I. AWARD OF SILVER STAR (Posthumous) -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), file 200.6 (AG), subject: "Authority to Make Certain Awards", dated 31 August 1944, the Silver Star is awarded posthumously to:

✓ Private First Class Raymond S. Atkinson, 35657302, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Lande St. Etienne, Belgium, on 7 January 1945. Under heavy enemy shelling, Private First Class Atkinson, a rifleman, left the protection of his foxhole to aid in evacuation of wounded. Fearlessly he made two trips across terrain exposed to direct enemy fire to carry wounded comrades to points of evacuation. He gave his life in attempting to make a third trip. His supreme sacrifice was in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

II. AWARD OF SILVER STAR -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), file 200.6 (AG), subject: "Authority to Make Certain Awards", dated 31 August 1944, the Silver Star is awarded to:

* Colonel James R. Pierce, 014979, Infantry, for gallantry in action against the enemy in Belgium from 3 January 1945 to 10 February 1945. Without thought of personal danger, Colonel Pierce, was continually with the leading elements of his regiment supervising, leading and encouraging his officers and men. On one occasion the commander of a tank, which he was using as an observation post, was killed at his side by enemy shell fire, and on another shell fragments pierced his helmet. Neither enemy fire nor bitterly cold weather deterred him from remaining forward with his troops sharing their hardships and dangers and inspiring them with his leadership.

✓ First Lieutenant Milton R. Morris, 0516067, Infantry, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Aiffel, Germany, on 6 February 1945. First Lieutenant Morris led a patrol across the Our River to probe defenses of the Siegfried Line. Crossing heavy mine fields and in the face of intense enemy fire, he led an assault on an enemy bunker. Although severely wounded, he inspired the patrol to singular success. His gallant leadership and his concern and care for the wounded were in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army.

III. AWARD OF BRONZE STAR MEDAL (Posthumous) -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), file 200.6 (AG), subject: "Authority to Make "Certain Awards", dated 31 August 1944, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded posthumously to:

/ Private First Class Barraduke J. Wiltse, 39561534, for heroic action against the enemy near Chisogne, Belgium, on 7 January 1945. During an intense barrage from enemy tanks, artillery and rockets, Private First Class Wiltse exposed himself unflinchingly as he administered aid to the wounded. He personally helped to evacuate three wounded comrades. He brought a fourth to the safety of his own foxhole while he remained exposed to enemy fire. His unselfish devotion to duty was an inspiring example to his comrades in arms.

Private 2d. Co. G. Hernandez, 39863251, for heroic action against the enemy near Chisogne, Belgium. While on outpost duty, he observed an enemy patrol and attempted to fire only to find his weapon frozen. Despite heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire and the proximity of the enemy patrol, he exposed himself to warn his company of the approaching danger. Although mortally wounded in the attempt, he managed to reach his company and deliver the warning. His heroic action will live as a tradition in the memory of his comrades.

IV. AWARDS OF BRONZE STAR MEDAL ... Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), file 200.6 (AG), subject: "Authority to Make Certain Awards", dated 31 August 1944, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded to:

/ Captain Carl L. Errert, 0423374, Infantry, for heroic and meritorious action against the enemy for the period 26 December 1944 to 11 February 1945. Throughout the campaign in France, Belgium and Luxembourg, Captain Errert demonstrated exceptional leadership in employing his company against the enemy. Despite heavy enemy fire on numerous occasions, he personally checked and encouraged the men in the most advanced positions. His aggressive leadership and sound application of tactics reflect credit on himself and the armed forces.

/ Captain James F. Riecken, 01285305, Infantry, for heroic and meritorious action against the enemy for the period 26 December 1944 to 11 February 1945, in France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Germany. As an operations officer his excellent judgment and untiring efforts aided materially in the accomplishments of his battalion. On one occasion he personally led an attack across the Our River into Germany in the face of intense enemy small arms and artillery fire. His superior conduct under campaign conditions reflects credit on himself and the Service.

/ First Lieutenant John V. Murray, 01016030, Infantry, (then Second Lieutenant), for heroic action against the enemy on 8 January 1945, near Chisogne, Belgium. During an intense fight against a pocket of enemy troops in a woods, First Lieutenant Murray risked his life beyond the call of duty to reach and evacuate a wounded soldier. His daring action in the face of heavy enemy fire won the admiration of his men and was in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

/ First Lieutenant Kenneth J. Johnson, 02017628, Medical Administrative Corps, for heroic and meritorious action against the enemy from 3 January 1945 to 10 February 1945. During the campaign in Belgium and Luxembourg, First Lieutenant Johnson maintained liaison between aid stations. His duties frequently took him through terrain infested with enemy snipers and over roads heavily mined and subjected to enemy artillery fire. Unmindful of his own safety, he collected the evacuation of wounded in a highly efficient manner despite the most adverse conditions of weather and enemy action.

✓ Second Lieutenant Harley G. Cannati, 12011738, Infantry, for heroic and meritorious action against the enemy from 10 January 1945 to 11 February 1945, in France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Germany. Acting as battalion intelligence officer, he contributed materially to the accomplishment of the unit by collecting and interpreting intelligence material in a highly efficient manner. To gain information of the enemy, he frequently accompanied reconnaissance patrols and on several occasions patrolled alone along enemy lines. His actions exemplified a high sense of duty and rare courage and were in keeping with the highest standards of the armed forces.

✓ Technical Sergeant Andrew Ondich, 35510342, for heroic action against the enemy on 7 January 1945, near Maastricht, Belgium. Technical Sergeant Ondich made his way across approximately 150 yards of terrain exposed to direct enemy observation and fire to contact an adjacent friendly force. This heroic action made it possible for the two friendly forces to identify and locate their positions thus saving the possibility of many casualties being caused by the two elements firing on one another. The actions of Technical Sergeant Ondich were in accordance with the highest standards of military service.

✓ Staff Sergeant Joe L. Gonzales, 12011373, for heroic action against the enemy near Chalons-en-Champagne, Belgium, on 8 January 1945. While on outpost duty, Staff Sergeant Gonzales discovered an enemy patrol approaching his position. When he attempted to fire, he found that his weapons were broken. Despite heavy enemy artillery fire and the proximity of the patrol, he calmly worked on his rifle until it was serviceable, then delivered such an effective fire that the patrol was soon dispersed. The gallantry and cool bravery of Staff Sergeant Gonzales in the face of danger were a credit to himself and the Service.

✓ Sergeant Kenneth A. Ross, 12028143, for heroic action against the enemy near Huy, St. Vith, Belgium, on 12 January 1945. Throughout the day Sergeant Ross exposed himself to heavy barrage and enemy artillery and mortar fire as he coolly tended to keep open the lines of communication. As the shrapnel artillery covered the road with fallen soldiers, it became extremely difficult to treat wounds and administer supplies. Despite the hazards of medical aid under fire, he worked efficiently and effectively maintaining communications.

✓ Private First Class Nathaniel S. Walker, Jr., 37574558, for heroic action against the enemy on 7 January 1945, in St. Vith, Belgium. Private First Class Walker, a raftrman, voluntarily left the protection of his foxhole to aid in the evacuation. He made two trips carrying wounded through a barrage of enemy fire for approximately 200 yards. In attempting to make a third trip, his companion was mortally wounded. He alone carried him to safety. His disregard for personal safety and inspiring actions were in accordance with the highest standards of military service.

✓ Private First Class George W. Dotson, 31317390, for heroic action against the enemy on 11 January 1945, in St. Vith, Belgium. Private First Class Dotson valiantly kept the protection of his foxhole to help carry a mortally wounded comrade to an evacuation point. Although under heavy enemy fire, he elected to go to the aid of his friend. His courageous act saved one at the expense of his own.

✓ Private First Class Frank H. Hansen, 37327146, for heroic action against the enemy near Lande St., Etincie, Belgium, on 1 January 1945. Throughout the day Private First Class Hansen exposed himself to heavy barrage of enemy artillery and mortar fire as he boldly worked to keep open the line of communication. As tracer-burst artillery covered the ground with fallen debris, it became extremely difficult to trace wires and make repairs. Despite the hardships of weather and enemy fire, he worked efficiently and effectively maintaining communication.

✓ Private First Class Theodore Meyer, 37011141, for heroic action against the enemy near Hochrival, Belgium, on 1 January 1945. Private First Class Meyer reportedly and without regard for his personal safety proceeded into front line positions to evacuate casualties. In addition to his normal duties at an aid station behind the lines, he exposed himself to almost continuous enemy artillery fire and on several occasions to direct small arms fire to speed evacuation of wounded. His ceaseless efforts and heroic conduct were in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

✓ Private First Class Walter G. Wierisch, 37610563, for heroic action against the enemy on 7 January 1945, near Lande St., Etincie, Belgium. When a battalion medical aid station sustained two direct hits by enemy artillery, Private First Class Wierisch heroically and efficiently aided the evacuation of patients to the rear. Despite heavy enemy artillery fire in the area and small arms fire along the roads, he continued with his duties with complete disregard for his personal safety. His actions were in keeping with the highest standards of military conduct.

✓ Private First Class Arthur E. Morris, 3768250, for heroic action against the enemy near Lande St., Etincie, Belgium, on 7 January 1945. A medical aid station was located at a cross-roads under heavy enemy artillery fire. Realizing the danger, Private First Class forced on his own initiative a truck to speed the evacuation of patients to the rear. Unashamed of the enemy artillery and without regard for his own safety, he brought the truck to the forward position, loaded it with wounded, and returned with them to the rear. His initiative and aggressiveness in a critical situation were in keeping with the highest standards of military conduct.

✓ Corporal Floyd L. Pickering, 3732791, (then Private First Class), for heroic action against the enemy at Lande St., Etincie, Belgium, on 7 January 1945. Corporal Pickering, a company mess sergeant, our cook, remained with his wounded captain during the night on my balcony. Loading the wounded officer to the partial protection of a doorway, he applied first aid to the mortally bleeding wound. Corporal Pickering then helped to evacuate the officer across the main road to direct enemy artillery and小 arms fire. His actions called for strenuous courage and were in keeping with high standards of military conduct.

✓ Private First Class John S. Soberdo, 3736137, for heroic action against the enemy on 10 January 1945, near Villers, Belgium. During an intense, close engagement, Private Soberdo voluntarily left his position to evacuate wounded. Without regard for his own safety, he crawled on his hands and knees through the fire to the rear. Despite the intense fire from both sides, he exposed himself to the intense fire to the rear. Despite the intense fire from both sides, he exposed himself to the intense fire to the rear. His actions were in keeping with high standards of military conduct.

General Orders Number 12, Headquarters 17th Alabamian Division, AG 402, L. S. A.
16 March 1945, contained:

a truck to transport wounded to the rear. His concern for the welfare of his men and his initiative and daring in combat for them were in keeping with the highest standards of military conduct.

VI. DECISION -- So much of Section III, General Orders Number 6, this Headquarters, dated 4 February 1945, as pertains to Second Lieutenant Charles B. Lewis, O1015768, Infantry, is rescinded.

VII. AWARDS OF BRONZE STAR MEDAL (Missing in Action) -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), AG 200-6 (A), subject: "Authority to Award Captain Aardsma", dated 31 January 1945, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded missing in action to:

Second Lieutenant Charles B. Lewis, O1015768, Infantry, for heroic action against the enemy at Elbe River, Germany, on 7 January 1945. Second Lieutenant Lewis was responsible and courageous in leading an attack on heavily entrenched and numerically superior enemy forces. Although severely wounded, he maintained with his unit control to a large extent. When his unit was ordered to withdraw, he remained behind with a team to cover the retreating troops with his weapon. Such courage was in keeping with the greatest traditions of the Army.

VIII. AWARDS OF BRONZE STAR MEDAL -- VOGUE 12 Month Policy -- Is hereby confirmed and records. Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), AG 200-6 (A), subject: "Authority to Award Captain Aardsma", dated 31 January 1945, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded to:

Staff Sergeant Officer John C. Hensley, 112100023, USA, for meritorious service during the period 1 October 1944 to 1 November 1945. As leader of the Mortar Platoon, Staff Sergeant Officer John C. Hensley maintained exceptionally high standards of skill. His leadership, initiative and determination have been demonstrated throughout his record for poor or difficult assignments. Standard of conduct during the various operations has effected, will always maintain the devotion to duty his conduct and loyalty to the highest ideals of the Service. His achievements have been in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

Award of Silver Star (Posthumous)	Section I
Award of Silver Star	Section II
Award of Bronze Star Medal (Posthumous)	Section III
Award of Bronze Oak Leaf Cluster to Bronze Star Medal	Section IV

I. AWARD OF SILVER STAR (Posthumous) — Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), file 200.6 (AO), subject: "Authority to Make Certain Awards", dated 31 August 1944, the Silver Star is awarded posthumously to:

Private First Class Jerome C. Day, 16150809, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Flomizoulle, Belgium, on 12 January 1945. Private First Class Day was a machine gunner in an attack on enemy positions when his unit was met by a counter-attack from enemy tanks. Noticing that one of the tank's gun was swinging toward the position of some of his comrades, he opened fire thus attracting the attention of the tank or himself. His gallant action and self-sacrifice were in accordance with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

* Private First Class Paul Morrison, 35607966, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Dasburg, Germany, on 29 January 1945. Private First Class Morrison was a member of a combat patrol with the mission of probing Siegfried Line defenses. The patrol discovered a machine gun nest, but was unable to determine whether it was in friendly or enemy hands. Private First Class Morrison exposed himself in order either to draw enemy fire or establish the position as friendly. The enemy held the position and he was fatally wounded. His courageous action, however, enabled the remainder of the patrol to take decisive action, capture the position and continue on its mission without delay.

II. AWARD OF SILVER STAR — Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), file 200.6 (AO), subject: "Authority to Make Certain Awards", dated 31 August 1944, the Silver Star is awarded to:

Lieutenant Colonel Benjamin F. Pearson, 0383145, Infantry, for gallantry in action against the enemy at Flomurgo, Belgium, on 6 January 1945. Lieutenant Colonel Pearson ably and materially aided both his own unit and others in establishing and organizing defensive positions following a retreat from overwhelming enemy forces. While helping to direct artillery fire against the attacking enemy, a direct hit by an enemy shell killed a liaison officer and Lieutenant Colonel Pearson carried on observation for the artillery. Upon the approach of enemy tanks, he personally coordinated the fire of the tank destroyers in his area, exposing himself to enemy fire without regard for his personal safety. His heroic actions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

Lieutenant Colonel Charles J. Timmons, 0264300, Infantry, for gallantry in action against the enemy on 6 February 1945, near Dasburg, Germany. Although under heavy mortar and rocket fire, Lieutenant Colonel Timmons personally supervised crossing of the Our River by some of his troops. After the troops had been ferried across, he then led them up the precipitous slopes in enemy territory to take and secure the high ground overlooking the river. In complete disregard for his own safety, he then walked about checking the position of his men. His presence and confident manner was an inspiration to his command and was in accordance with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

First Lieutenant Stewart E. Chester, 01305729, Infantry, for gallantry in action against the enemy on 19 January 1945, near Houffalize, Belgium. First Lieutenant Chester was leader of a platoon that became heavily engaged with the enemy in a woods near Houffalize, Belgium. First Lieutenant Chester showed superior leadership and sound tactical skill as he checked the position and fire of his men and encouraged them to high achievement. Without regard for his personal safety, he repeatedly exposed himself to enemy fire to help his wounded and to supervise the withdrawal of his men in the face of superior enemy fire power. His actions were in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

First Sergeant Alfred A. Mazurkewitz, 32344613, for gallantry in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Dasburg, Germany, on 7 February 1945. First Sergeant Mazurkewitz assumed command of a combat patrol when its leader had been cut off during a fight in the Siegfried Line defenses. He demonstrated superior leadership in reorganizing the patrol after it had been ambushed. He boldly and courageously exposed himself to enemy fire to bring the wounded to places of protection. He efficiently rallied the patrol and brought it back to friendly lines. His gallantry under fire and courageous leadership were in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

Staff Sergeant Mack J. Sellers, 34171909, for gallantry in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Dasburg, Germany, on 7 February 1945. When the patrol of which Staff Sergeant Seller was a member was ambushed in the Siegfried Line defenses, he demonstrated superior leadership and high courage in helping to reorganize the patrol and got the men to covered positions. When the enemy opened fire, he daringly rushed a machine gun and knocked it out with hand grenades thus giving the remainder of his men time to seek cover. His aggressive action was in accordance with the highest traditions of military service.

Private Alvin M. Gray, 6833167, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Affler, Germany, on 6 February 1945. Private Gray volunteered for a particularly hazardous patrol to probe defenses of the Siegfried Line. While the patrol was assaulting a concrete bunker, Private Gray closed with the enemy and engaged in a hand to hand fight from which he emerged victorious. His aggressiveness in combat and his courage, coolness, and alertness under fire served as an inspiration for all members of his patrol. His actions were in accordance with the highest standards of military service.

Private Lester H. Johnson, 37358914, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Affler, Germany, on 6 February 1945. Climbing on top of an enemy bunker containing five men, reinforced by the fire of approximately fifty men in adjacent bunkers, Private Johnson demanded in German that the occupants surrender. When the enemy refused to capitulate he engaged two of them in hand to hand combat. With his bayonet and rifle he aided in knocking out the enemy bunker. His courageous actions were definitely above and beyond the call of duty and were in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

III. AWARD OF BRONZE STAR MEDAL (Posthumous) — Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), file 200.6 (4), subject: "Authority to Make Certain Awards", dated 31 August 1944, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded posthumously to:

Private First Class Donald C. Archer, 35657274, for heroic action against the enemy near Mendo St. Etienne, Belgium, on 8 January 1945. During the morning Private First Class Archer's unit was subjected to a concentrated enemy artillery and mortar barrage. Despite this fire, he moved his machine gun into an exposed position so as better to support an attacking unit. He aggressively kept up an accurate and effective supporting fire until mortally wounded by enemy shell fire. His spirit of carrying the fight to the enemy despite personal danger was in accordance with the highest traditions of military conduct.

IV. AWARD OF BRONZE OAK LEAF CLUSTER TO BRONZE STAR MEDAL — Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in letter, Headquarters XVIII Corps (Airborne), file 200.6 (4), subject: "Authority to Make Certain Awards", dated 31 August 1944, the Bronze Oak Leaf Cluster to Bronze Star Medal is awarded to:

Captain George R. Stevens III, 0448774, Infantry, for heroic and meritorious action against the enemy during the period 26 December 1944 to 11 February 1945, in France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Germany. Captain Stevens demonstrated great leadership, judgment and initiative in the employment of the heavy weapons under his command. His conduct was a source of inspiration to his officers and men and his untiring devotion to duty and his ready word of encouragement aided materially in the successful operation of his unit. The saving of many lives can be attributed to his superior use of fire power. His actions were in keeping with the proudest traditions of military service.

Technical Sergeant Alexander V. Sica, 32344231, for heroic action against the enemy near Dasburg, Germany, on 7 February 1945. Technical Sergeant Sica was platoon sergeant of a combat patrol probing the Siegfried Line defenses. When the patrol was ambushed and split by enemy fire, he showed superior leadership in directing his men to covered positions and superior courage in dragging wounded men to safety. Under cover of darkness, he brought his group through enemy lines to a prearranged rallying point and reported information that was vital to the future maneuvers of his unit. The heroic actions displayed by Technical Sergeant Sica were in keeping with the proudest traditions of the armed forces.

Sergeant Ronald B. Nicholson, 39181230, for heroic action against the enemy near Flamizouille, Belgium, on 12 January 1945. Sergeant Nicholson's unit was forced to withdraw from a position it had taken earlier in the day, but he remained as a rear guard directing mortar fire on the enemy. Although wounded about the face by shrapnel and bleeding freely, he elected to stick to his post rather than call for medical aid. His heroic action contributed greatly to the safe withdrawal of his company. His conduct was in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

Second Lieutenant Thomas F. Dugan, Jr., for heroic action against the enemy near Ershausen, Germany, on 12 January 1945. Lieutenant Dugan's unit was forced to withdraw from a position it had taken earlier in the day, but he remained as a rear guard directing mortar fire on the enemy. Although wounded about the face by shrapnel and bleeding freely, he elected to stick to his post rather than call for medical aid. His heroic action contributed greatly to the safe withdrawal of his company. His conduct was in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

Grade D. Lindrea was a member of a night patrol that was subjected to heavy enemy fire on one occasion. During the action he exposed himself to enemy fire to give aid to a wounded comrade. When the patrol was forced to withdraw in the face of superior enemy fire power, he fearlessly exposed himself with complete disregard for his personal safety to help the wounded get back to safety. His courageous action and self-sacrifice were in keeping with the highest traditions of military conduct.

Private First Class James O. Wallis, 37348356, for heroic action against the enemy near Dasburg, Germany, on 28 January 1945. Private Wallis was a scout on a patrol attempting to take some high ground in the sector when the patrol was pinned down by enemy fire. Realizing that the mission was endangered, he deliberately exposed himself so as to attract the enemy fire on himself thereby enabling the remainder of the patrol to continue. His actions were cool, intelligent and brave in the proudest traditions of military service.

Private James G. Beatty, 12078466, for heroic action against the enemy near Dasburg, Germany, on 30 January 1945. Private Beatty was a messenger in a combat patrol whose mission was to determine the disposition of enemy troops in their sector. When the scout of the patrol was fired on and mortally wounded by an enemy machine gun, he and another member of the patrol immediately rushed the gun emplacement. Their spontaneous and heroic action was performed without thought of personal safety and was responsible for the prevention of many casualties. The conduct of Private Beatty was in accordance with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

Colonel J. L. Hargrave, 0108003, General Service Corps, for meritorious service during the period 15 November 1943 to 15 January 1945. His untiring efforts to improve the state of training of his unit have been an outstanding factor in its success. Lieutenant Colonel Hargrave's leadership, personal example and his devotion to the job in hand has been beyond the call of duty. His efforts reflect great credit upon himself and his unit and is in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

Major W. J. Brimmitt, 0128601, Infantry, for heroic action against the enemy during the period 15 November 1943 to 15 January 1945. During an intense enemy action, the commanding officer was killed and the communication section destroyed. Major Brimmitt immediately displayed courage and initiative as he assumed command and personally operated it, directing the companies of the battalion in their preparations for attack. Despite the heavy enemy fire, he was instrumental in getting the units for effective action. His personal courage under fire, sound knowledge of tactics, and his bold and decisive action upon assuming command won great credit upon himself and the service.

Sergeant Victor D. Killmon, 040931d, Corps of Engineers, for heroic and meritorious service against the enemy during the period 2 January 1945 to 12 February 1945. Sergeant Killmon's courageous leadership and outstanding devotion to duty were outstanding in his company. His concern for the welfare of his men and his superb leadership resulted in no fatalities despite the highly dangerous nature of clearing minefields ahead of the infantry patrols behind enemy lines, and serving his troops as front line infantry. His efforts reflect the highest credit upon himself and upon the armed forces.

First Lieutenant Prince W. McGee, 01303526, Infantry, for heroic action against the enemy during the period 15 November 1943 to 15 January 1945. First Lieutenant McGee led a hazardous mission across the Our River into Siegfried Line defenses, capturing enemy bunkers, he was pinned down by heavy machine gun fire. In Technician Fourth Grade, 360/8226, for heroic action against the enemy near Dinslaken, Germany, on 21 January 1945. Sergeant Winkler was serving as a member of a patrol which had been ambushed by enemy machine gun fire. With the aid of a companion, he held off the enemy until he was able to silence it with grenades. His gallantry and skillful leadership were instrumental in the success of the mission.

(Then Private First Class) James F. Merritt, 366/0644, for heroic action against the enemy near Dinslaken, Germany, on 21 January 1945. When the scout patrol he was a member of was ambushed and mortally wounded by an enemy machine gun, Sergeant Merritt, a member of the patrol, immediately rushed the emplacement. With complete disregard for personal safety, they risked their lives to free the patrol from a trap which had been set. This spontaneous heroic action was responsible for the prompt elimination of many casualties and is worthy of the highest traditions of the military.

(Then Private) Carl A. Fierro, 377/206, for heroic action against the enemy near Dinslaken, Germany, on 21 January 1945. Sergeant Fierro was a member of a patrol which had been ambushed in the defense of the Siegfried Line. Seeing that the main body of the patrol had been deliberately exposed himself to severe enemy fire and was separated from his comrades, he deliberately exposed himself to severe enemy fire and was separated from his comrades. This allowed the main body of the patrol to withdraw under cover of his protection. He continued to divert the enemy with his actions until the remainder of the patrol could reorganize. Such prompt reorganization was in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

(Then Private) J. Schouerman, 3917137, for heroic action against the enemy near Dinslaken, Germany, on 21 January 1945. Sergeant Schouerman was serving as a member of a patrol whose commanding officer and assistant were killed by anti-personnel mines. Sergeant Schouerman immediately assumed command and, after being severely wounded, continued to lead the wounded members of the patrol, continued the mission. Although severely handicapped through enemy bombardment, he skillfully maneuvered his patrol to safety through enemy positions. Sergeant Schouerman's resourcefulness and coolness of mind were a source of inspiration to his men. His gallantry and skill were in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

(Technician Fourth Grade) Edward J. Tierney, 360/8226, for heroic action against the enemy near Dinslaken, Germany, on 21 January 1945. Technician Fourth Grade Tierney had determined their objective and was establishing a communication system between the two military battalions when the German military barrage began. The battalion commander was severely wounded and Lieutenant Colonel Tierney, although seriously wounded in the leg and arm, continued to operate his equipment and maintain his communications. His heroic efforts to maintain the communication system, his skillful organization and accomplishments demonstrated his superior qualities as a soldier. His intelligence in reorganizing the unit and his absolute devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

Technician Fifth Grade Hultman, 3977571, for heroic action against the enemy on 7 January 1945, near Wassenach, Germany. Technician Fifth Grade Hultman was serving as a scout for a platoon that became ambushed by the enemy in the Siegfried Line. When the platoon was surrounded, he volunteered to return to his command to warn them of the trap. Without regard for his personal safety, in broad daylight, he crawled his way back to the battalion and prevented it from falling into the trap. His courage in action was in accordance with the highest traditions.

Private First Class Antone R. Bizub, 32763315, for heroic action against the enemy on 22 January 1945, near Pollem, Belgium. Private First Class Bizub with another soldier, accompanied a patrol deep into enemy territory when they encountered heavy machine gun and anti-tank weapons fire. He skillfully led the patrol out of the line of fire and into enemy positions making a thorough reconnaissance. The information obtained during leadership proved of great value in planning an attack that followed several days later. His conduct under fire and his efficient performance were in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

Private First Class Lucien F. Cassidy, 19098287, for heroic action against the enemy on 11 January 1945, near Wande St. Malen, Belgium. Private First Class Cassidy, with another soldier, volunteered to go beyond the most advanced positions held by an officer who had been wounded in a previous engagement. At great risk to himself, these men made their way across terrain exposed to direct enemy fire to a point very near enemy positions. Reaching the wounded officer, they brought him back to their own lines through deep snow drifts and over ground bookmarked with shell craters. The action of Private First Class Cassidy and his comrade called for high courage and great fortitude.

Private First Class Joseph Dyka, 32029519, for heroic action against the enemy on 21 January 1945, near Limerio, Belgium. Private First Class Dyka volunteered as a scout for a platoon assigned the mission of seizing and securing the town of Limerio. Having full knowledge of the risks involved, he led the platoon through heavy mine fields and into the town. Due almost entirely to his skill in scouting, resourcefulness and cool courage, the platoon successfully made a surprise entry into the town, capturing twenty-three prisoners and much enemy material. His actions were in keeping with the proudest traditions of the armed forces.

Private First Class Edward G. Kohute, 33403902, for heroic action against the enemy on 7 February 1945, near Dinsburg, Germany. Private First Class Kohute, a medical aid man, accompanied a combat patrol into the Siegried line. When the patrol was ambushed and surrounded, he courageously gave aid to the wounded exposing himself to enemy fire without regard for his personal safety. His prompt action was Private First Class Ronald Endrice, 180000, for heroic action against the enemy on 23 January 1945, near Huy, Belgium. Private First Class Endrice, while serving as a platoon leader, was engaged in an assault on a bridge across the Our River. During the engagement he came under heavy fire and was severely wounded. Despite his own injuries, he continued to fight, leading his platoon through his pain and through his platoon's resistance to the enemy. His platoon's successful attack on the enemy. His effective scouting and patrol work were in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

Private First Class John J. Satorius, 35956704, for heroic action against the enemy on 23 January, Luxembourg, on 23 January 1945. Private First Class Satorius, although wounded under direct and intense enemy artillery fire, administered first aid to a wounded officer. After attending the wounded man, he made his way back to his own lines, waited until dark and then guided a rescue party to effect evacuation of his patient. His brave action in the face of heavy enemy fire was in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

Private First Class Herbert L. Smith, 36636393, for heroic action against the enemy near Lands St. Etienne, Belgium, on 14 January 1945. Private First Class Smith, with another soldier, volunteered to go beyond the most advanced positions to locate an officer who had been wounded in an earlier engagement. At great risk to their lives, they made their way across terrain exposed to direct enemy observation and fire to a point very near enemy positions. Reaching the wounded officer, they brought him back to their own lines through deep snow drifts and shell-buried roadways marked with shell craters. The action of Private First Class Smith and his comrade called for high courage and great fortitude.

Private First Class Charles R. Stewart, 18081626, for heroic action against the enemy on 28 January 1945, near Dusburg, Germany. Private First Class Stewart went out for a patrol that encountered fierce enemy fire. With complete disregard for his personal safety, he deliberately exposed himself in an effort to suppress enemy fire on himself so that the patrol could continue its mission. Not only exposed himself, but made noises and other distractions so successfully that the enemy's attention was diverted from the patrol. This daring action was in keeping with the highest standards of military conduct.

Private First Class Adrian P. Turner, 39201245, for heroic action against the enemy on 29 January 1945, near Dusburg, Germany. Private First Class Tanner, leader of a platoon assigned the mission of clearing high ground overlooking a bridge on the Our River. When the rest of the patrol was pinned down by intense fire, Private First Class Tanner and the patrol leader attacked the enemy single-handed. He handled himself and his weapon so skillfully and courageously that the enemy pocket was silenced. By this daring action, the patrol was freed and the patrol was able to continue its mission. The gallantry of Private First Class Tanner was in accordance with the proudest tradition of military service.

I. AWARD OF SILVER STAR (Posthumous) -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Silver Star is awarded posthumously to:

Private First Class Charles J. McCommon, 33679407, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Neuf Moulin, Belgium, on 19 January 1945. Private First Class McCommon was a member of a combat patrol with a mission of locating enemy automatic weapon emplacements. The patrol was forced to cross about 400 yards of open terrain and in so doing all but two members of the patrol were wounded. Private First Class McCommon and his patrol leader continued on their mission and by heroic action eliminated two enemy machine gun nests. They were then engaged in a fire fight with enemy infantrymen as a result of which they captured several prisoners. The heroic action of this soldier and his staunch devotion to duty were in accordance with the highest standards of military service. Entered military service from Pennsylvania.

II. AWARD OF SILVER STAR -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Silver Star is awarded to:

Lieutenant Colonel Allen C. Miller II, 020342, Infantry, for gallantry in action against the enemy at Mande St. Etienne, Belgium, on 4 January 1945. In the face of heavy enemy artillery, mortar and small arms fire, Lieutenant Colonel Miller heroically led his men in the attack and capture of the town of Mande St. Etienne. After occupying the position, his troops were heavily shelled from enemy positions in a woods overlooking the town. With utter disregard for his personal safety, Lieutenant Colonel Miller directed an assault against these positions and personally supervised a final bayonet charge into the enemy held woods. His leadership was inspirational and worthy of the highest praise. Entered military service from Arizona.

Major Morris S. Anderson, 0392421, Infantry, for gallantry in action against the enemy at Flamierego, Belgium, on 7 January 1945. Major Anderson, with complete disregard for his own safety, led his men in storming and capturing the town of Flamierego where the enemy had established strong defensive positions. The assault was made across a wide stretch of snow covered terrain that afforded practically no cover or concealment and subjected to intense enemy artillery, mortar and small arms fire. His gallant action inspired his men to execute an aggressive driving action that resulted in heavy losses to the enemy. His brave leadership was in accordance with the highest standards of military service. Entered military service from Louisiana.

Technician Fourth Grade James F. Hillery, 36571467, for gallantry in action against the enemy on 7 and 8 January 1945, near Bastogne, Belgium. During the intense action around Bastogne, Technician Fourth Grade Hillery was a radio operator for artillery liaison. He had two radios destroyed by enemy fire while he was operating them. He then exposed himself to observed enemy fire to repair wire communication so that artillery could be directed against enemy positions. Throughout the entire attack he called for and adjusted artillery fire missions, and requested urgently needed supplies on his own initiative. Without thought of personal safety, he consistently conducted himself with calmness and efficiency while under fire. His action was in accordance with the highest standards of military service. Entered military service from Michigan.

III. AWARD OF SILVER STAR -- VOCC 29 March 1945, is hereby confirmed and made of record. Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Silver Star is awarded to:

Captain Kenneth E. Hathaway, 01313403, Infantry, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Hammelburg, Germany, on 24 March 1945. Immediately upon landing in enemy territory by glider, Captain Hathaway, Division Headquarters Company Commander, organized a small group of men and unloaded a 57 mm gun from a glider, personally supervised the wheeling into place of this gun while under enemy fire and knocked out a German artillery piece that was firing point-blank at troops and gliders coming in on the landing field. His unhesitating and aggressive action was in keeping with the highest standards of military conduct. Entered military service from Washington.

IV. AWARD OF BRONZE STAR MEDAL -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded to:

Technician Fifth Grade Thomas A. Whitcomb, 37558080, for heroic action against the enemy near Wosc, Germany, on 24 March 1945. Technician Fifth Grade Whitcomb landed in an open field by parachute with a detachment of his unit, in enemy territory and under extensive enemy machine gun and small arms fire. Disregarding his own safety, he moved about the field, giving medical aid to the wounded. He carried a wounded comrade through heavy machine gun fire to a point of safety where aid could be given him. His heroic action was an inspiration to all who saw him and was in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct. Entered military service from Illinois.

V. AWARD OF BRONZE OAK LEAF CLUSTER TO BRONZE STAR MEDAL -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Bronze Oak Leaf Cluster to the Bronze Star Medal is awarded to:

Second Lieutenant Wyatt B. Wood, 01180778, Field Artillery, for heroic action against the enemy near Ronvaux, Belgium, on 4 January 1945. Second Lieutenant Wood was serving as liaison officer for an artillery unit with the infantry.

General Orders Number 15, Headquarters 17th Airborne Division, APO 452, U. S. Army,

Despite heavy counter-attacks, he calmly and effectively directed artillery fire on the enemy. When the infantry unit was forced to withdraw, he efficiently aided in organizing new defensive positions. He risked his life beyond the call of duty to procure equipment necessary for continued direction of fire. Throughout the engagement, his loyalty to the front line troops, his efficiency in concentrating fire on the enemy, and his cool conduct under fire deserve the highest praise. His actions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

Award of Bronze Star Medal	Section V

I. AWARD OF SILVER STAR (Posthumous) -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Silver Star is awarded posthumously to:

Corporal Clayton C. Doane, 37344185, for gallantry in action against the enemy at Flanizouille, Belgium, on 8 January 1945. Corporal Doane was in position along a main road helping to cover the withdrawal of his regiment from superior enemy forces when the enemy attacked with 18 tanks. Armed only with a bazooka, he held his fire until the lead tank was only thirty yards distant. He fired at the tank, but before it could be knocked out the enemy crew spotted his position and brought it under direct fire. The gallant action of Corporal Doane, however, served to slow the enemy advance and aided in developing a successful defense. His action was in accordance with the highest standard of military conduct.

II. AWARD OF SILVER STAR -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Silver Star is awarded to:

Second Lieutenant Robert C. Reed, 01115391, Corps of Engineers, for gallantry in action at Renartont, Belgium, on 5 January 1945. Second Lieutenant Reed's platoon was cut off by the enemy in the town of Renartont. Despite terrible artillery and small arms fire, he fearlessly moved among the foxholes of his men bolstering their morale and aiding the wounded. His cool, courageous leadership was an inspiration to his men. They fought their way out of their desperate situation, evacuating all their wounded and covering the withdrawal of an infantry battalion. His outstanding courage and fearless leadership reflect the highest credit upon himself and upon the military forces of the United States.

Technical Sergeant James D. Withers, 35700965, for gallantry in action at Neuf Moulin, Belgium, on 19 January 1945. Technical Sergeant Withers was the leader of a group of eight men, part of a combat patrol, with a mission of locating enemy automatic weapons in a woods. While crossing open ground to reach the enemy positions, Sergeant Withers' group was pinned down by machine gun fire and six of them were wounded. Sergeant Withers and his one companion continued on their mission and by heroic efforts silenced two enemy machine gun positions. They were then engaged by enemy infantry which resulted in the capture of several enemy prisoners. Directing the prisoners to the rear, Sergeant Withers continued on his mission and eventually returned to his own lines with much valuable information about the enemy located in the area. His aggressive and heroic actions were in accordance with the highest standards of military service.

General Orders Number 16, Headquarters 17th Airborne Division, APO 452, U. S. Army, 12 April 1945, continued:

Sergeant Charles P. Singhas, 33738430, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Flanizoulle, Belgium, on 8 January 1945. Sergeant Singhas joined a bazooka-man who had no loader during a delaying action against a strong enemy counter-attack. When 18 enemy tanks attacked along a road, they held their fire until the lead tank was within very close range. They fired seven rounds at the tank eventually knocking it out, but each time they fired they had to expose themselves to the observation and fire from the other tanks in the enemy column. The gallant action of Sergeant Singhas and his companion was in accordance with the highest standards of military service.

Corporal Warren A. Skendore, 36809018, for gallantry in action against the enemy during the period 19 January 1945 to 30 January 1945 in Belgium. As the only aid man with his platoon during the period cited, Corporal Skendore worked double duty as his unit, working in shifts, cleared roads ahead of the infantry in the heavily mined areas of the Ardennes. He voluntarily accompanied every mission as his unit worked ceaselessly to clear mine fields and roads. His quick thinking and coolheadedness saved the lives of several dazed and wounded men. His gallant conduct under the most arduous campaign conditions is worthy of high praise and was in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

Private Nathaniel R. Mason, 34671733, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Flanizoulle, Belgium, on 8 January 1945. Private Mason was in position with a bazooka along a road over which enemy tanks were attacking. Holding his fire until the tanks were very near, he then fired until his ammunition was exhausted succeeding in disabling one tank. His gallant stand in a precarious situation aided in gaining valuable time for the withdrawing infantry battalion to reorganize. His action was in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

III. MEDAL OF SOLDIER'S MEDAL -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Soldier's Medal is awarded to:

Private First Class Leo A. Dowler, 37611585, for heroism near Dusburg, Germany on 2 February 1945. Private First Class Dowler and two other men were returning across the Our River, after having spent the previous night on patrol in enemy territory, when they discovered that the ice in the river had melted and the current was swollen by flood water from the melting snow. Private First Class Dowler succeeded in swimming across, but the swift current caused his two companions to flounder. In spite of the risk involved, he twice reentered the icy waters to drag each of the two men to safety. His action required high courage and great skill and reflects credit upon himself and the service.

IV. MEDAL OF BRONZE STAR MEDAL (Posthumous) -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded posthumously to BY GO # 2 10 JUN 45

Private First Class Leo J. Beaupre, 31378940, for heroic action against the enemy at Flanirge, Belgium, on 9 January 1945. Private First Class Beaupre skillfully manned his mortar while under heavy enemy artillery, mortar and sniper fire and disabled an enemy tank. The tank crew was forced to abandon the vehicle and were killed upon doing so. Later in the same action another tank came too close to his position to bring it under effective fire with a mortar, who upon Private First Class Boaulieu attacked it with a bazooka and was killed in the ensuing duel. By his courage, alertness and aggressiveness, he aided greatly in thwarting a determined offensive action by enemy forces. His action was in accordance with the highest standards of military service.

Private Donald W. Brown, 39137484, for heroic action against the enemy at Flaniergo, Belgium, on 8 January 1945. In a fierce engagement with enemy forces for possession of the town, Private Brown disabled two enemy tanks by accurate fire from his bazooka. A third tank, attempting to drag away the two disabled vehicles, came under Private Brown's fire.不顾 his own safety, he exposed himself to fire at the third tank and in so doing drew counter fire from the enemy. Private Brown's courage and self-sacrifice are in keeping with the highest traditions of the service.

Citation AWARDED BY GO # 50 - 21 June 45.

* Private Earl E. Quillin, 37674449, for heroic action against the enemy at Flaniergo, Belgium, on 8 January 1945. Private Quillin aided in forestalling an enemy attack with supporting armor by attacking a tank with a light machine gun. He was severely wounded by machine and artillery fire from the tank, but pressed his assault forcing the tank to withdraw. Private Quillin's courage and performance was clearly above and beyond the call of duty and in keeping with the highest traditions of the service.

Citation awarded by GO # 57 - Aug. 22, 1945

* Private Stanley H. Tucker, 19170463, for heroic action against the enemy at Flaniergo, Belgium, on 8 January 1945. Although Private Tucker's job was not that of manning a bazooka, he volunteered as an assistant bazooka gunner to help meet an enemy armored attack. He left the security of a building and moved out to meet the attack. While engaged in a duel with a tank, Private Tucker was killed by the tank fire. His actions were clearly above and beyond the call of duty and in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

V. AWARD OF BRONZE STAR MEDAL -- Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded to:

Major Robert L. Rowan, 0317113, Infantry, for meritorious achievement during the period 1 January 1945 to 7 February 1945. While serving as a battalion executive officer during the campaign in Belgium and Luxembourg, Major Rowan distinguished himself by superior performance of duty. By his zealous devotion to duty and his fearless disregard for his personal safety, he contributed materially to the success of his battalion. He demonstrated superior leadership in aiding a unit of the battalion in occupying position under enemy fire. Throughout the action his conduct was in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

Captain Lorimer M. Schmidt, 0505658, Medical Corps, for meritorious achievement during the period 1 June 1944 to 7 February 1945. As battalion surgeon, Captain Schmidt made an outstanding contribution to the physical welfare, morale and military efficiency of his unit. He thoroughly trained the aid men of his command and inspired them to a high sense of duty which reflected in highly efficient conduct during combat. Both in training and in combat, his professional skill and tireless efforts to care for his men despite personal risk and hardship, endeared him to all officers and men of the battalion. His outstanding conduct was clearly above and beyond the call of duty and in keeping with the highest traditions of the armed forces.

First Lieutenant Robert C. Lorey, 01821348, Infantry, for heroic action against the enemy near Boisler, Belgium, on 26 January 1945. First Lieutenant Lorey assumed command of a rifle company made up of the remnants of three other companies which had been weakened by casualties. He quickly and effectively organized his men into an efficient fighting unit and led them in an attack against the enemy. By superior leadership he so directed his small force as to attain the objectives assigned and to defend them against enemy counter attacks. As a result of his heroic action, heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy and a material contribution made to the larger tactical plan of the unit to which his company was attached. His actions under difficult battle conditions were in keeping with the highest standards of military conduct.

First Lieutenant H. Edward Olcott, 01557763, Corps of Engineers, for heroic action against the enemy from 4 January 1945 to 6 January 1945, near Ronmont, Belgium. In action during the period cited, First Lieutenant Olcott demonstrated outstanding leadership when his platoon was surrounded by enemy tanks and infantry. Throughout the fight he fearlessly exposed himself to enemy fire checking the position and welfare of his men and aiding the wounded. He and his men fought gallantly covering the withdrawal of a battalion headquarters from a precarious position. His courageous devotion to duty was a vital factor in sternly deterring enemy attacks. His conduct was in keeping with the highest standards of military service.

First Sergeant Robert J. Timmons, 15014146, for heroic action against the enemy near Boisler, Belgium, on 26 January 1945. First Sergeant Timmons was the leader of a combat patrol having the mission of contacting an adjoining unit and occupying a dominating terrain feature. He brilliantly led his patrol in accomplishing its mission. His sound knowledge of tactics and aggressive action resulted in casualties to the enemy. He demonstrated marked efficiency in organizing his patrol in defensive positions after their objective had been taken. His actions were in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

Sergeant Arden O. Ripken, 33719158, for heroic and meritorious achievement during the period 2 January 1945 to 28 January 1945. During the period cited, Sergeant Ripken showed outstanding courage and leadership in directing the operations of his engineer squad on many dangerous missions. On one occasion his squad was surrounded by the enemy while acting as flank protection to an infantry unit, but as a result of superior leadership he and his men reached safety. While clearing an abatis near Escherange, Luxembourg, he was seriously wounded by an anti-personnel mine explosion. Throughout the campaign, Sergeant Ripken's leadership and personal courage inspired his men to their utmost capabilities. His actions were in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

Private Harry J. Ganto, 13154775, for gallantry in action against the enemy near Monty, Belgium, on 5 January 1945. Private Ganto volunteered to be a litter bearer to evacuate wounded personnel from two infantry companies when no aid men were available. Other attempts to reach the wounded had failed due to intense artillery fire. His actions resulted in the evacuation of seven seriously wounded at a time when rapid evacuation was imperative due to frigid weather. Private

General Orders Number 16, Headquarters 17th Airborne Division, AF 412, U. S. Army, 12 April 1945, continued:

Goato's deeds were clearly above and beyond the call of duty and reflect highly upon himself and his organization.

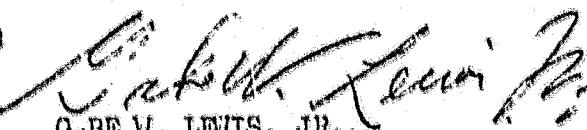

Private Merle E. Mathew, 37138375, for heroic action against the enemy at Flanierge, Belgium, on 8 January 1945. During the attack on the town, Private Mathew's battalion was attacked by five enemy tanks. All the companies were badly in need of bazooka ammunition. He volunteered to take a jeep to the rear supply point fully aware that the trip would take him through a mine field under intense enemy artillery and mortar fire. On the trip the jeep was blown up by a mine and Private Mathew seriously wounded. His brave effort however, was clearly above and beyond the call of duty and reflects highly upon himself and his organization.

Private William T. Peters, 39706009, for heroic action against the enemy at Flanierge, Belgium, on 7 January 1945. When an enemy tank attacked a machine gun platoon in Private Peters' company, he crossed dangerously open terrain to engage the tank with his bazooka. Having only three rounds of ammunition, he maneuvered to a position very near the enemy vehicle. Although seriously wounded, he pressed his attack and succeeded in routing the tank attack. By his courageous action he contributed materially to the continued success of his unit. His actions were in accordance with the highest standards of military conduct.

AWARD OF BRONZE STAR MEDAL

Under the provisions of AR 600-45, 22 September 1943, as amended, and pursuant to authority contained in Memorandum Number 34, Headquarters Ninth United States Army, 8 September 1944, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded to:

Captain George L. Streukens, 01313664, Infantry, for meritorious achievement during the period 15 April 1943 to 1 March 1945. As personnel adjutant of an infantry regiment during the period cited, Captain Streukens has distinguished himself by outstanding performance of duty. Both during training and combat, his consistently high standards in personnel work contributed materially to the smooth administration of the unit. His high sense of duty relieved company commanders and staff officers of the unit from much administrative detail permitting them to concentrate on the tactical operation of the unit. His work is worthy of the highest praise and was in keeping with the highest standards of military conduct.
