Award of Silver Star.....I
Corrected Award of Silver Star.....II

I. AWARD OF SILVER STAR. Under the provisions of Army Regulations 600-45, a Silver Star is awarded to each of the following named individuals for gallantry in action:

ARTHUR A. CHANDLER, 18002584, Staff Sergeant (then Sergeant), Company E, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 17 March 1945 in France. When his squad was pinned down by heavy machine gun and rifle fire during an advance up a wooded hill, Sergeant Chandler moved forward alone in the face of the enemy fire. Firing his rifle until his ammunition supply was exhausted, then an automatic rifle until it jammed and, finally, a pistol taken from a German prisoner, he advanced to the top of the hill, killing five Germans and capturing five prisoners. By his gallant and aggressive action he disorganized a strong enemy force and enabled the friendly troops to reorganize. Entered the Service from Durant, Oklahoma.

MARTIN W. PHILLIPS, 32665038, Sergeant, Company M, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 14 December 1944 in France. After Sergeant Phillips had successfully repulsed a strong assault with his machine gun, inflicting many casualties, the enemy directed heavy artillery fire on the position and renewed the attack. Sergeant Phillips reconnoitered a secondary position in the upper floor of a building a short distance to his rear and, as he returned to his weapon, surprised and killed a German who had infiltrated the friendly lines. After setting up his machine gun in the new position, he courageously moved forward alone in the face of the advancing enemy and, as bullets struck within inches of him, retrieved a supply of ammunition at the old gun position. Although an enemy tank opened fire on the building and shrapnel from direct hits ripped his clothing and damaged his weapon, he continued to fire until the position became untenable. He then covered the withdrawal of his two comrades before moving back himself. By his gallant and aggressive actions, he materially aided his company in reorganizing in new positions and halting the powerful enemy attack. Entered the Service from Mechanicville, New York.

EDM D B. TORRES, 36699639, Sergeant, Company C, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 2 February 1945 in France. When his squad was pinned down during a night attack by machine gun fire from the first house on the edge of a town, Sergeant Torres, the squad leader, began crawling toward the hostile position. He immediately became the target for enemy fire and bullets struck all around him, but he continued forward until he was within 25 yards of the machine gun. He threw a hand grenade through the window from which the enemy weapon was firing. He then rose to his feet and rushed the house, firing his rifle and throwing hand grenades as he advanced. As he reached the door, an enemy soldier fired point blank at him from the doorway, but he returned the fire and killed the German. He then searched the house and found that the machine gun had been disabled, two of its crew killed and the other three wounded by his accurate fire. His outstanding gallantry and daring aggressiveness enabled his platoon to continue its advance. Entered the Service from Chicago, Illinois.

CLARENCE A. SAMPLE, 35114002, Sergeant (then Private First Class), Company C, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 6 December 1944 in France. After alerting a tank destroyer crew to the imminence of a German counterattack, Private First Class Sample learned that communications with the outpost bearing the main force of the attack had been disrupted, and he unhesitatingly moved forward to contact the outpost. Upon reaching the position he immediately started back to repair the wire line. Suddenly fired on by an enemy soldier manning an automatic rifle, he crawled toward the direction of fire and, although wounded, forced the German to flee by throwing hand grenades at him. With communications restored, he started toward a second outpost position to repair another line which had been broken by shell fragments. Despite heavy enemy rifle and machine gun fire, he succeeded in repairing the line. His gallant actions aided greatly in repelling the enemy attack. Entered the Service from McCordsville, Indiana.

WILLIAM N. POTTORFF, 35143221, Corporal (then Private First Class), Company B, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 2 and 3 December 1944 in France. When a group of approximately 20 Germans approached a house occupied by a machine gun squad, Private First Class Pottorff, from his vantage point on the second floor balcony, spotted the hostile force. As the enemy soldiers attempted to encircle the position, he opened fire with his rifle and forced several of the Germans to withdraw. Others began firing a machine gun to cover two of the enemy in assaulting the house. Then, moving to a window on one side of the building and exposing himself to the enemy fire, he fired into the hostile machine gun emplacement, wounding the enemy gunner and forcing him and his companion to abandon the weapon. With this threat eliminated he took up a position from which he could protect the flank. His gallant actions were responsible for disorganizing the enemy attack. Entered the Service from Lapel, Indiana.

LAWRENCE R. ZINTEL, 35920049, Private First Class, Company C, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 22 September 1944 in France. During an attack on a town, the 1st Platoon was halted by intense machine gun and rifle fire from a ridge on the right flank, and six men were wounded. Without hesitation Private First Class Zintel ran 50 yards to an exposed position and opened fire with his rifle on the hostile force. As enemy bullets struck around him he maintained his fire and neutralized the hostile fire sufficiently to enable his comrades to remove the wounded and move to better defensive positions. As he attempted to rejoin his platoon, he was seriously wounded by machine gun bullets. His gallant and aggressive action enabled his comrades to withdraw from an untenable area to positions from which they were able to launch a successful attack on the town. Entered the Service from Akron, Ohio.

DAVID B. STRICKEL, 38096504, Private First Class, Company C, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 22 November 1944 in France. During an attack, the 3d Platoon was halted before a barbed wire entanglement and was pinned down by machine gun crossfire. The enemy then directed artillery and mortar fire into the area, inflicting several casualties. Private First Class Strickel, although painfully wounded by shrapnel, crawled forward in the face of the enemy fire to the barbed wire entanglement. As machine gun bullets struck within two feet of him and shells burst around him, he cut a path through the wire with a pair of wire cutters, thereby enabling his platoon to press the attack. After the objective had been taken, he was ordered to report to the aid station for treatment. On his way back he captured two enemy soldiers who were behind the friendly lines. Entered the Service from Perrin, Texas.

STANLEY J. SCHAF, 31346007, Sergeant, Company M, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 3 December 1944 in France. Sergeant Schab and his men were manning a machine gun in a house on the edge of a town when a large group of the enemy infiltrated around the building and cut their communication lines. Although hostile fire was coming through every window of the house, Sergeant Schab moved from man to man, firing his sub-machine gun from each position to encourage them. When a burst of automatic weapons fire knocked his gun from his hands, he picked the weapon up and continued to fire. One group of the enemy succeeded in reaching the yard, but Sergeant Schab killed two Germans and wounded another within five foot of the rear door. His vigorous and determined defense forced the enemy to withdraw. Later in the day, as he moved his outpost forward, he surprised and captured five Germans who were attempting to return to their own lines. When two other Germans tried to rescue their comrades, he killed one and wounded the second. Entered the Service from Westfield, Mass.

THOMAS G. KENLEY, 18200591, Technician Fourth Grade (then Technician Fifth Grade), Medical Detachment, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 21 and 22 November 1944 in France. The first scout of an infantry platoon was seriously wounded when the enemy suddenly opened fire from a distance of 200 yards with three machine guns, a 20mm cannon and several rifles. Although he became the target for the enemy fire and bullets struck within inches of him, Tec 5 Kenley, an aid man, ran 30 yards across open terrain to the wounded soldier, carried him to a place of safety and administered first aid. He then ran through the enemy fire and secured a litter jeep to evacuate his patient. During that night and the following day he exposed himself on numerous occasions to remove wounded men under direct enemy fire, and on one occasion he advanced to within 50 yards of an enemy machine gun to evacuate a casualty. By his gallant actions, he saved the lives of many of his comrades and inspired the respect and confidence of the men in his platoon. Entered the Service from Austin, Texas.

RALPH STOFLETH, 38023378, Technician Fifth Grade, Battery A, 131st Field Artillery Battalion. Entered the Service from Pryor, Oklahoma.

ALBERT HRABSACK, 33268200, Private First Class, Battery A, 131st Field Artillery Battalion, 23 to 30 October 1944. Entered the Service from Misc, Pennsylvania.

for gallantry in action from 23 to 30 October 1944 in France. When an infantry battalion was cut off and surrounded by the enemy, the forward observer's radio was the only means of communication with friendly forces. Throughout the seven days that followed, these men took turns in operating the radio. Although they had little food and were exposed to severe weather conditions and heavy enemy fire, they worked tirelessly transmitting fire missions and sending code messages which enabled the air force to parachute supplies to the unit. Their courageous and determined efforts materially aided the battalion in maintaining its position until other units could fight their way through and reestablish contact.

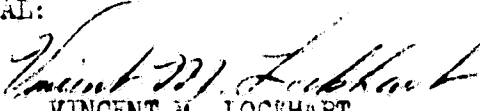

WILLIS R. ALLEN, 34854536, Private First Class, Company B, 143d Infantry Regiment, for gallantry in action on 21 November 1944 in France. Prior to an attack Private First Class Allen and two comrades were assigned the mission of reconnoitering a bridge across a river and a road junction beyond. As they approached the stream, the enemy opened fire on them with machine guns. Without hesitation Private First Class Allen, who was in the lead, returned the enemy fire and then, running toward the river's edge as bullets struck within inches of him, plunged into the icy water. He waited until his comrades joined him on the other side and, while they laid down a base of fire, he advanced to the road junction and began searching the area for mines. As he worked, he was suddenly confronted by a six-man German patrol. He immediately opened fire, killing one German and wounding another. He then threw a hand grenade which wounded a third German and forced the patrol to withdraw. By his courage and determination, he obtained information which enabled his company to make a successful attack on the following day. Entered the Service from Four Oaks, North Carolina.

II. CORRECTED AWARD OF SILVER STAR. So much of Section I, General Orders 37, this Headquarters, dated 19 February 1945, as pertains to Staff Sergeant ROBERT E. CASSADY, 36481128, as reads "for gallantry in action on 30 November 1944" is amended to read "for gallantry in action on 29 November 1944."

I. AWARD OF MERITORIOUS SERVICE UNIT PLAQUE. Under the provisions of War Department Circular No. 345, dated 23 August 1944, the 36th Infantry Division Band is awarded the Meritorious Service Unit Plaque for outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks.

36th Infantry Division Band, for outstanding devotion to duty in the performance of exceptionally difficult tasks from 14 January 1944 to 17 April 1945 in Italy, France and Germany. Throughout the long period since its activation, the 36th Infantry Division Band has been an extremely important factor in maintaining the high morale of the Division troops. Organized as a marching band for retreat ceremonies, parades, reviews and decorations, or as a 56 piece concert orchestra, the men have also performed as two separate smaller concert or marching bands, two dance bands and a string ensemble. From 1 October to 31 October 1944 and from 6 December 1944 to 17 April 1945 the band members worked in conjunction with the Special Service Company in setting up rest camps for the Division troops. In addition to their other duties, they operated hotels, clothing exchanges, baths, the post exchange, camp supply, officers and enlisted men's clubs and the APO, and arranged for additional entertainment and transportation. Largely through their tireless efforts, the Division rest camps were an outstanding success. Their skill, enthusiasm and conscientious devotion to duty contributed materially to the high spirits and esprit de corps of the Division troops during this long and difficult period of combat.
