PREFACE

This War Memorial has been prepared under the auspices of the Monongalia County Home Front Service Organization. The committee to which was entrusted the immediate responsibility for the publication of the volume desire to express their thanks to the members of the Organization and to various local patriotic and public service clubs and societies for their financial assistance and general spirit of cooperation in this enterprise.

The purpose of the compilers of the War Memorial was to give briefly a history of various activities in Monongalia County arising from the second World War and to list the names of all who went from this county during the war into the Armed Forces of the United States or into other related patriotic services.

This list will of course be of special interest to the parents, brothers and sisters, wives and children, and friends of those whose names appear in it. Two things about it, however, must impress even the casual reader. First is the length of the list, signifying as it does the stupendous magnitude of our country's war effort when over 7,800 persons entered the military service from a single county. Second is the immense amount of work required for the preparation of such a list. This work fell almost entirely upon Mrs. Nellie V. Gall, former Clerk of Selective Service Board No. 1.

Using the records of the two county boards as a basis, Mrs. Gall has been indefatigable in her efforts to supplement and complete these records. Unfortunately there are still some errors and omissions but these are due not to any lack of diligence on the compiler's part but to the fact that the returned veterans or their near relatives could not, or at least did not, supply full information. In some cases the men and women listed are still in the military service and their records are therefore still incomplete.

In the honor list particularly, see page 51, the fact that one man has but a single line while the citations of another may fill half a page does not mean that the first man was any less brave and heroic than the second, but that Mrs. Gall after repeated efforts was not able to gain full information about him.

Due appreciation should be given also to the authors of the several chapters which precede the two lists. Mrs. Gall wrote the History of Selective Service Board No. 1, the Biography of General Carleton C. Pierce, and revised for publication here the History of the 201st Infantry. Mrs. Eleanor Ramsey Nebera, former Clerk of Selective Service Board No. 2, contributed the history of that board. Judge Charles G. Baker wrote the account of the work of the office of Civilian Defense, Robert V. Henry who preceded Mrs. Gall as Clerk of Selective Service Board No. 1 and later became executive secretary of the local chapter of the Red Cross, contributed the article on the work of that chapter during the war, and Robert Mellace of the Morgantown Post wrote the introductory chapter, "More than a Line." To all of these writers the Home Front Service Organization feels very deeply indebted.

Recognition should be given also to General Pierce, Major Patrick J. Thompson, and to Roscoe P. Posten, local attorney, for their assistance in various matters connected with the maintenance of the War Memorial office and the publication of this volume.

My own work as editor consisted chiefly of some slight revision and condensation of the historical material submitted by other contributors, the checking of Mrs. Gall's lists, and the reading of the proof. This last was no small job and in spite of my best efforts some mistakes are still to be found. For these the reader's indulgence is humbly asked.

In conclusion I wish to express a few words of appreciation of the work of Professor A. R. Collett, for a number of years president of the Home Front Service Organization, without whose efficient executive direction and untiring practical assistance the work of the various contributors and compilers and of the editor could not have brought about the publication of this War Memorial volume.

David Dale Johnson, Editor.

MORE THAN A LINE

Robert P. Mellace

Columns of soldiers in a war are soon columns of statistics in a book such as this one. The greater the war the longer the columns of soldiers and of statistics, and the last war was of such magnitude that no one on earth escaped being woven into its texture. War, like so many creations of man, soon overshadows all men. War so engulfs man that he becomes secondary. He loses his dignity and his privacy and becomes merely a number, a position on a map, another face in a sea of faces looking with fear at his own creation, even as Frankenstein must have looked at his Monster.

With the end of a war, however, Man regains his identity and his dignity. His privacy is his own once more. Experiences are not forgotten entirely, but are tucked away in mental lockers where they can be found, brushed off, and fondled on occasion. As time goes on these occasions become fewer. War fades in the distance and there is nothing left but the residue of statistics, cold figures put to paper by mathematicians. Glorious acts of bravery are put down as "Three Silver Stars," and "One Distinguished Service Medal." There is nothing personal about them. Added together they are supposed to be significant but in their cold separate reality they mean nothing.

There are many Purple Hearts, yet not many are alike. A man could get a Purple Heart if a tiny shell-fragment pierced the skin of his arm. Another man would get one by paying the price of one arm. There is no comparison.

Captain Kirk's Purple Heart might be listed near that of a boy who suffered a minor wound. One wouldn't know, looking at the column of figures, that Captain Eugene P. Kirk went over-seas with the Infantry in February, 1944. He wouldn't know that Captain Kirk fought at Anzio and landed on the beach of Southern France, that he was captured, August 18, 1944, and escaped two days later, or that he returned to combat, was wounded, and captured the second time. The Germans moved this Monongalia County boy from Germany to Poland. His wounds became worse and a German doctor amputated his left leg. Freed at Brunswick, Germany, April 12, 1945, Gene Kirk came home for more operations. Now he has recovered his health and entered school.

George Gresko, Jr., was one of four fighting Monongalia County brothers. George stopped a bullet at El Guettar and was taken prisoner by a German Panzer unit. German doctors operated on his hip. Then he was turned over to the Italians who took him to Tunis, and then to Rome. Upon the capitulation of the Italians this local soldier was taken to Breslau, Germany, where his wound was tended by a British doctor, also a prisoner of war. While en route to Germany the prison train was bombed by Allied pilots. After fourteen operations and eighteen months in prison stockade, George Gresko was no longer a military threat to the Germans, who sent him to Sweden for repatriation. He was brought home on the liner Grips-holm for final treatment by American surgeons.

Private First Class Edward Donzel Harker of the Marine Corps picked up two Purple Hearts the hard way. When the Marines started their "impossible task" of taking the Pacific back from the Japs, island-by-island, Harker went with them. He fought through the Solomons, New Georgia, Tarawa, Midway. At New Georgia, Harker was wounded and pinned under a large tree for three days. His outfit, surrounded by Japs, could not go to his rescue. For 72 hours, without food and water, Private First Class Harker suffered. Free at last, Harker was treated for his wound and joined his outfit. Then at Tarawa he stopped another shell, but recovered and was with his organization at Midway. Finally, suffering from malaria and the effects of two wounds, Harker was shipped back to the beloved States where he became a personal guard of the President of the United States.

Wherever Americans fought, West Virginians were in the thick of that fighting, in all branches. Never forgetting their Mountaineer heritage, they named equipment for West Virginia towns, girl friends, and scenes. Major Carl W. Stewart of Snider Street flew 123 combat missions over Africa and Italy in a P-47 Thunderbolt that screamed defiance to the Germans with lead. Many a Jerry is probably still wondering what type of ship Major Stewart was flying. They had never seen one tagged—"West by Gawd, Virginia." Stewart gave air cover to Marshal Montgomery's Eighth Army over Sicily. Then he helped protect the American Fifth in its drive up the peninsula. Over the bloody beach of Anzio Major Stewart gave aid to his beleaguered companions "downstairs" and bagged three enemy aircraft attacking the harassed ground forces. Major Stewart was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with several Oak Leaf Clusters.

No doubt the sinking of the battleship West Virginia had a stimulating effect on the patriotism of these Mountaineers. Following the announcement of the Japs' action at Pearl Harbor the recruiting lines were long. The Navy, especially, appealed to the men of West Virginia to avenge the sinking of the old battlewagon and a special squadron. The Flying Mountaineers, was formed by men from northern West Virginia.

One of the first units to be called out while the nation fought for time to prepare for a global war was the 201st Infantry Regiment of the West Virginia National Guard. This purely Mountaineer unit was well known to local residents who watched the guardsmen, sometimes with a trace of ridicule, go through their training at Camp Dawson in Preston County. Local newspaper readers got to know them through stories of their hikes to Cooper's Rock, their competition in rifle matches, their maneuvers through the Preston County hills. Perhaps it was a little amusing, seeing the grocer boy working as a medical corps man in a mock battle, the carpenter's son as a rifle squad leader. War seemed so far away to those who could still remember World War I. There was nothing to get excited about just because some of the boys still wanted to play soldier. They were called "tin hat soldiers."

Then the people of Monongalia County awoke one day to find there was little between them and the bold enemy except the "tin hat soldiers." Like Tommy Adkins of Kipling fame, the "tin hat soldiers" knew the score. They knew the "troopship was on the tide" and that their day had come. They were, through their own unselfishness, among the only trained troops this great nation could command, other than a small and inadequate Regular Army.

Suddenly the grocer's boy and the carpenter's son took on a deserved importance given them by a scheming enemy who refused to play dead at the mere mention of the United States and its "potential power." The potential power hadn't been marshalled yet. The "tin hat soldiers" stepped into the breach. They were spirited out to the West Coast and then to Alaska. On those frozen wastes they stood guard. Preston County's training site was a long way off, but these men knew how to use a gun, how to organize a defense. They needed little extra training and their nation could not afford to give them what they needed. Perhaps their equipment wasn't the best. They couldn't march like the prize division of Hermann Goering, or the elite bodyguard troops of Adolph Hitler. But they could "shoot hell out of a rifle" and knew how to wrap leggings. By the Grace of God, and maybe the forced temerity of the Japs, the 201st gave the nation time and much security. The "tin hat soldiers" did their job and walked through the ice and snow of Alaska on the outposts. They did their job with none of the equipment American science could have given them. They did their job with older weapons and with clothes that had not been tested in laboratories against ice and snow. They did their job in a terrible monotony that caused many weaker men to crack under the strain. "Old Soldiers Never Die," and neither will the memory of the 201st Infantry Regiment of the West Virginia National Guard.

It naturally followed that Morgantown, as the seat of the State's University, would be asked to contribute brains as well as man-power to the nation's war effort. The University itself was called on. Faculty specialists, were called out by the various services. Reserve Officers of the last war took their places in the war machine once again.

There were many whose works cannot be here mentioned because of the limitations of space. All had the same purpose. All were building the road to victory. Maybe they worked at desks in the United States. Maybe they never heard a shot fired in anger. Maybe they never smelled cordite or did superhuman acts, but they served as best they could, as their government told them to serve. No one can ask more than that.

Sooner or later, in the story of World War II we have to get around to the story of the draft boards. These "neighbors" as they called themselves in the official papers served without recompense. They went about their unpleasant task of selecting men for the fight. Their job was, to put it mildly, a tough one indeed. It was a tough job because it is definitely un-American to tell a fellow American that he must do a definite thing at a definite time, or else. The "or else" was rarely necessary in Monongalia County. The draft board job was a tough one also because the board had to tell some men that they were not eligible for military service for physical reasons.

The draftees went through the usual rigamarole. They filled out paper after paper. They answered one questionnaire after another. The arrival of a draft card was a day never to be forgotten. Songs were written about these cards. Jokes were compiled. When a man got his "greetings" from the President of the United States he made jokes about it, but it wasn't funny.

Families were torn apart. Businesses were boarded up. Mothers cried secretly and tried to be brave. Everybody tried to soften the blow delivered with that draft card. The draftees were photographed. The civic clubs gave little parties for each departing group. It was difficult to visualize these boys in their civilian clothing going off to meet an enemy well-versed in war. After all, many of them had never done anything more violent than give another boy in knee pants a punch in the nose. How could they steal up on the enemy and plunge a knife into his back? It just wasn't consistent with normal American behaviour.

Yet everyone put up a bold front. The band played. Cigaretts were passed. People made speeches about a taken-for-granted Democracy that had suddenly become a very sacred thing. Down went the draftees to the Courthouse Square. Some mothers and fathers, too much worried about the future, didn't have the nerve to cry in front of their sons. Others, fearing their absence would affect the boys, smiled right up to the minute the bus pulled away for the induction center.

War had seemed a million miles away. Parents read about it in the papers, but the things they read were always happening to other boys, surely not theirs. Then they saw their boys being carried away to a new experience, many of them to death. Sisters, hit hard by the impact, wanted "to do something." They joined the Nurse Corps, the Wacs, the Waves, the Spars, and the Marines. Everybody could do something, but in the final analysis, these boys who smiled in the Courthouse Square were the ones who would pull the trigger, plant the mines, pilot the airplanes, steer the tanks, and pull the lanyards on artillery pieces. They were the very best America had to offer. Too soon for the enemy they proved to the rest of the world that they, better than the rest of the world, could fight.

They proved they could fly airplanes when the motors were shot away. They proved they could fire guns from the decks of sinking ships. They proved they could be bottled up, overwhelmed, starved, half killed, and still come back to give more than they had received. These boys, who stood in the Courthouse Square, proved they could dish it out.

Many of them couldn't tell whether the President of the United States was a Democrat or a Republican. For their very lives they couldn't name the State's representatives or senators in the National Congress. They did know the draft board had sent them a card. They did know they were called upon to defend a Constitution few of them had read. They did know they were fighting for home, and they fought.

Rejection for physical reasons did not stop the boys who stood in the Courthouse Square. Boys who were under age lied about their date of birth and "sneaked" into the services, and often were not discovered until they had become seasoned soldiers, sailors, or marines. Some had operations for hernia; one even had toes cut off because he had too many. One man with a steel plate in his arm slipped by the examining physicians. An officer discovered him, during damp weather, massaging the painful arm, and reported him. He came home but never stopped trying to get back into uniform. Another answered a questionnaire from the South Pacific saying that he would very much like to "appear in person" as instructed but that he did not think Admiral Halsey would approve.

Those who didn't make it were not consolable. If their friend of a lifetime had gone, why couldn't they? The draft boards had to tell them. Many wept and went off to join the Merchant Marine. Others left town to take jobs in vital war industries. They did anything to help, anything to show that they, too, wanted to serve their country.

The draft dodgers were few and no scandal smirched the records of the local boards. Sons of members of the boards were called up and took their turns, asked no favors. The sons of the wealthy stood in lines with the sons of the coal miners. Local boards tempered regulations with good sense, and few families were split until it became absolutely necessary. Local boards were among the very last in the United States to call pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

World War services had its cheerful surprises as well as sad ones. For example, Gabriel Szarka, Jr., lived to see his name posted on Monongalia County's honor list of World War II dead. Gabriel was listed as having "died of wounds received in the Pacific." but turned up to read his own obituary. He is a holder of the Purple Heart Medal. Another boy wrote back: "I am not very dead yet. Please take my name off the list or you will put the jinx on me." These are the rare cases, the cases that kept hope alive in the hearts of others not so fortunate. Some kept on looking, waiting for the miracle.

This brings us to the most difficult section of any war essay, the section devoted to the dead. Why death should be such a remote, unthought-of factor in the minds of so many is a question only the psychologist can answer with authority. He perhaps, would find the answer in that part of human mentality which provides an escape from reality. Think that something doesn't exist and it won't exist. Say it can't happen to you and it won't happen to you. Death is around the corner, up the street. It visited the Jones Family and the Brown family, but it surely won't visit your family. Or, take the other tack. When your numbers up there's nothing you can do about it. Be a fatalist. What is destined to happen will happen. Either viewpoint is a hollow shell that crumbles when death actually strikes. Theories don't stop grief. War means death and death means grief. War is wholesale death and wholesale grief.

Old soldiers know this and adjust themselves accordingly. One veteran once said he never would have a close friend in the Army. War was difficult enough without making it more so. He knew that all friends in uniform, no matter how close, would someday have to part. Perhaps it would be a transfer for one, a transfer to another outfit, or to another theater of operations. He reasoned that the scene of combat is no place for friendship. The sudden death of one friend would only add to the already overpowering burden of the other. Perhaps the grief would cause a moment of recklessness in the surviving friend and one moment is a thin wall between life and death.

He who took this view was a professional soldier, however, and the Army wasn't made of professional soldiers who knew how to do everything the right way, even how to die without needlessly hampering their objective. The Army, the Navy, and the Marine Corps were made up of young men who could not analyze such a fundamental as death and look at it in the cold military manner. They had to make friends. They had to lean on each other. They had a common discomfort. They found solace in the thought that what was happening wasn't happening only to them, but to their companions as well.

These young men soon learned to dispense death methodically, employing all the weapons science could give them. For some of them death was always imminent, but they never got used to it. They hated it no matter where it was, but they learned to take it in their stride. The sight of dead enemies, after the first shock, didn't disturb them so much, nor did the dead slaves of the enemy.

One form they certainly never got used to was the death of other Americans. Other dead Americans, strangers or not, looked exactly like other living Americans. It was one thing to look down and see the boots of an enemy. It was another to look down and see boots like one's own, on feet that wouldn't move again. Here was a Joe who a little while before was doing the same things they were doing. Here was a man who had shared their discomforts. They had never seen him before. They didn't know him, but he must have been close to them because he wore the same clothes, carried the same gun, and had the same characteristics. Maybe he was carrying his girl's picture in his pocket, or a letter from home. They could have traded places with him, by some miracle, and he would be thinking their thoughts. Death was all around, but it was never commonplace when it came to another American.

To those at home death had a different meaning. The topic was avoided in conversation. Although the first reason for taking men into the services was to have them inflict death on those who would inflict death on them, death was still too far away to cause alarm. Although each step in a man's training led to that day when he would see another man framed in the sight of his rifle, there was always the possibility it wouldn't happen. Perhaps Johnny would be used for something else. Maybe he wouldn't have to leave the United States. Maybe he wouldn't have to be framed in the other fellow's rifle sight and die.

For some there was a glamour about war not dulled by death. There was the glamour of the pink cheek, the physical fitness, the bulging muscle in the trim uniform. There was always this, but seldom death. When death came close it had its glamour too. The soldier who died was martyr and a hero. The passing of the spirit from the corporeal remains attached a certain holiness to those remains, a holiness never noticed when the spirit was in the body. Some who sang of this holiness are the insincere ones who, today, are oblivious of the suffering of the wounded and the maimed, of those who are only half-dead. Evidently the half-dead are only half-holy and not much worthy of consideration. Those who missed death and its fractions have lost, in too many minds, their heroism.

Those who know, far better than any others, that their dead were mortal are the fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, and wives who stayed behind. To these the people of Monongalia County owe more than they can ever repay. Some of us may seem to forget but we know they will never forget. To these I wish here to attempt a personal message of sympathy and consolation.

"Each year that your loved one is no longer with you your grief will be a little less obvious. This is not because you are forgetting but the scar of loss is getting a little cleaner and a little clearer. It is nevertheless a scar. Some may try to console you by idealizing your dear one but you know that though he was fine, loyal, honest, affectionate, he was nevertheless human and imperfect like his companions who came safely back home. You still think of him as a son who worried you sometimes by keeping the car out too late at night, who spent more money than he could afford and had to 'hit mom up for an extra fiver,' who teased his sisters and fought with his brothers. You think of him as a husband who sometimes forgot your wedding anniversary, who left shirts on doorknobs and socks on the floor, who stayed longer than was necessary at lodge, club, fraternity, and union meetings. In short you think of him not as an angelic hero but as human and imperfect like yourself.

You'll never forget when he had to go into service and how you worried. You thought he'd have a hard enough time taking care of himself, let alone taking care of his country. He did have a hard time. You'll remember his first letters and how hard basic was and K. P. You'll never forget his first furlough and how fine he looked in uniform. Maybe he bragged a little about getting his first stripe, or maybe he was of the type not to say a word except to inform you of the new rank on the return address. You remember how complicated and official that address seemed with all those numbers, APO's and FPO's.

Maybe he was admitted to the Officers' Candidate School and you'll remember how proud you were and how thankful. You said: 'Well, this will take another seventeen weeks and maybe things will have changed over there by that time.' But things didn't change and eventually he had to go. He was a little awkward in expressing his sentiment and trying to keep you from worry. He was worried too. War then became something tangible, something that could hurt, something more than a wedge on a map, a line in a newspaper.

His letters from over there weren't very interesting and you'll never forget trying to figure out what he tried to get past the censor. You'll never forget looking for those letters, even though they were all the same—about how his cold was, how he got your package, and that the country, underneath all the rubble, was beautiful, or, Not like the good old U.S.A. He never complained much and you never knew, to hear him tell it, what a big kick he got out of the package of canned spam. He knew you probably had spent more points than you could afford and wouldn't spoil your little sacrifice.

He didn't change much, except to pick up a little maturity that was forced on him. He was no knight in shining armor. He went right on doing little pesky tricks, only in the service they didn't call it "cutting up." They called it "goofing off." He overstayed passes and had his bad days and for this got an extra share of the dirty details.

Maybe he "got It" in the act of goofing off. Maybe he lit a cigaret when he shouldn't have, or maybe he rushed into a marked mine field to help a buddy, knowing that according to the book he shouldn't have. Maybe he got tired on an outpost and just went to sleep. Maybe he got so tired he just couldn't pull out of that last drive or make that last turn to avoid the flak. Maybe it was just one shell and mercifully quick. You'll never know. After all, everybody couldn't be a hero and rush a machine gun emplacement or fight off a squadron of enemy fighters."

Yes, the dead soldier was human and that's the way he must be remembered if the remembrance is sincere. His buddies will always remember him that way. To them he'll always be the guy who would come through with a dollar in that broke period before payday. He'll be the guy who shared his packages from home. He'll be the guy who covered up for those buddies when they wanted to take a little snooze on guard. He'll always be just himself, one of them, and no manufactured hero of the speech makers and book writers.

Many of those whose names appear cryptically in the long columns of this book are by all standards the true heroes of the war. Their glory cannot be lessened. Far many more are just the boys who were here when it all started, everyday boys on street corners, at work, in school. Such as these won the war, not the great athletes and the extraordinary men. These are the little men, the fellows who couldn't walk a mile before Uncle Sam got them. Because they were by nature and environment such strangers to such colossal tasks, their accomplishment of the tasks becomes more remarkable. Think of what they did; then, as you read column after column, try to remember that there's more than can be told in a line. Behind each name and list of accomplishments, there's far more than just a line. Those who start wars get their names in history books. Those who win wars get their names in books such as these. The war starters are remembered in an academic way, in the relationship of their acts to the history of the world. The war winners are remembered in flesh and blood, in the warm and real memory of those who care.

HISTORY OF SELECTIVE SERVICE LOCAL BOARD No. 1, MONONGALIA COUNTY

Nellie V. Gall

Organization of the Board

On September 16, 1940, the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, first peacetime conscription law in the history of the United States, was signed by Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States. After the signing of this act by the president Honorable Homer A. Holt, at that time governor of West Virginia, set about compiling lists of residents of West Virginia qualified to fill the appointments of local selective service boards and boards of appeal.

In October, 1940, the following men were appointed as members of Local Board No. 1, Monongalia County: Roscoe P. Posten, attorney, Harry L. Hall, and William S. Carrothers, local business men. This local board had jurisdiction over Union, Morgan, and Clinton districts in Monongalia County and one member was a resident of each district. Their wide acquaintance throughout Monongalia County, their knowledge of agricultural, industrial, and business conditions, not only in this locality but in the state and country at large, together with their good judgment, patience, and devotion to their country qualified them not only for the immediate job to be done but enabled them to handle successfully contacts with local registrants, industries, a wide range of government agencies, and the state headquarters of Selective Service.

Immediately after their appointment the local board was organized with Roscoe P. Posten as chairman, William S. Carrothers, secretary, and Harry L. Hall, member. Allen D. Bolton was made clerk, Joseph W. Bowers, assistant clerk, and Mrs. Nellie V. Gall, typist. These appointments were approved by Brig. General W. L. Horner, State Director of Selective Service at the time. The office staff assumed their duties on October 16, 1940. Assistant Clerk Bowers resigned and Mrs. Nellie V. Gall was appointed in his place and entered upon her duties as Assistant Clerk on November 1, 1940. On February 1, 1941, Mr. Bolton resigned to accept a position with the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company and Robert V. Henry, former Deputy Assessor of Monongalia County was recommended for appointment as clerk by the local board. His appointment was approved by Brig. General Horner and he entered upon his duties on February 1, 1941. Because of his wide acquaintance in Monongalia County, his executive ability, and his talent for dealing with people Mr. Henry was invaluable to the local board and was unquestionably one of the ablest clerks in the state. In January, 1947, Mr. Henry resigned as clerk to accept the position of Executive Secretary of the American Red Cross in Morgantown. Mrs. Nellie V. Gall was recommended for clerk by the local board, her appointment was approved by Brig. General Carleton C. Pierce, and she entered upon her duties January 27, 1947. Mrs. Carla L. Hamilton was appointed clerical assistant. Mrs. Gall remained as clerk until the termination of the work of the Selective Service Board.

Office and Office Force

The office of Selective Board No. 1 was originally in rooms 614-615 Monongahela Building. As the work progressed and additional office space was needed, room 616 was acquired. On March 1, 1947, the first two rooms were given up and the office was located in room 616. Over a period of time when the office work was at its heaviest the following typists were employed: the Misses Mary Jane Bucklew, Irene Steele, and Phyllis Hamilton, Mrs. Mary Malott, and Mrs. Carla L. Hamilton as occupational questionnaire clerk.

Whittlesey. Eight of the physicians above listed entered the service of their country and served in various theaters of war.

Drs. R. W. Fisher, W. C. Moser, and F. R. Whittlesey were also on the examining board of the Armed Forces Induction Station at Clarksburg, W. Va. and made weekly trips over a long period of time to perform their duties.

- (f) Medical Survey Field Agents: Elizabeth S. Alt, Alice Duff, Evelyn Prager, Sophia Simons, and Margaret Young.

- (g) Veterans' Service Committee: A. R. Collett, West Virginia University; Brooks Cottle, Chamber of Commerce; Harry M. Fridley, Rehabilitation (WVU); Harry P. Muffly, County Agricultural Agent, Agriculture; Charles J. Parsons, U. S. Employment Service; J. C. Phillips, Service Officer, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Francis J. Price, Junior Chamber of Commerce; J. F. Stickel, Coal Industry; I. J. Thomas, Service Officer, American Legion; Harry S. Wilson, Central Labor Unions.

Some members and associate members of the Advisory Board for Registrants, some members of the Medical Advisory Board, as well as some of the examining physicians are especially deserving of commendation for their tireless efforts to carry their share of the responsibility for making selective service a success. Local Board No. 1 desires to make special mention of the following: Dr. W. B. Baily, Don Eddy, Dr. R. W. Fisher, Chester Hunter, Kermit Mason, Dr. W. C. Moser, Ward D. Stone, Dr. C. T. Thompson and Dr. F. R. Whittlesey.

Other Cooperative Organizations

The Selective Service Local Board No. 1 was greatly aided in its work by the cooperation of the following organizations: Agriculture War Board, American Legion, American Red Cross, Department of Public Assistance, Department of Vital Statistics, Home Front Service Organization, Monongalia County Clerk's Office, Monongalia County Health Center, Monongalia High School (colored), Morgantown High School, St. Francis High School, University High School, West Virginia University. The law enforcement officers and the local newspapers were also of great assistance as well as other agencies not mentioned. Special praise should be given the American Legion whose donation of the use of their Armory as a definite point of departure for men leaving for their induction stations greatly facilitated the work of the Board. Special commendation should also be made of the work of the Home Front Service Organization. A detailed account of this organization and its work may be found on page 35.

Registrations

One of the duties of all selective service boards was, of course, the registration of men as specified by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, namely, men between the ages of 18 and 65. The first registration was conducted under the leadership of A. R. Martin, County Clerk of Monongalia County. Later registrations were conducted in the local board office by the personnel of the board or in designated school buildings by teachers who volunteered their services. All these registrations were conducted without unusual incidents except that in the last one a large number of boys falsified their ages so that they might be called into service without the consent of their parents. A complete list of the registrations conducted in Monongalia County with the date of each and the age limits set for registrants in each may be found on page 24.

When the registration cards were sent into the office of the board each man was assigned an order number as follows. The board members and office force sat around a large open box in the center of the room. Each took his turn at tossing cards into the box until all had been disposed of. This seemed a logical, fair, and rapid way of shuffling the cards. After the cards were thus shuffled each was given a number and was carefully checked to determine if the information given was sufficient as to the registrant's address, description, date of birth, etc. To weed out errors and unnecessary registrations dates of birth were checked with birth certificates and records at the court house.

The procedure outlined above entailed a large amount of correspondence and investigation but unquestionably saved a great deal of confusion and investigations that would have had to be made at a later date. The local newspapers published the names and numbers of registrants and lists were also on display at the office of the board.

Classification

The most important occupational backgrounds of registrants and employers in Monongalia County are here listed:

Agriculture—dairy farming, cattle farming, general farming, market gardening.

Building construction—building of Ordnance Plant, emergency housing, erection of coal tipples, etc.

Education—West Virginia University, University Demonstration High School, Morgantown High School, Monongalia High School (colored), St. Francis High School, Morgantown Business School.

Manufacturing—ammonia, by-products, glass, concrete blocks, brick, tile, brass products, lumber, furniture, shirts, ice-cream, butter.

Mining—coal, limestone, silica, stone.

Professional—teachers (see above), physicians, lawyers, mining, civil, electrical, mechanical, industrial, and chemical engineers.

Classification was not final with the first listing. As changes came about in the registrant's individual, marital, and occupational status, reclassification was necessary to help meet the needs of the armed forces. Classifications was made on the individual's status by information contained in the registrant's folder: namely his Selective Service Questionnaire, supplementary information attached thereto, supporting affidavits, employer's request for deferment, affidavits of dependents, physicians' statements, and reports of investigating agencies. Registrants, their dependents, and their employers were always properly notified of the classification. The Government Appeal Agent was notified when cases had been acted upon by the Appeal Boards. At all times a record of classifications was posted on the bulletin board in the local office and the Classification Record Book was available at all times for inspection. For registrants requesting permission to leave the United States, proper affidavit was filed and questionnaire and classification were completed before a permit was issued.

In view of the Selective Service Board's responsibility to help maintain a high order of civilian morale in the community and to retain an adequate supply of manpower in the industrial, agricultural, and educational fields, the process of classification as above described was a stupendous undertaking. That the local boards took their responsibility seriously is a matter of record.

Other Problems of the Selective Service Board

Deferments. The board's attitude toward industrial deferments was liberal but proper requests for such deferment were required in all cases, claims for deferment of the "indispensible person" were scrutinized carefully, and by no means all were granted. The Agriculture War Board cooperated to the fullest extent with the board as to requests for deferment for farm labor. Throughout the classification procedure the board acted on the principle that its duty was to meet quotas with the least possible interference with community, organization, or industrial life.

Dependency. A large percentage of registrants who were responsible for the support of one or more members of their family acknowledged that the allotment made to their dependents, if they entered the service, would be sufficient to care for their needs. All such cases were investigated through the Department of Public Assistance, the American Red Cross, or the law enforcement officers. Cases of extreme hardship were carefully investigated to determine if factors other than family income had to be dealt with. In cases of invalidism or old age, it was the personal service of the registrant that was needed as much as, or more than his financial aid. In such instances visits to the homes were made by a representative of the Department of Public Assistance, American Red Cross, or law enforcement officers. Reports made by the investigating agency, affidavits furnished by the registrant and by members of his family, doctor's reports, and the personal knowledge of local board members were the determining factors in classification.

That the man with the largest family has the most to defend and should be among the first to go to war may be the policy of many foreign nations but it was not that of the local board. It was a special objective of this board to keep the family with children intact to the greatest possible extent. This was especially true during the time that there was sufficient 1-A man power to meet the quotas. Each case, however, was investigated and decided on its own merits.

Conscientious Objectors. Cases of conscientious objection were classified not only on the basis of the registrant's file but after further investigation of his religious training and his activities in support of that training. The board acted reluctantly but tried in each case to comply with the statute recognizing conscientious objections to war.

Delinquency. Delinquency has been a minor problem with this local board. During the early years of Selective Service most cases were due to the failure of the registrant to keep the board informed of his latest address.

Physical Examination of Registrants

During the early part of the work of Selective Service the "screen examination" given by the local physicians was more of an inspection than a thorough examination. This screen test weeded out the obvious defects, deformities, and some cases of organic disease, and brought to light the venereal disease cases. Though the screen test was not as thorough or conclusive as the examination given at the induction station, it was a wise procedure for obvious cases and for the registrant who was reasonably sure that he had a disqualifying defect. Later the examinations given by the local physicians were in accordance with the physical standards used by the Armed Forces Induction Station. Doubtful or border-line cases were referred to the Medical Advisory Board for further examination.

Because of ignorance, over-confidence in their physical condition, or in some instances, lack of definite determination before examination at the induction station, many registrants quit their jobs, disposed of their personal possessions, and made definite arrangements to enter the armed forces, only to be rejected at the induction station. This was not altogether the fault of the selective service procedure but happened in many cases because the registrant would not or did not heed advice given at the office of the local board.

Women in the Service

Board No. 1 has the records of ninety-two veteran women with addresses under the jurisdiction of the board, who served throughout the emergency in various branches of the service. There are no doubt many more women citizens of Monongalia County who were in the service but of whom the board has no record.

Reemployment and Readjustment

Mr. Henry and Mrs. Gall made special efforts at all times to assist the veteran to obtain his old job or find new employment and to make general readjustment to civilian life.

Paul H. Sommer, reemployment committeeman, has been instrumental in ironing out misunderstandings between veterans and employers. These misunderstandings came about because of misinterpretation of the veteran's rights under the Bill of Rights. None of them was of a serious nature. In Monongalia County there has been little difficulty in the experienced or educated veteran's obtaining employment. In a great many cases the veteran who could not get the type of work he wanted or who was not prepared for the work he preferred returned to school. The need for higher or specialized education was emphasized by the experiences of the veteran while in the armed forces. To satisfy their need for more adequate training, many veterans returned to our high schools or the West Virginia University or went to other localities to enter colleges or trade schools.

Conclusion of the Work of Board No. 1

During the long years of selective service from October, 1940 to May 31, 1947, no changes were made in the membership of Local Board No. 1. The members, as well as the members of the various cooperating boards served on a voluntary basis. Because of the large registration at West Virginia University, the building and operation of the Morgantown Ordnance Works, and the other industries in this locality, the work of the board was increased many times above normal. The handling of registration and the transfers of those enrolled in school and engaged in activities of local industries was in itself a major job. The Record of Transfers Book now consists of sixty-nine pages (over 2,000 names) to attest to this fact. Approximately five hundred meetings have been held by the board.

The last call for men to be delivered to the induction center by Board No. 1 came on October 2, 1946. The Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 expired on March 31, 1947 and the Selective Service boards went legally out of existence on May 31, 1947. The interval between these dates was devoted by the clerk to the great task of completing the Selective Service records. Some idea of the clerical work necessary in connection with the selective service may be gained from the fact that these records now fill twelve large four-drawer metal files, two single files, and thirteen card files.

Recognition of Work of Local Board No. 1

Brig. General Carleton C. Pierce was appointed Acting State Director of Selective Service on January 21, 1941 and was appointed Director on October 19, 1941. Through the years since, the members of Monongalia County Selective Service Board No. 1 have deeply appreciated the attitude of friendship and confidence shown toward them by General Pierce and his staff.

In 1942, the Morgantown Kiwanis Club presented to Mr. Posten, chairman of the board, a beautiful American flag. Since then, until the termination of the board's work, the colors of "Old Glory" have waved above High Street from the office of the board on the sixth floor of the Monongahela Building.

Those designated in Selective Service Board work as uncompensated personnel, that is board members, local physicians and appeal agent, who served without salary or fees and who continued such service for two years or more were awarded Selective Service Medals and Certificates of Merit by the President of the United States.

On April 26, 1946, Chairman Posten of Local Board No. 1, William S. Corrothers, Secretary of the board, Jesse Jaco, Appeal Agent, and Dr. W. C. Moser, Examining Physician, went to Clarksburg and received in person from General Lewis B. Hershey their medals and certificates. Others were awarded in absentia.

In general it may be said that the citizens of Monongalia County feel that the arduous task of the local selective service boards has been accomplished with a minimum of misunderstanding, dissatisfaction, and complaint, and that the members of these boards deserve and will receive great credit for their unselfish patriotic service.

HISTORY OF SELECTIVE SERVICE LOCAL BOARD No. 2

Eleanor Ramsey Nebera

Organization of the Board

When Monongalia County Selective Service Board No. 2 was organized in October, 1940, Isaac L. Van Voorhis was appointed chairman, Rezin Chisler, secretary and George W. Matheson member. They continued to serve during the entire life of the board. The board had jurisdiction over Battelle, Cass, Clay and Grant districts. The occupational background of this area was chiefly farming and coal mining, the latter being more important. The office of the board was located in the City Building on Spruce Street in Morgantown.

De Sales R. Cotter served as clerk of the board from October 17, 1940 to March 15, 1944, when he was called for military service. He was killed in the service as the result of an automobile accident in France, January 20, 1946.

Helen C. Tennant was appointed stenographer on October 17, 1940, and served until January 1, 1941. On January 15, 1941, Eleanor Ramsey was appointed to replace Mrs. Tennant and served in that capacity until March 15, 1944, when she replaced Mr. Cotter as clerk, in which office she served until May 31, 1947.

Office Force

During the period from October, 1940 to June, 1947, the following people, other than those already mentioned, were employed by the board. June Areford was appointed Clerical Assistant (Occupational Questionnaires) on May 1, 1942, and served until January 9, 1943. Emzie Varner and Ida Mundell were appointed October 5, 1942, to assist Miss Areford (OQ work). Both served until March 15, 1943. on October 28, 1943, Frances Sabatini was employed as Clerical Assistant and continued to serve until June 1, 1947.

Co-operative Appointments

Assisting the board in their great task of selecting men for the armed forces were:

(a) Examining Physicians. Eldon Tucker (January 15, 1944-June 1, 1947), Carl Johnson (January 15, 1941-June 1, 1947), William Scherr (January 15, 1941-June 6, 1943), Brinley John (June 13, 1941-April 21, 1945), H. A. Rich (June 13, 1941-June 6, 1942), and R. R. Summers. Dr. Carl Johnson and Dr. Eldon Tucker continued their service until the board terminated its work, and also assisted returned veterans whenever necessary.

(b) Medical Advisory Board. Same as Local Board No. 1. (see page 19).

(c) Government Appeal Agent. Glenn Hunter (appointed October 17, 1940).

(d) Advisory Board for Registrants. Same as Local Board No. 1. (see page 19); Associate members: Dan P. Campbell, Robert Core, W. B. Haught, A. L. Headlee, H. Wayne Pixler, Howard Weaver.

(e) Reemployment Committeeman Bernard Smith (July, 1942-January 5, 1944), Francis Price, and Paul Sommer. Both Mr. Smith and Mr. Price resigned their post because they were transferred by their employers to other cities.

With the cooperation of these subsidiary boards and committees the work of Selective Service Board No. 2 progressed unusually well although over-time labor was frequently necessary.

Registration

Registration of men living under the jurisdiction of this board was held on the same dates and was conducted in the same manner as has been already shown in the history of Local Board No. 1. (See Page 24). In Clay and Battelle districts the board encountered transportation difficulties since bad roads in this part of the country and gasoline rationing frequently made it difficult for registrants to report to the board promptly when scheduled for examination, final instructions, etc.

Classification

At the risk of some repetition it has seemed best to quote exactly what the clerk of the second board, had to say under this heading in her final report.

The classification of registrants was a long process. Because of the constant changes in regulations, marital status of registrants, occupational demands by employers, and demands for manpower by the Armed Forces, no classification was permanent. Classification of a registrant was based on the information filed in the individual's cover sheet. This information consisted of DSS Form 40, filed by the registrant giving a picture of his marital and occupational status. Employers also had the opportunity to file any information and requests that they desired. Investigations, when requested by the board, had to be made by the State Police, Department of Public Assistance, and the Red Cross. All information submitted by these organizations had a bearing on the registrant's classification.

Deferment Policies

This board had under its jurisdiction a large coal mining area, the Morgantown Ordnance Works, producing ammonia for the War Department, farming and manufacturing establishments of various natures. All requests for deferments submitted by these companies had to be considered carefully so as not to interrupt production and yet meet the demand for manpower set forth by the Armed Forces. Often these cases needed much consideration before a classification was issued, but the board was still rather liberal toward such requests.

Dependency

The statements under this head in the history of Selective Service Board No. 2 are so very similar to those made in the report of Board No. 1 that it seems scarcely worth while to repeat them here.

Delinquency

Local Board No. 2 had very little trouble with delinquents.

Those few apprehended were only too glad to volunteer for military service.

Conscientious Objectors

All but two of the conscientious objectors under the jurisdiction of Board No. 2 were found physically unfit for military service. This problem therefore gave the board very little trouble.

Physical Examination of Registrants

Conclusions of Board No. 2 as to the efficiency of the so-called "Screen test" in the early days of the war, the complete examination of individuals by the local board physician which came later, and the medical survey program just beginning to function at the close of the war were practically the same as those reached by Board No. 1. (see page 22) and it seems unnecessary to repeat them here.

Reemployment and Readjustment

The two boards in this county had a combined program for reemployment and aid to veterans. All men appointed as counselors devoted a great amount of time to organizing committees and schedules whereby any veteran, regardless of his problem, would be able to talk to a counselor. Our reemployment committeemen devoted much time to ironing out the problems between the veteran and his employer. The programs followed by these boards is similar to the one later recommended by State Headquarters.

Evaluation of Selective Service in Monongalia County

On this subject the opinion of Selective Service Board No. 2 as expressed through the report of its clerk seems very much worth preserving here:

When the Selective Service Act was signed in 1940, no one fully realized just what this agency would accomplish before it would be discontinued. This board, and I am sure I speak for all the citizens of the county, feels that it would have been almost impossible to write a better Selective Service Law. As far as scope is concerned, the law had many complicated situations to cover, and the way in which it covered these vast personal differences was amazing. The law was constructed in such a way that objection was almost impossible. This contributed much toward making our job easier for us, for the majority of people have approved of its action. Everyone in the county seems to have cooperated to the fullest extent, and we have learned much from it. The way this law coped with the situation showed us, beyond a doubt, that a democracy, as long as the people are working for it, can cope with any situation that may arise. And we realize that the Selective Service Law dealt with only one small part of the many emergencies that this democracy has had to deal with during the war.

BIOGRAPHY OF BRIGADIER GENERAL CARLETON CUSTER PIERCE, HONORARY RETIRED LIST AUS.

Nellie V. Gall

General Pierce was born at Rowlesburg, W. Va., October 19, 1877, the son of Amanda Elizabeth Moore and John Franklin Pierce. General Pierce was married to Mary May Buckner and they have two sons, both of whom served in the armed forces during World War II; Carleton, Jr., with the Navy and Oscar with the Army.

General Pierce who is listed in Who's Who, taught school in Preston County and later attended Franklin College in Ohio and West Virginia University, from which latter he was admitted to the bar. In addition to serving as Prosecuting Attorney, member Board of Education, and member of the Legislature from Preston County, he has been interested in mining, public utilities, and fruit growing. His fraternal affiliations are Sigma Chi, Masons, and Knights of Pythias.

General Pierce has a long and creditable record of military service with the West Virginia National Guard. He enlisted in Company H, 2nd Volunteer Infantry, June 25, 1898. He was mustered into Federal service, Spanish American War, at Charleston, W. Va., as 1st Sergeant, on July 4, 1898, appointed 1st Lieutenant February 28, 1899, and commissioned Captain and assigned to Company G, First Infantry, April 10, 1900. He was promoted to Major, June 2, 1905, and to Colonel December 1, 1907. He was commissioned Brigadier General, Adjutant General of West Virginia March 11, 1929. General Pierce served as Adjutant General and acting Adjutant General for thirteen years and reorganized the West Virginia National Guard in 1908 and 1929. Called to active duty in the Army of the United States September 17, 1940, he served until October 19, 1941, when he was retired for age and appointed State Director of Selective Service, having previously served in an acting capacity. He was placed on the Honorary Retired List AUS "in recognition of honorable and meritorious service and continued interest in National defense." On completion of his work as State Director of Selective Service, August 31, 1947, General Pierce was appointed Director of the Office of Selective Service Records. General Pierce whose home residence is Kingwood, W. Va., has freely given of his time and abilities in the interests of the West Virginia National Guard over a period of more than forty years, and was awarded the MEDAL OF MERIT by the President of the United States for "unusually conspicuous and outstanding service" during World War II.

201ST INFANTRY, WEST VIRGINIA NATIONAL GUARD

Revised by Nellie V. Gall

What is now known as the 201st Infantry, West Virginia National Guard, is the second oldest military organization in service for the United States Government. Its colors carry the streamers of the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812 against the British; its units have engaged in every conflict fought by our Government since the formation of the nation. The famous Fife and Drum Corps and the Regimental Bands have played for the soldiers of this Regiment, every war tune known to the fighting men of America.

The first unit of what is now the 201st Infantry was instituted February 17, 1735 when Morgan Morgan, first white settler of the territory that later became West Virginia, was commissioned Captain at Orange Court House, Va. The company formed by Morgan was a part of the Orange County Militia, but in 1738, after Orange County was divided into the counties of Orange and Frederick it became a part of the militia of the latter county.

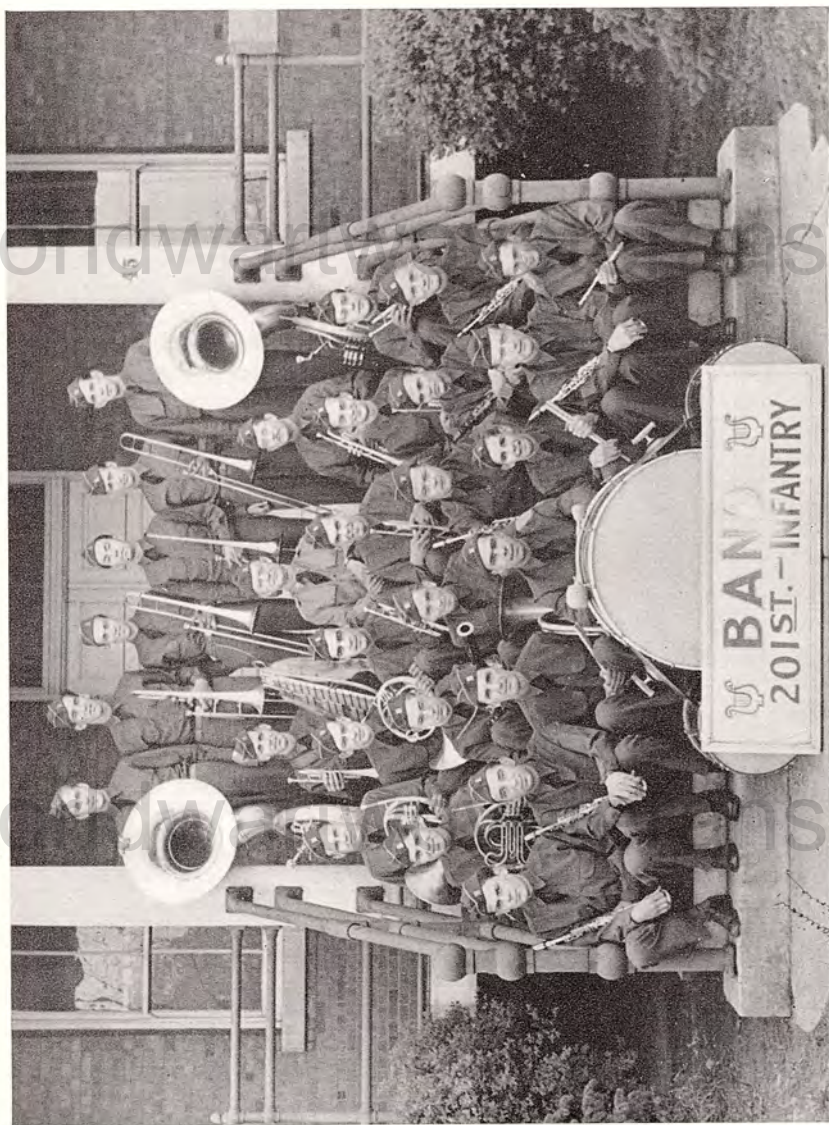

Long before the Revolutionary War in 1775, the units did hard fighting against the Indians on the Virginia Frontier in the 1750's, and they marched with Major George Washington against the French and Indians in 1753, and again under the command of Colonel Washington, in Braddock's ill-fated retreat from Ohio. Men of this regiment surrounded General Braddock at the time of his death in 1755. Five of the units were present at the surrender of Cornwallis.

While George Washington was a surveyor for Lord Fairfax, he was a frequent visitor on the drill green near the pioneer churchyard. General Washington rode out to meet a unit of this regiment when it marched into the Continental lines gathering at Boston, dismounted, took every soldier by the hand, called many of them by their first names, and remarked, "Let me plant my banner in West Augusta (West Virginia) and I will surround it with fighting men who will drive the invaders from our land." Units of this regiment fought in every important engagement in the Revolutionary War and gave five generals to it: Gates, Charles Lee, Adam Stephens, Daniel Morgan, and William Darke.

In 1792, the militia was organized as the 55th and the 67th Regiments of Militia. Two companies of the 67th Regiment were in federal service for short periods during the War of 1812, and on August 3, 1848, one company was mustered out of federal service after having served in the Mexican War. One company of the 67th participated in the operations incident to John Brown's Raid in 1859.

The Coat of Arms of the Regiment is one of the few that display service in all of the wars and carry the Blue and Gray of the Civil War. Companies B and C joined the Union Army; five units joined the Confederate Army.

Company B, under the command of Capt. Joseph Kerns, took part in the following major engagements: Orleans, Cross Roads,

201st. Infantry Band

Cedar Mountain, Antietam, Winchester, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, and Gettysburg. Company C, under the command of Capt. Peter Tabler, was assigned to the famous Third West Virginia Cavalry, and fought in the following major engagements: Carters' Farm, Newton, Winchester, Bunker Hill, Martinsburg, Hagerstown, Hancock, Moorefield, Fisher's Hill, Mt. Jackson, Brown's Gap, Milford, and Front Royal. It was regarded as one of the best cavalry regiments in the Union Service.

The five units that joined the Confederate Army, and fought for the Lost Cause, were under the command of the following officers: Stonewall Jackson, Fitzhugh Lee, and Zeb Stewart.

After West Virginia was admitted to the Union as a separate state the old 67th Regiment continued until 1878 when it became the 1st West Virginia Infantry. In 1898 the First and Second Infantries, West Virginia, were combined to make up the 1st Infantry, West Virginia Volunteers. The 1st Infantry did not see service outside the continental limits of the United States during the Spanish-American War. In 1899 the 1st West Virginia Volunteer Infantry was mustered out of service and the 1st West Virginia Infantry was reconstituted with the former units.

The 1st West Virginia Infantry was mobilized at Fairmont, W. Va., March 28, 1917 for service in the first World War, sworn into federal service on August 15, 1917, and assigned to the 38th Division. One battalion was regarded as one of the best in the American Expeditionary Forces. Because of the importance of their mission, units of this regiment were retained in Europe as long as six months after the entire division had been mustered out of service. Because of the mileage covered in the special assignments of this battalion it became known as the "Million Mile Battalion."

The reconstruction of the 1st West Virginia Infantry was started in 1923, and in 1926, its designation was changed to 201st Infantry, West Virginia National Guard, and it was continued as such until ordered for active duty.

On January 6, 1941, the 201st Infantry, composed of companies in the northern part of the state, was inducted into federal service and ordered to station at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. Units of the 201st Infantry with headquarters at Morgantown, W. Va., were as follows: Headquarters Detachment, Medical Detachment, Anti-Tank Company, Regimental Band, and Company C. From Fort Benjamin Harrison the 201st proceeded to Fort Lewis, Washington, and from there to strategic points of operation in Alaska, for active participation in the second World War.

After return from Alaska soldiers of these units were used as replacements in other units and fought on the many battle fronts of this great war. Members of these units were decorated for meritorious and distinguished service and in some cases "beyond the call of duty," as denoted in some of the posthumous citations received by their families.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE IN MONONGALIA COUNTY, 1942-1945

Judge Charles G. Baker

The Office of Civilian Defense (O.C.D.) was organized in Monongalia County early in the war. It had two primary functions: (1) protection, the preparation of the citizens to protect themselves and their neighbors in any emergency; and (2) participation, the organization of the citizens to share in all phases of the war effort.

The over-all governing body of the O.C.D. was an executive committee of which W. S. Downs was chairman during most of the war. He was later succeeded by Rev. Dr. W. Sproule Boyd. Clarence Johnson, at that time sheriff of the county, was commander of the Civilian Defense Corps.

The protection phase of civilian defense was developed according to the national plan, with Dr. W. E. Paul as chief executive officer. Following is a list of the various aspects of the work of protection with the chief responsibilities and the citizens in charge of each:

(1) The Patrol Center. This was the office from which all emergency services were directed and to which all reports were made. During most of the war the patrol center was located in the basement of the United States Post Office building on Kirk Street. Dr. Paul was in direct personal charge.

(2) Fire Department. Auxiliary firemen and reserve squad. Harry E. Pickenpaugh.

(3) Police. Auxiliary police and bomb squad. Warren C. Pickett (police) and Howard Simon (bombs).

(4) Air Raids. There were between six and seven hundred wardens and fire-watchers, organized into zones, sectors, and posts. Kermit R. Mason was chief air-raid warden during the early part of the war. When he entered the military service he was succeeded by Charles G. Baker.

(5) Medical Service. Dr. Eldon B. Tucker was in general charge and Mrs. Eleanor Cordray in charge of the nurses.

(6) Public Works. Demolition of damaged buildings, clearance of roads, etc. Don K. Marchand was in charge.

(8) Messenger Service. Organization of boy scouts to serve as messengers during blackouts and other emergencies. L. J. Wilson was in charge.

(9) Driver Corps. This was maintained by women of the Red Cross Motor Corps.

(10) Civilian Defense School. In this members of the Corps received varying amounts of specialized training for use in emergencies. Professor Samuel Morris conducted this school. The O.C.D. also organized and maintained a first-aid school which was attended by hundreds of people.

The second general phase of the O.C.D. work was participation.

The entire community was organized under what is known as the block system, to the end that each and every home could be contacted on very short notice for any one of the several war efforts, educational, salvage, bond sales, etc.

A great deal of time and some money were used in the organization of the Civilian Defense Corps. Fortunately, these services were never needed in an actual emergency. In the opinion of many people who were close to the work the greatest benefit derived from the O.C.D. came from the fact that the activities carried on by hundreds of leading citizens all over the community in their black-outs, their first aid training, their instruction in gas and fire-bomb defense, etc., awakened them to the gravity of the war emergency and induced cooperation to further our national military efforts in a most important way.

The O. C. D. was not needed for any great internal emergency but without it Monongalia County like hundreds of other communities over our country would hardly have realized that we were in a great war which we might lose. With it an unequalled spirit of community cooperation was built up. It performed a unique service in aid of the war.

HISTORY OF THE MONONGALIA COUNTY HOME FRONT SERVICE ORGANIZATION

David Dale Johnson

Origin

The Monongalia County Home Front Service Organization came into existence at a meeting held in the Morgantown First Baptist Church at 3:00 P. M. on May 3, 1942. The organization was sponsored by the Elizabeth Ludington Hagans Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, whose representative, Mrs. Cecil R. Gates presided at the meeting. One or more representatives of eighteen or twenty of the patriotic societies, public service clubs, and other organizations prominent in the community were present at the meeting.

Membership

As the Home Front Service Organization got under way fifty-eight of these societies cooperated to a greater or less degree in the various enterprises which it undertook. A full list of these cooperating organizations is given on page 38.

Officers

At the first meeting the following officers were elected: A. R. Collett, President; Mrs. Cecil R. Gates, Vice-president; Regina Cochran, Secretary; and Mrs. R. S. Tibbs, Treasurer. The same president and treasurer have remained in office during the entire life of the organization. The vice-president and the secretary have been changed from time to time as will be indicated later.

Constitution and By-Laws

At the next meeting of the organization held in the City Hall on June 12, 1942, a constitution and by-laws were drawn up and adopted providing for the annual election of officers and three (later five) directors, and for regular semi-annual meetings of the organization in January and July of each year.

According to the constitution the original purpose or function of the organization was "to give personal friendly recognition to Monongalia County men and women entering the armed forces of the United States." This friendly recognition was accomplished chiefly in two ways: by arranging a farewell party for each group of service men at the time of their leaving Morgantown; and by presenting to each man a small individual gift, a Testament, a mirror and comb case, or the like.

Committees

In the furtherance of this work a number of standing committees were set up in the organization, the most important being:

1. The Policy Committee, who recommended from time to time in detail methods of carrying out the purpose or functions for which the organization was created.

2. The Service and Supply Committee, whose work was to purchase and distribute the individual gifts mentioned above.

3. The Program Committee, who arranged for the times, places, and programs for the farewell parties and secured hosts and hostesses to serve at each one.

4. The Finance Committee, whose duty was to secure the funds necessary for the carrying on of the organization's work. Revenues were at first obtained by an annual assessment of five cents (later one cent) per month per active member of each constituent club. For example a club with twenty-five active members would contribute $15.00 (later $3.00) per year to the organization treasury.

Beginning September 29, 1942, the organization obtained part of its funds from the proceeds of the county drive which was put on by the Community Chest for the support of war agencies such as the USO, Greek Relief, French Relief, Russian Relief, and many others.

5. The Correspondence Committee, whose work it was to send and receive letters from men in service and in some cases to supply copies of Morgantown or other newspapers. Consideration was given to the project of supplying newspapers to some of the army camps but it was found that this would involve too much duplication since a number of men in these camps were already individual subscribers.

6. The Publicity Committee, who were to see that suitable announcements of the various going-away parties and other activities of the organization were made from time to time in the local newspapers.

A list of the members of these committees for the year 1942-1945 is given on pages 39-41.

U. S. Army Recruiting Station

During the war and since the United States Army has maintained a recruiting station on the second floor of the Post Office Building. From this station volunteers were leaving almost every day during the earlier part of the war. It was impossible to arrange going-away parties for these small groups but under the auspices of the Organization representatives of various patriotic societies were stationed at the recruiting office each day to bid the volunteers farewell and present them with small gifts.

Farewells for Selectees

It is impossible to tell very accurately from the minutes and committee reports of the Home Front Service Organization just how many men entered the service under their auspices during the years 1942-1946. Four thousand men would be a fair estimate of the number, for whom going-away parties were held at the American Legion Armory. It must be remembered that a considerable number of selectees left Morgantown in groups of less than ten for whom no special parties could be arranged. All these small groups received the gifts provided even though they missed the speeches and refreshments.

It must be remembered also that the Selective Service Boards were sending men to the Armed Forces for a year and a half before the Home Front Service Organization got into action, and that a number of citizens of Monongalia County whose names are included in this volume entered the service while absent from this county. Perhaps it would be fair to say that out of 7,800 people whose names are here listed about 5,000 went out under the auspices of the Home Front Service Organization.

In connection with these farewell parties especially to be commended was the hearty spirit of cooperation in the work of the organization and particularly in that of the program committee shown by the Red Cross, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the American Legion. The farewell parties were always given priority in the American Legion Armory and the Red Cross Canteen Corps and the Veterans of Foreign Wars had from one to three representatives present at each of the parties.

The Bronze Memorial

The number of men leaving annually for military service gradually declined after 1945 and no more farewell parties were given under the direction of the Home Front Service Organizations after August 14, 1946. This gradual relaxation of the primary function of the organization gave opportunity for more intensive work on two other problems or projects which had from the first received serious consideration. The first was the erection of a bronze memorial tablet at some suitable public place in the county in honor of those Monongalians who died while in active service. This enterprise is still under way and when completed will mark the end of the work of the Home Front Service Organization.

The Memorial Volume

The second project was the preparation and publication of a permanent printed record of the 7,800 or more Monongalia men and women who entered the Armed Forces of the United States during the second World War. The present volume is the realization of that project, which could not have been successful had it not been for the hearty cooperation of the two county Selective Service Boards.

Upon the termination of the work of Board No. 1 on May 31, 1947, the organization arranged for the continued use of the board's office, room 616 Monongahela Building and the employment of Mrs. Nellie V. Gall, former board clerk, to complete the research she had been doing since 1942 and to prepare the book for publication.

Two other enterprises to which the Home Front Service Organization gave some consideration were the counselling of returned veterans as to their post-war employment and the housing of these returned veterans. Just as the organization was about to engage activity in these labors the Selective Service Boards arranged for the institution of the Monongalia County Veterans Service Committee. Members of the committee were for the most part people who were also active in the work of the Home Front Service Organization but it seemed hardly necessary to the directors and officers of the latter to make any formal duplication of the work of the former body. Names of those constituting the Service Committee are given on page 41.

MONONGALIA COUNTY CHAPTER AMERICAN RED CROSS ACTIVITIES DURING WORLD WAR II

Robert V. Henry

The American National Red Cross was created by Act of Congress to carry out certain definite obligations assumed by the United States under the Geneva Convention. It is also the medium for the development and conduct of a number of closely related activities specified in the Charter. In discharging these obligations, the national organization and the chapters have extended Red Cross service into many fields of social service, health, safety and education. However, it is fundamental that the Red Cross program in its entirety be designed to maintain and strengthen society as an effective national agency always ready to meet its basic emergency responsibilities.

It is the policy of the national organization that its chapters shall not displace or compete with existing organizations, or duplicate services already provided by local public authority or existing organizations but shall consonant with chapter obligations, work constructively in harmony with all groups whose aims are the betterment of community life.

The local chapters are authorized to engage in the following services: Home Service, Disaster Preparedness and Relief, Nursing Service, Camps and Hospital Council Service, First Aid, Water Safety and Accident Prevention, Volunteer Special Services, Blood Donor Services, Nutrition Service, The Junior Red Cross, College Units, Public Information Service, Fund Raising and Membership. The Monongalia County Chapter, American Red Cross, whose charter was granted in 1917, has active programs in most of the services mentioned.

The activities of each service, including the personnel, during World War II are described in the following paragraphs:

Office Staff

Mrs. Minta H. Ridgway, Executive Secretary.

During the entire war period, Mrs. Minta Ridgway was the Executive Secretary and directing head of the local chapter. Too much cannot be said about the quality of the service she rendered to the general public, to the servicemen, to their families, and to the war effort in general.

She was constant in her energy, her enthusiasm, and in her intelligent striving to make the work of the chapter in all of its phases a profound, beneficial, local influence in winning the war. Hours were never too long and problems were never too difficult for her to give her best effort.

It can be said without exaggeration that more of the Chapter's successful handling of war problems was due to Mrs. Ridgway's efforts than to those of any other person. Many people gave of their time, thought and energy, but topping them all were those of Mrs. Ridgway.

Mrs. A. C. Wilson, Home Service Secretary

Mrs. Lura Miller, typist

Evelyn Fairchild, typist

Home Service

In August, 1942, Monongalia County Chapter, American Red Cross, secured the services of a full-time paid Home Service Social Worker. Mrs. A. C. Wilson was selected by the Executive Committee to do this work and continued in this capacity throughout the war. Home Service is a program of family service through which the American Red Cross carries out its primary responsibility to servicemen, veterans and their dependents. Since this program was inaugurated, 19,788 cases have been given assistance in one or more of the following services:

(a) Consultation and Guidance—services in personal and family problems. (b) Financial Assistance—on the basis of need during a temporary period pending receipt of family allowance, allotment or pay, or special non-recurring needs. (c) Benefits—assistance of dependents in presenting application for government benefits. (d) Communications—when an emergency situation arises that justifies employment of the Red Cross facilities, personal visits or interviews by Red Cross are made. (e) Information—supplying of information concerning government regulations affecting servicemen and their dependents. (f) Reporting—assisting servicemen and dependents by providing military and naval authorities with social histories required for medical and psychiatric treatment, and welfare reports on home conditions.

Disaster Preparedness and Relief:

In wartime as in peacetime, disaster relief, which is the relief given to persons affected by natural disasters such as floods, tornadoes or fires, and by disasters caused by such things as explosions or wrecks, remains the responsibility of the Red Cross. The Red Cross has both an official and moral mandate to relieve human suffering caused by natural disaster. This responsibility rests upon every chapter and upon the national organization. Red Cross responsibility in disaster relief includes emergency care and rehabilitation of families and individuals who are unable to meet their minimum needs. In addition, the Red Cross assists the responsible governmental agencies in their services of warning, evacuation, and rescue. The Monongalia Chapter maintains an active Disaster Preparedness Committee during the war years as it does in peacetime. There were three disasters during the war.

The first disaster during the war was a mine explosion in Christopher Coal Company Mine No. 3 at Osage, W. Va., on May 12, 1942, when 56 men were killed. The Monongalia County Chapter Disaster Committee went into action and a temporary shelter was set up at the mine. The Canteen Corps started at once to provide hot coffee and sandwiches to the rescue squads and workers at the scene of disaster. Nurses were soon administering first aid to wives, and children of the trapped men. The Motor Corps was called to transport supplies and personnel to and from the scene of disaster. A survey was made by Red Cross of all the families affected and help was given as indicated. Telegrams were sent to sons who were in the service and furloughs granted. Eastern Area, American Red Cross Office, sent two special disaster workers into this area, who remained for two weeks, assisting the local chapter with the work necessary for rehabilitation of the families. The families also received help from the Christopher Coal Company, workman's Compensation, and Social Security.

The second disaster occurred June 9, 1942, a mine explosion in the Pursglove Coal Company Mine No. 2 at Pursglove, W. Va., where 20 men were killed. The Disaster Committee was called and the Canteen Corps provided food for rescue workers and relatives of the men trapped in the mine. Red Cross also provided two tents, 14x20; 22 stretchers, 15 iron beds and mattresses, food, clothing and nurses' supplies. There were 11 nurses and 30 volunteer workers who served for Red Cross in this disaster.

The third disaster during the war years was on April 4, 1943, when a fire of unknown origin destroyed the homes of ten families on Tropf Hill. There were 44 persons made homeless by this fire. The Disaster Committee was on the job immediately after the fire was reported and provided temporary lodging and meals for that night. The following day the Committee arranged for permanent housing for the people who lost their homes. Through public donations and Chapter funds, the families were provided with the necessary furniture and clothing to establish new homes. The Chapter provided basic needs for the families during the time they were finding new homes. Hospitalization was provided for one woman who was injured during the fire. Mr. Paul H. Sommer was chairman of this committee.

Red Cross Nursing Services

The Red Cross Nursing Services program included recruiting professional nurses for the Army and Navy, for Red Cross emergency services, and for various chapter nursing programs; disaster nursing, classes in home nursing, public health nursing and co-operation with Volunteer Special Services in the preparation and supervision of volunteer nurse's aides.

Nurse Recruitment and Enrollment was organized in 1909 for the purpose of developing a reserve of qualified nurses which the military authorities might draw from in time of war. The Monongalia County Chapter recruited 27 nurses for the armed forces in World War II. This service was made possible through the Monongalia County Nurses Association. Mrs. T. T. Zinn and Mrs. William Fitzgerald were in charge of nurse recruitment for this Chapter.

Red Cross Home Nursing

The purpose of the Red Cross Home Nursing Program is to teach homemakers and potential homemakers to give simple nursing care to members of the family, under the doctor's guidance, and to promote better community and family health. During World War II there were 314 women who completed this course. Mrs. Eleanor G. Cordray was chairman of nursing service in 1942. Mrs. Louella Crynock was chairman in 1943 and 1944, and Mrs. Verna Caserta in 1945.

First Aid

The purpose of Red Cross First Aid instruction is to provide for immediate intelligent care of the injured in an emergency. It is in no sense intended to take the place of a physician's services. There were 3,564 First Aid certificates issued during the war years, 1941 through 1945. There were 152 instructors who served 678 hours of volunteer work in this service. Several hundred Civilian Defense Volunteers were trained by Red Cross First Aid Instructors. Mrs. Mary Hartman was chairman of this service for the years of 1941 through 1944. Mr. E. L. Laughorn served as chairman in 1945.

Water Safety

The Red Cross Water Safety program is educational in its aims. It covers all activities developed through the Chapter for the purpose of preventing drowning. During World War II there were 290 Water Safety certificates issued. Mrs. Mary Hartman served as chairman from 1941 through 1944. Mr. E. L. Laughorn served as Water Safety chairman in 1945.

Volunteer Special Services

The purpose of Volunteer Special Services is to enroll and train a large number of volunteers for instant and experienced service, and to maintain an organization whereby these volunteers can be mobilized in an emergency. Each Corps is administered by this Service. Mrs. W. E. Glasscock served as chairman in 1942 and 1943. Mrs. J. B. McCue served in 1944, and Mrs. A. W. Thompson in 1945.

1. Volunteer Nurses Aide Corps. Nurses Aides assist nurses, freeing them for those services which only graduate nurses can perform. Candidates for the Corps are required to take an 80-hours training course to qualify as American Red Cross Nurse's Aide. Mrs. E. J. VanLiere served as chairman of this Corps from June 1, 1942, to July 1, 1944. Mrs. Thomas T. Zinn served from July 1, 1944, to December 31, 1945. There were 131 women who served in this Corps. They gave 39,926 hours of volunteer work in hospitals, etc.

2. Canteen Corps. The Canteen Corps is organized and trained for mass feeding in emergencies. In ordinary times this Corps sponsors and directs practical community activities related to food. Candidates for membership take the 20-hour Standard Nutrition Course and the 20-hour Canteen Course in planning, preparation, and serving of food in quantity, and the management and supervision of canteen stations. Mrs. A. R. Collett served as chairman of this corps for 1942, Mrs. Rex Longridge for 1943 and part of 1944, Mrs. Wayne Coombs for the remainder of 1944 and Mrs. Carl H. Cather for 1945. There were 27 women who served in this corps. These women gave 2,146 hours of volunteer work and served lunch to 4,753 blood donors and 1,693 lunches to servicemen.

3. Motor Corps. Members of the Motor Corps drive for all chapter services, transporting supplies and personnel; cooperate with local health agencies in taking patients to and from clinics, and supply transportation for convalescent servicemen and their families. The required training consists of Red Cross Standard and Advanced First Aid courses (30 hours total), and a 32 hour course in motor mechanics. Miss Regina Cochran served as chairman of this Corps in 1942, Mrs. J. B. McCue in 1943, Mrs. M. B. Wright to October, 1944, and Mrs. Fred R. Glisan through 1945. There were 27 who served in the Motor Corps. They gave 2,306 hours and drove 9,127 miles for Home Service calls. These women used their own automobiles for this work until April 13, 1945, when the Chapter purchased a station wagon.

4. Production Corps. The Production Corps has three divisions; surgical dressings, knitting, and sewing.

As a tank driver, T/4 Farrell was called upon by supporting infantry to neutralize some machine gun emplacements which had pinned them down. He drove his tank to the enemy position and neutralized their fire; after which a bazooka team opened fire and hit the tank, setting it on fire, and wounding the tank commander, gunner and assistant driver. The crew abandoned the tank and dashed for safety, however, their position was endangered because of the gradual shifts the enemy were making and better cover could not be taken due to the wounded personnel. Realizing the situation, T/4 Farrell rushed back to the tank, in spite of concentrated fire on his position, and beat out the flames with a fire extinguisher and blanket. He then started the motors, dropped the escape hatch, and moved the tank to the position of the crew where they re-entered the vehicle safely, and planned to evacuate the wounded to an aid station. Before the entire maneuver could be accomplished the tank struck a deep hole and threw a track causing it to be abandoned and making it necessary for the crew to seek shelter from enemy fire. The bravery and courage, displayed by T/4 Farrell, reflected the highest of credit upon himself and his actions are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Armed Forces. Son of Mrs. Pauline W. Gruner, 130 Pine Street, Logan, W. Va. Missing at sea December 18, 1944, following the capsizing and sinking of the U.S.S. Hull during a typhoon and while on a war mission in the Pacific area. Henry's commanding officer has written the following: "On the day of the loss of the ship, she was operating on a war mission in a forward Pacific area in company with a large group of naval vessels. With little warning a violent typhoon struck the group of ships. The ship withstood a terrible beating from the wind and seas as the mountainous waves smashed over her and the wind shrieked as it rose to over 110 knots, an almost unheard of velocity. I can assure you that every possible maneuver was tried to improve the ship's situation, but it was of no use; the storm had the ship in its grip. The men had plenty of time to get their life jackets on and be ready for the emergency, as the order was issued to put them on about twenty minutes before the ship went down. Shortly after noon the storm reached its height and the wind laid the ship slowly over on its side until the seas came flowing into the pilot house and down the smokestacks. She sank slowly, thereby giving the crew ample opportunity to get clear of the ship. After she sank, the seas pounded us unmercifully, throwing us about like peas in a pot of boiling water. That anyone came through that punishment is a miracle to me. After entering the water it was quite impossible to see more than a few feet because the air was full of foam and spray, and we were thrown about most violently. Henry stood his watches on the bridge where it became my pleasure to know him personally. At the time of the disaster he was making great progress toward becoming one of our better petty officers. He had the confidence and respect of his officers and fellow crew members and could be counted upon to perform his duties with diligence and dispatch." Signed. J. A. Marks, Lt. Comdr., USN.
