called upon to undergo. Milford P. Hubbard, father of Robert Hubbard, a member of Bernard Hurst Post, served in the Twenty-Seventh Indiana Battery of Light Artillery and saw service in Puerto Rico before his discharge.

After the War with Spain, the United Spanish War Veterans were organized but no post of this organization existed in Franklin County, although some veterans of that conflict belonged to posts outside the borders of the County and were designated by the remaining members of Hackleman Post along with the newly formed Legion Post to serve as pall-bearers at the funerals of the members of the G.A.R.

WORLD WAR I

Europe was far away from Franklin County on that August day in 1914, when once again, for the first time since the Napoleonic conflicts, that continent was plunged into a general war. With England, France, and Russia ranged against Germany, Austria, Bulgaria, and Turkey, and with Italy characteristically waiting to pick a winner, the entire continent was soon to feel the ravages of modern war with all its attendant horrors. Probably our first reaction to the conflict was almost of indifference and with a "to Hell with it" attitude. We nourished the fond belief that Europe's problems were her own and that we would not, under any circumstances, be drawn into any conflict so far from our own shores. We were simply unable to realize that the World had been made smaller by the inventive genius of man and the affairs of any small segment of that World was the affair of all or any part of it. Such an isolationist attitude on the part of the American people in 1914 can well be understood--it was much more logical in 1914 than it was in 1939--since we had taken no part in Europe's quarrels for almost one hundred years.

Undoubtedly, our sympathies were divided at first. Many of our grandparents had emigrated from Germany in the not-too-far-away past and it was difficult to believe that all the acts attributed to the Central Powers could be true. As the war progressed, our neutral rights were violated more and more and, what was more important still, we became more and more convinced that our very way of life was becoming endangered. While democracy in many ways was only an ideal and not a reality in America yet it was an ideal and a goal to which we had been striving and for which we had fought and which we were slowly and laboriously attaining.

We have never been a warlike nation and consequently when war did come on April 6, 1917, we were characteristically unprepared. Men were needed immediately and in answer to that need a Selective Service Act was enacted on May 18, 1917. This Act provided for:

- (1). Registration of all males from the age of 21 to 30 inclusive.
- (2). Formation of local and district boards to consider exemptions and other matters under the law.
- (3). The determination of the order of induction and quotas.
- (4). Proper notification of selectees of the date when they were to appear for induction.

Registration in the several counties was to be under the supervision of county Boards of Control. Such a Board of Control was set up in Franklin County on May 28th by the appointment of Charles Marlin, Sheriff of Franklin County; Will Baker, Clerk; and Cecil C. Tague by Governor James P. Goodrich. Precinct Conscription Officers were set up in the County as follows:

Bath #1	-----	Charles V. Wilson
Springfield #1	-----	Roscoe Hubbard
Springfield #2	-----	T. O. Appleton
Whitewater #1	-----	Henry Strohmiere
Whitewater #2	-----	Reed Moffett
Highland #1	-----	John Glaser
Highland #1	-----	Theodore Schuck
Brookville #1	-----	Ernest Showalter
Brookville #2	-----	William M. Geis
Brookville #3	-----	Frank Deutsch
Brookville #4	-----	Harry M. Stoops
Brookville #5	-----	John Enneking
Fairfield #1	-----	H. H. Rose
Blooming Grove #1	-----	Deward Wilson
Metamora #1	-----	George R. Foster
Butler #1	-----	Ben Vonderheide
Butler #2	-----	Lafayette Jones
Ray #1	-----	Frank Flodder
Ray #2	-----	John Osterling
Salt Creek #1	-----	Daniel Volk
Salt Creek #2	-----	Louis Koerner
Posey #1	-----	George Meid
Posey #2	-----	Joseph Croddy
Laurel #1	-----	Samuel W. Brier
Laurel #2	-----	J. H. Gregory

The first Registration Day was set for Tuesday, June 5, 1917 during the hours from 7 A.M. to 9 P.M. Every male who had reached the age of 21 and who had not reached his 31st birthday, and who was not already in the regular Military Service was required to register with his local board. After the first Registration, the Precinct Boards went out of existence and their duties were taken over by the County Board of Control. Dr. Irvin O. Allen of Bath was appointed to the County Board in the place of Cecil C. Tague and it was he who supervised the examinations of selectees. The total number registered in the first Registration in Franklin County was 1039.

A second Registration for all those who had reached the age of 21 since June 5, 1917, was held in the Sheriff's Office on June 5, 1918. Likewise a third Registration was held in the same office on August 24th, 1918, for all those who had reached the age of 21 since June 5th, 1918. The total number enrolled in these two Registration in the County was 116. The final German drive of the War which they hoped would bring them victory was begun in March, 1918. It was deemed necessary to have a fourth Registration on September 12th, 1918 of all men between the ages of 18 and 45. A total of 1626 were registered in the County on this last Registration and the same Registrars were used as in the first Registration.

Each registrant was given a number upon his registration. Ten thousand, five hundred numbers were placed in separate capsules in Washington and were drawn out one at a time. The first number so drawn would be the first called up in each of the thousands of local boards throughout the nation and if otherwise qualified would be inducted into the Service. A second number drawn would be the second inductee and so on. The Local Board in Franklin County called 330 men for service, inducted 321, accepted 317, rejected 7. These latter 7 were really rejected at Camp.

The first men inducted in Franklin County were Roy Personett and Roscoe Brady. Both these men were at the time of induction or shortly prior to that time living in Fairfield Township. All men inducted in 1917 were sent to Camp Taylor, Louisville, Kentucky, but those inducted in the 1918 were sent to many points. Some were sent to S, A, T, C. units at Miami University, Indiana, Purdue, Notre Dame, and the Normal School at Terre Haute (now the Indiana State Teachers College). Many were sent to Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio. Others were sent such widely scattered camps as Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia; Columbus Barracks; Camp Green, Charlotte, North Carolina; Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Michigan; Fort Hamilton, New York; Fort Meyer, Virginia; and many other points. As in the War between the States, many Franklin County boys enlisted from out-of-county points and several were already in the Service. Consequently it would be very difficult to determine the actual number of boys from this County in the Service during the War. In contrast to World War II, the leave-taking of inductees was attended by some fan-fare. At least I have a faint recollection of the festivities attending the final night at home of one group of future soldiers, although I was too young to know everything that was going on. From what I remember and from what I have heard since "a good time was enjoyed by all."

While we did not have the honor of having any Hacklemans or Wallaces in this conflict, the following Franklin County boys did receive commissions:

John P. Goodwin	-----	Major
Harry E. Taylor	-----	Captain
William Walker	-----	Second Lieutenant
Loren Priest	-----	Second Lieutenant
Mitchel F. Acree	-----	Second Lieutenant
Fred N. Charni	-----	Second Lieutenant

The first Franklin County boy to give his life for his country was Bernard Hurst of Oldenburg. He was a member of the 150th Field Artillery which was the only Indiana outfit in the Rainbow Division. Others to lose their lives in the War were the following:

Beneker, Edward
Brier, Chauncey Lloyd
Case, Arthur Lee
Cooley, Hillard
Dougoud, Wilburn Joseph
Gesell, Philip
Geisting, Frank Joseph
Green, George Washington
Heeb, Henry Nicholas
Heppner, Charles
Holzleiter, Lawrence
Humig, William John

Hyde, Samuel
Klemme, George Frederick
Kunkle, Jacob Jr.
Leising, Joseph F.
Metzler, Joseph Andres
Meyers, Raymond
Osborn, Edward Harry
Robbins, Alva
Roberts, Roy Elmore
Simmermeyer, Frank J.
Williams, Leonard Burton
Wilson, John Irwin

Several of the above were victims of the terrible influenza epidemic of 1918 and 1919. Others died in hospitals in camp. Several were returned to this country for burial, but others rest "in Honored Glory" on far-away shores.

Space does not permit the full story of Franklin County's War effort at home. Red Cross, Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus, all received full support in their several "Drives" during the war years. Many of those who were either "too young or too old" to enter the Armed Services gave freely of their time and money to promote the war effort. I can recall vividly the activities of one Boy Scout Troop out in Bath Township in locating walnut trees to be used in the manufacture of airplane propellers; in selling War Bonds in the various "Drives"; in soliciting for the Red Cross and other organizations. Franklin County went "Over The Top" in all drives and space does not permit the listing of all who so generously gave of their time and resources to win the war which all fondly hoped would end armed conflicts between civilized peoples for all time. Finally on November 11, 1918, another chapter in the Military History of Franklin County was completed and once again a war-weary people took up again the tasks and the relative unimportant problems of Peace with most of us blissfully ignorant of the fact that a new Era had begun for us and the world, and that the World of 1914 was gone forever.

BERNARD HURST POST NUMBER 77

The Spring and Summer of 1919 found Franklin County boys returning home from their "Great Adventure." On August 21st, 1919, various organizations united in giving the returning soldiers a home-coming celebration at Magnesia Springs, reminiscent of the Home-coming tendered our Mexican War soldiers at Butler's Springs so many years before. On this day an effort was made to form an American Legion Post with no success, due probably to an ignorance of the nature and purpose of the Legion.

On September 2, 1919, a temporary committee of servicemen met in the office of Cecil C. Tague in the National Bank Building, Brookville, to effect an organization. They then took the first steps toward organization by preparing to apply for a charter. To obtain a charter the names of fifteen servicemen who had served in the Army, Navy, or Marines between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918 were necessary. The required number were not present but by special effort the following signatures were obtained that evening:

Sam S. Shirk	Chaffee W. Shirk	Charles L. Davis	*Herbert Colebank
Cecil C. Tague	R. P. Abeling	William Rusterholz	Benjamin C. Steiner
Horace H. Shirk	John P. Goodwin	John W. Cooksey	*Willard A. Fogel
*Harold Lapish	*Furman H. Geis	Fred N. Charni	*Deceased

The temporary name chosen was "The Brookville Post." The application was sent to the State Headquarters at Indianapolis that very night and a charter was granted on September 26th, 1919. This charter may still be seen in the present club rooms.

On Tuesday evening, October 7th, 1919, a public meeting was held for all servicemen eligible for membership. Cecil C. Tague was chosen Temporary Chairman and Sam S. Shirk as Temporary Secretary. The State Constitution and By-Laws were ratified and a Committee appointed to draw up a Constitution and By-Laws for the local organization.

On October 14, 1919, another meeting was held in the G.A.R. Room in the Court House for the purpose of forming a permanent organization. The following permanent officers were elected and as such are the Charter Officers of Bernard Hurst Post Number 77:

Post Commander-----Carl C. Hofer
Vice Commander-----Charles L. Davis
Secretary-----Sam S. Shirk
Finance Officer-----Norbert F. Baker
District Representative-----Wilbur Gregg
War Risk Insurance Officer-----Howard Morin*

Executive Committee

Horace H. Shirk
Cecil C. Tague
John P. Goodwin
Herbert Schmitt
Clyde Mahle

At the same meeting the name of the Post was changed to FRANKLIN COUNTY POST NUMBER 77.

The first year was the "Critical Period" so far as the Post was concerned. The Post had no funds, no membership, and no permanent meeting place. Meetings were held in Cecil C. Tague's Office; The G.A.R. Room; The Court House Lobby; the Town Hall; the Crystal Theatre; the Red Men's Hall; and finally permanent Headquarters were established on the third floor of the Brookville National Bank.

Finances were a headache to the infant organization. The first receipts ever received by the Post was the excess from the money collected for the Home Coming celebration at Magnesia Springs in the sum of $82.10. Various means were resorted to in order to raise money. An auto was raffled off; dances were held at Post Headquarters; and an entertainment and social was held in St. Michael's Hall on New Year's Eve, 1920. The first money raised by these various means was used to purchase equipment for the Headquarters.

On May 10th, 1920 the name of the Post was changed to Bernard Hurst Post Number 77, in honor of Franklin County's first casualty. Roy H. Bruns was the first member to die and the first to be buried by the Post with military honors on May 15th, 1920.

In April, 1920 the G.A.R. invited the Post to unite with them in Memorial Day Services. With their consent, future Memorial Day Services were to be conducted by the American Legion. There is something pathetic in the letter received from Hackleman Post Number 64 G.A.R., acceding to the request from the Legion respecting the future Memorial Day Services. From their failing hands and with the assertion that although they were "strong in heart and spirit" but "weak in the flesh" they relinquished the honor of paying annual tribute to the soldier dead of Franklin County - an honor that they had assumed when they too were young and vigorous but which because of sadly depleted members and physical weaknesses they were no longer able to perform. And now all of them have answered the final call.

The following is the Charter Membership Roll of Bernard Hurst Post Number 77:

Sam S. Shirk	*John L. Stewart	Ernest S. Clark
Cecil C. Tague	Leslie Cleaver	*Ralph R. Cooksey

In accordance with the first Constitution and By-Laws, the Annual Meeting for the election of officers was to take place on the first Monday following Armistice Day. The election of officers to guide the Post through its second year was held November 22, 1920, and resulted in the following being chosen:

Post Commander----- Alfred C. Brown
 Vice Commander----- *Furman H. Geis

During World War II, Bernard Hurst Post ceased to be the only Veterans organization in Franklin County, when Wilbur Dennison Post Number 2014 Veterans of Foreign Wars was organized on April 5th, 1945. This Post received its Charter in November of the same year and maintains a Club-Room for its members. It was named for one of Franklin County's casualties in the War and who had been enrolled by his mother some time prior to his death.

WORLD WAR II

It is not the purpose of this more or less informal history of Franklin County's activities in our different Wars and of the various Veterans organizations which grew up as a result of those conflicts to give a complete history of our participation in World War II. Limitations of space forbids and our record can best be read in the individual sketches which follow. Suffice to say that while we were furnishing over 1200 men to the Armed Services, private citizens of all walks of life were giving freely of their time and services in the various "drives" for Red Cross and U.S.O.; on registration and Draft Boards; scrap paper and scrap metal collections; and all the various duties that became incumbent on all good and patriotic citizens.

If World War I came as a "bolt from the blue," World War II was even more sudden in its impact. Although many Franklin County boys were already in the Service due to enlistments and to the first peace-time draft in our history actual war seemed remote. With the attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7th, 1941 came our first casualty in the person of Shelby Treadway, a Gunner's Mate on the Battleship Oklahoma. He was a resident of Oak Forest where he had lived with his uncle Bige Hubbard, who was destined to lose a son in the conflict. The opening of the War also found several Franklin County boys in the Pacific War Zone, one of whom was captured in the Philippines and who remained a prisoner of the Japs until the end of the War. He was Lieutenant Robert Geis, a son of William Geis of Brookville. Altogether, 52 boys from Franklin County gave their lives that all people might be free and their names are incorporated in this volume. So far as I have been able to ascertain we have had three members of Bernard Hurst Post in both World Wars. They are John C. Moore of Metamora who was still a member of the Naval Reserve upon the outbreak of hostilities; Raymond McCarty who is still in the Service (1949) and Alfred C. Brown who enlisted and rose to the rank of Major, and Lee Bennett of Laurel.

The Legion Post as an organization and Legionaires as individuals were prominent in the War effort on the Home Front. Red Cross War Relief was organized under the leadership of Ernest W. Showalter with Dr. H. E. Ritter heading a special Legion Committee. Scrap Paper drives were organized under the leadership of the Legion and the Boy Scouts. Legion Headquarters were kept open from seven until ten in the evening to give information to any ex-serviceman and to promote any War effort. Commander William Kuntz directed the Legion the first year of the War and he was succeeded by Harry Kirschbaum and Dr. H. E. Ritter as War time Commanders. A serviceman was always welcome to any facility the Post could master. Perhaps one of the best services rendered to the soldier, sailor or marine was the welcome accorded him when, upon his completion of service with the Armed Services of his Country, the opportunity was afforded him to join with an organization which would always be interested in his welfare and in which he could ever find companionship.
